Prisoner Ate A Healthy Breakfast:

The Practice of Execution in Canada Ken Leyton-Brown, 2010-04-10 It is easy to forget that the death penalty was an accepted aspect of Canadian culture and criminal justice from Confederation until 1976 The Practice of Execution in Canada is not about what led some to the gallows and others to escape it Rather it examines how the routine rituals and practices of education can be seen as a crucial social institution Drawing on hundreds of case files Ken Leyton Brown shows that from trial to interment the practice of execution was constrained by law and tradition Despite this however the institution was not rigid Criticism and reform pushed executions out of the public eye and in so doing stripped them of meaningful ritual and made them more vulnerable to criticism Comprehensive and absorbing this groundbreaking study is for anyone who wants a deeper understanding of contemporary debates on capital punishment Eating Behind Bars Leslie Soble, Alex Busansky, Aishatu R. Yusuf, Impact Justice, 2025-10-28 A vivid exploration of the food crisis affecting millions of incarcerated Americans Eating Behind Bars sheds new light on the power and peril of what's on our plates This eye opening book will convince you that everyone absolutely everyone is deserving of nourishing food that affirms their humanity and dignity Jos Andr's chef and humanitarian Prisons and jails are America's hidden food deserts where hunger and malnourishment coexist with shocking levels of food waste because much of what is served is so awful it ends up in the trash Breakfast lunch and dinner are tense and humiliating when incarcerated people are forced to eat in silence finish meals within minutes and disciplined with food deliberately worse than the standard fare This disturbing portrait came to light in 2020 when the nonprofit Impact Justice released the first ever national examination of food in prison catapulting the issue from the margins of prison litigation to the center of national conversations about mass incarceration and food justice This landmark book digs deeper revealing a systemic drive to cut costs at the expense of health and decency It is also a story of resistance and hope chronicling how incarcerated people and their allies are fighting back as well as exploring farm to tray programs chef led initiatives and other ways to make food in prison a source of healing and bring dignity back to the table , The Profound Benefits of a Stint in Prison Andrew Hamilton, 2024-07-30 Andrew Hamilton thought he had life sorted beautiful fianc e a popular pizza restaurant two beloved dogs and a thriving side business supplying massive quantities of magic mushrooms and LSD to eager Sydneysiders Then one night police raided his Surry Hills home and it all came crashing down Andrew's predicament didn't sink in at first mainly because he was on a three day cocaine bender and just wanted to sleep it off When he was transferred to Parklea Correctional Centre his prison inspired existential dilemma began The Profound Benefits of a Stint in Prison is a sometimes confronting more often hilarious insider's view to life inside Andrew left prison a changed man determined to turn his life around This is the story of what happens when max denial collides with the reality of max security Charleston's Trial Daniel J. Crooks Jr., Douglas W. Bostick, 2019-03-04 A harrowing in depth account of a black man's wrongful conviction and execution for a white man's murder in Jim Crow South Carolina June 1910 Charleston

South Carolina A Jewish merchant Max Lubelsky lay murdered in his clothing store on Upper King Street Daniel Nealy Duncan the black man eventually convicted of the crime was arrested several weeks later as an angry mob called for his lynching What followed became the story of one man s quiet protestations of innocence in the face of overwhelming condemnation by the white community Drawing on local historical records and detailed court transcripts Charleston historians Danny Crooks and Doug Bostick give an intimate account of the proceedings as well as provide the historical background on the vices violence and victims of the Holy City during the Jim Crow era Join them as they reveal the tale of a man whom justice passed by in the hot Southern summer Seven Wives and Seven Prisons; Or, Experiences in the Life of a Matrimonial Monomaniac. A True Story L. A. Abbott,2025-08-22 Reproduction of the original The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage The Secret Life of the Lawman's Wife Barbara J. Alderman,2006-11-30 During an era when many women concentrated on hearth and home thousands of women quietly and without pay served in law enforcement They organized administered presented reports to county commissioners prepared for inspections comforted victims disciplined unruly inmates fought with escapees rode shotgun with their husbands as backup and raised children tended gardens and kept house They risked their lives every day and some paid the ultimate price This is their story The office of county sheriff has existed in America since 1634 Between 1800 and 1960 families of the sheriff lived in or near the jail All family members young and old worked alongside the lawman to fulfill the required duties without additional pay The mom and pop jail was truly a family business After the middle of the 20th century fewer families carried on this tradition as counties modernized and jails became professionalized Foul Deeds and Suspicious Deaths in London's East End Geoffrey Howse,2005-01-01 London s East End has been associated with some of the worst elements of human depravity where foul deeds and murder were commonplace and the area s notoriety was added to by the horrific murders committed by Jack the Ripper For centuries the East End s notoriety for foul deeds has remained unsurpassed in the annals of crime in this country What the Judge Saw Sir Edward Abbott Parry,1912 The Last Outlaws Katherine Biber,2025-07-02 Brilliantly reconstructed from contemporary narratives The Last Outlaws is both a gripping work of historical true crime and a richly revealing examination of our nation at its birth The Chant of Jimmie Blacksmith meets Killing for Country In the winter of 1900 Wiradjuri man Jimmy Governor and his brother Joe murdered nine people across New South Wales in a rampage that caused panic in the colony on the cusp of nationhood Triggered it seems by a racist incident they killed men women and children evading a vast manhunt until they were eventually captured Joe was shot in the open Jimmy survived to be put on trial Thus the last man to be outlawed in the colony was hanged in the new nation meeting his end in Darlinghurst Gaol as the Federation decorations were taken down The brothers names still resonate partly due to Thomas Keneally s novel The Chant of Jimmie Blacksmith and Fred Schepisi s subsequent film but their story has remained distorted and obscure Undertaken with the co operation of the Governors descendants Katherine Biber s compelling reconstruction of events from the murders themselves to Jimmy s eventual execution brings this extraordinary story back to life In doing so it sheds fresh vivid light on the country that inspired and reacted to the murders Not only did many of the lawyers and politicians involved also play key roles in Federation but the case revealed in microcosm the psychology of the nascent nation its attitudes to land and race its anxiety about a wider First Nations insurrection its obsession with paperwork and the emerging sciences of neuroanatomy and criminology its nepotism religiosity sweeping police powers and sensationalist media More powerfully than the story of Ned Kelly or the Anzacs the fate of Jimmy Governor illuminates the origin story of the Australian nation Populated by a cast of extraordinary characters and compelling detail The Last Outlaws brings the energy of true crime into the telling of history offering an electric new understanding of both our past and our present What the Judge Saw; Being Twenty-Five Years in Manchester by One Who Has Done It Edward Abbott
