Print, Manuscript and the Search for Order, 1450-1830 David McKitterick, 2003-07-10 See Publishing in Tsarist Russia Yukiko Tatsumi, Taro Tsurumi, 2020-02-20 According to Benedict Anderson the rapid expansion of print media during the late 1700s popularised national history and standardised national languages thus helping create nation states and national identities at the expense of the old empires Publishing in Tsarist Russia challenges this theory and by examining the history of Russian publishing through a transnational lens reveals how the popular press played an important and complex Imperial role while providing a soft infrastructure which the subjects could access to change Imperial order As this volume convincingly argues this is because the Russian language at this time was a lingua franca it crossed borders and boundaries reaching speakers of varying nationalities Russian publications then were able to effectively operate within the structure of Imperialism but as a public space they went beyond the control of the Tsar and ethnic Russians This exciting international team of scholars provide a much needed fresh take on the history of Russian publishing and contribute significantly to our understanding of print media language and empire from the 18th to 20th centuries Publishing in Tsarist Russia is therefore a vital resource for scholars of Russian history comparative nationalism and publishing studies Sweden in the Eighteenth-Century World Göran Rydén, 2016-03-09 Eighteenth century Sweden was deeply involved in the process of globalisation ships leaving Sweden's central ports exported bar iron that would drive the Industrial Revolution whilst arriving ships would bring not only exotic goods and commodities to Swedish consumers but also new ideas and cultural practices with them At the same time Sweden was an agricultural country to a large extent governed by self subsistence and for most wealth was created within this structure This volume brings together a group of scholars from a range of disciplinary backgrounds who seek to present a more nuanced and elaborated picture of the Swedish cosmopolitan eighteenth century Together they paint a picture of Sweden that is more like the one eighteenth century intellectuals imagined and help to situate Sweden in histories of cosmopolitanism of the wider world Participatory reading in late-medieval England Heather Blatt, 2018-05-11 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license This book traces affinities between digital and medieval media exploring how reading functioned as a nexus for concerns about increasing literacy audiences agency literary culture and media formats from the late fourteenth to the early sixteenth centuries Drawing on a wide range of texts from well known poems of Chaucer and Lydgate to wall texts banqueting poems and devotional works written by and for women Participatory reading argues that making readers work offered writers ways to shape their reputations and the futures of their productions At the same time the interactive reading practices they promoted enabled audiences to contribute to and contest writers burgeoning authority making books and reading work for everyone ShariE a in the Russian Empire Paolo Sartori, 2020-01-07 This book looks at how Islamic law was practiced in Russia from the conquest of the empire's first Muslim territories in the mid 1500s to the Russian Revolution of 1917 when the empire s Muslim population had exceeded 20 million It focuses on the training of Russian Muslim jurists the debates over legal authority within Muslim communities and the relationship between Islamic law and customary law Based upon difficult to access sources written in a variety of languages Arabic Chaghatay Kazakh Persian Tatar it offers scholars of Russian history Islamic history and colonial history an account of Islamic law in Russia of the same quality and detail as the scholarship currently available on Islam in the British and French colonial empires The Nature of the Page Joshua Calhoun, 2019-12-27 An innovative study of books and reading that focuses on papermaking in the Renaissance In The Nature of the Page Joshua Calhoun tells the story of handmade paper in Renaissance England and beyond For most of the history of printing paper was made primarily from recycled rags so this is a story about using old clothes to tell new stories about plants used to make clothes and about plants that frustrated papermakers best attempts to replace scarce natural resources with abundant ones Because plants like humans are susceptible to the ravages of time it is also a story of corruption and the hope that we can preserve the things we love from decay Combining environmental and bibliographical research with deft literary analysis Calhoun reveals how much we have left to discover in familiar texts He describes the transformation of plant material into a sheet of paper details how ecological availability or scarcity influenced literary output in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and examines the impact of the various colors and qualities of paper on early modern reading practices Through a discussion of sizing the mixture used to coat the surface of paper so that ink would not blot into its fibers he reveals a surprising textual interaction between animals and readers He shows how we might read an indistinct stain on the page of an early modern book to better understand the mixed media surfaces on which readers writers and printers recorded and revised history Lastly Calhoun considers how early modern writers imagined paper decay and how modern scholars grapple with biodeterioration today Exploring the poetic interplay between human ideas and the plant animal and mineral forms through which they are mediated The Nature of the Page prompts readers to reconsider the role of the natural world in everything from old books to new smartphones Instructional Writing in English, 1350-1650 Carrie Griffin,2019-05-20 Exploring the nature of utilitarian texts in English transmitted from the later Middle Ages to c 1650 this volume considers textual and material strategies for the presentation and organisation of written knowledge and information during the period In particular it investigates the relationship between genre and material form in Anglophone written knowledge and information with specific reference to that which is usually classified as practical or utilitarian Carrie Griffin examines textual and material evidence to argue for the disentangling of hitherto mixed genres and forms and the creation of new texts as unexplored effects of the arrival of the printing press in the late fifteenth century Griffin interrogates the texts at the level of generic markers frameworks and structures and studies transmission and dissemination in print the nature of and attitudes to printed books and the audiences they reached in order to determine shifting attitudes to books and texts Learning and Information from Manuscript to Print makes a significant contribution to the study of so called non literary textual genres and their transmission circulation and reception in manuscript and in early modern printed books Loath to Print Nicole Howard, 2022-04-05 The author explains that scientists had many concerns about putting their work into print when the printing press made that possible This book explores both their attitudes and their strategies for navigating The Oxford Handbook of the History of the Book in Early Modern England Adam Smyth, 2023 How the publishing world were books in early modern England made circulated sold stored read marked altered preserved and destroyed The Oxford Handbook to the History of the Book in Early Modern England provides a stimulating account of the very newest work in the field and an exploration of how new thinking might develop Written by scholars working at the cutting edge of the subject from the UK and North America the volume combines lucidity scholarly expertise intellectual precision and an imaginative structure that will enable contributors to show why the history of the book matters This volume analyses in a lively manner the nature and role of the book in early modern England and also considers critically how we can talk about the history of book Concepts of Creativity in Seventeenth-century England Rebecca Herissone, Alan Howard, 2013 The first genuinely interdisciplinary study of creativity in early modern England In the seventeenth century the concept of creativity was far removed from most of the fundamental ideas about the creative act notions of human imagination inspiration originality and genius that developed in the eighteenthand nineteenth centuries Instead in this period students learned their crafts by copying and imitating past masters and did not consciously seek to break away from tradition Most new material was made on the instructions of apatron and had to conform to external expectations and basic tenets that we tend to take for granted such as the primacy and individuality of the author were apparently considered irrelevant in some contexts. The aim of this interdisciplinary collection of essays is to explore what it meant to create buildings and works of art music and literature in seventeenth century England and to investigate the processes by which such creations came into existence Through a series of specific case studies the book highlights a wide range of ideas beliefs and approaches to creativity that existed in seventeenth century England and places them in the context of the prevailing intellectual social and cultural trends of the period In so doing it draws into focus the profound changes that were emerging in the understanding of human creativity in early modern society transformations that would eventually lead to the development of a more recognisably modern conception of the notion of creativity The contributors work in and across the fields of literary studies history musicology history of art and history of architecture and their work collectively explores many of the most fundamental questions about creativity posed by the early modern English creative arts REBECCA HERISSONE is Head of Music and Senior Lecturer in Musicology at the University of Manchester ALAN HOWARD is Lecturer in Music at the University of East Anglia and Reviews Editor for Eighteenth Century Music Contributors Linda Phyllis Austern Stephanie Carter John Cunningham Marina Daiman Kirsten Gibson Raphael Hallett Rebecca Herissone Anne Hultzsch Freyja Cox Jensen Stephen Rose Andrew R Walkling Amanda Eubanks Winkler James A Winn Samuel Richardson and the Art of Letter-Writing Louise

May, 2023 English Renaissance indigenous natural worlds Manuscript Culture The Paper Revolution shows how the advent of paper as a cheap and lasting medium of writing helped to create a new type of scribal culture one distinct from its Medieval counterpart in Renaissance England Market and the Transition to Print in Late Medieval Brittany Diane E. Booton, 2016-12-05 Manuscripts Market and the Transition to Print in Late Medieval Brittany surveys the production and marketing of non monastic manuscripts and printed books over 150 years in late medieval Brittany from the accession of the Montfort family to the ducal crown in 1364 to the duchy's formal assimilation by France in 1532 Brittany as elsewhere experienced the shift of manuscript production from monasteries to lay scriptoria and from rural settings to urban centers as the motivation for copying the word in ink on parchment evolved from divine meditation to personal profit Through her analysis of the physical aspects of Breton manuscripts and books parchment and paper textual layouts scripts and typography illumination and illustration Diane Booton exposes previously unexplored connections between the tangible cultural artifacts and the society that produced acquired and valued them Innovatively Booton's discussion incorporates archival research into the prices wages and commissions associated with the manufacture of the works under discussion to shed new light on their economic and personal value Textual and Visual Representations of Power and Justice in Medieval France Rosalind Brown-Grant, Anne D. Hedeman, Bernard Ribémont, 2016-12-05 Thoroughly interdisciplinary in approach this volume examines how concepts such as the exercising of power the distribution of justice and transgression against the law were treated in both textual and pictorial terms in works produced and circulated in medieval French manuscripts and early printed books Analysing texts ranging from romances political allegories chivalric biographies and catalogues of famous men and women through saints lives mystery plays and Books of Hours to works of Roman canon and customary law these studies offer new insights into the diverse ways in which the language and imagery of politics and justice permeated French culture particularly in the later Middle Ages Organized around three closely related themes the prince as a just ruler the figure of the judge and the role of the queen in relation to matters of justice the issues addressed in these studies such as what constitutes a just war what treatment should be meted out to prisoners what personal qualities are needed for the role of lawgiver and what limits are placed on women's participation in judicial processes are ones that are still the subject of debate today. What the contributors show above all is the degree of political engagement on the part of writers and artists responsible for cultural production in this period With their textual strategies of exemplification allegorization and satirical deprecation and their visual strategies of hierarchical ordering spatial organization and symbolic allusion these figures aimed to show that the pen and paintbrush could aspire to being as mighty as the sword wielded by Lady Justice herself Book Parts Dennis Duncan, Adam Smyth, 2019-06-27 What would an anatomy of the book look like There is the main text of course the file that the author proudly submits to their publisher But around this hemming it in on the page or enclosing it at the front and back of the book there are dozens of other texts page numbers and running heads copyright statements and errata lists each possessed of particular conventions each with their own lively histories To consider these paratexts recalling them from the margins letting them take centre stage is to be reminded that no book is the sole work of the author whose name appears on the cover rather every book is the sum of a series of collaborations It is to be reminded also that not everything is intended for us the readers There are sections that are solely directed at others binders librarians lawyers parts of the book that if they are working well are working discreetly like a theatrical prompt whispering out of the audience s ear shot Book Parts is a bold and imaginative intervention in the fast growing field of book history it pulls the book apart Over twenty two chapters Book Parts tells the story of the components of the book from title pages to endleaves from dust jackets to indexes and just about everything in between Book Parts covers a broad historical range that runs from the pre print era to the digital bringing together the expertise of some of the most exciting scholars working on book history today in order to shine a new light on these elements hiding in plain sight in the books we all read Tibetan Printing: Comparison, Continuities, and Change, 2016-05-30 In Tibetan Printing Comparisons Continuities and Change the editors publish the results of the workshop Printing as an Agent of Change in Tibet and beyond held at Pembroke College Cambridge in November 2013 This is the first study of the social and cultural history of Tibetan book technology that takes materials living traditions and cross cultural comparisons into consideration Bringing together leading experts from different disciplines it discusses the introduction of printing in Tibetan societies in the context of Asian book cultures with an eye to the questions raised by the study of the European history of printing This title is available online in its entirety in Open Access Contributors are Tim Barrett Alessandro Boesi Peter Burke Michela Clemente Hildegard Diemberger Dorje Gyeltsen Franz Karl Ehrhard Helmut Eimer Johan Elverskog Camillo Formigatti Imre Galambos Agnieszka Helman Wazny Tomasz Wazny Sherab Sangpo Kawa Peter Kornicki Leonard van der Kuijp Stefan Larsson Ben Nourse Anuradha Pallipurath Porong Dawa Paola Ricciardi Tsering Dawa Sharshon Sam van Schaik Cristina Scherrer Schaub Marta Sernesi Pasang Wangdu Comparative Map History and "the History of Cartography" Matthew H. Edney, 2025-07-10 The apparently centuries old field of the history of cartography was invented after 1950 through incomplete historiographies by leading map historians This monograph uses an empirically grounded analysis of the ways in which early maps have been systematically studied since the early 1800s to offer an innovative account of the practices and institutions of comparative map history in support of Western imperialism and nationalism and of how the field was reconfigured as the core of a newly idealized discipline of the history of cartography
