

The background of the cover is a painting of a child with dark, curly hair, wearing a light-colored dress, standing in a garden. A wooden picket fence is in the middle ground, and the background is a soft, hazy landscape with trees and a bright sky. The overall style is impressionistic and painterly.

Jonathan Wiesen, 2003-01-14 In the aftermath of World War II and the Holocaust West German industrialists faced a major crisis in their public image With mounting revelations about the use of forced and slave labor the Aryanization of Jewish property and corporate profiteering under National Socialism industrialists emerged from the war with their national and international reputations in tatters In this groundbreaking study Jonathan Wiesen explores how West German business leaders remade and marketed their public image between 1945 and 1955 He challenges assumptions that West Germans and industrialists in particular were silent about the recent past during the years of denazification and reconstruction Drawing on sources that include private correspondence popular literature and a wealth of unpublished materials from corporate archives Wiesen reveals how German business leaders attempted to absolve themselves of responsibility for Nazi crimes while recasting themselves as socially and culturally engaged public figures Through case studies of individual firms such as Siemens and Krupp Wiesen depicts corporate publicity as a telling example of postwar selective memory In his introduction and conclusion Wiesen considers the recent establishment of a multibillion dollar fund to provide financial compensation to the victims of industrial exploitation during World War II This acknowledgment by German industry of its ongoing responsibility for its past crimes underscores the contemporary relevance of Wiesen's study

Correspondence Relating to the War with Spain and Conditions Growing Out of the Same ... United States. Adjutant-General's Office, 1902 Epistolary Practices William Merrill Decker, 2000-11-09 Letters have long been read as primary sources for biography and history but their performative fictive and textual dimensions have only recently attracted serious notice In this book William Merrill Decker examines the place of the personal letter in American popular and literary culture from the colonial to the postmodern period After offering an overview of the genre Decker explores epistolary practices that coincide with American experiences of space settlement separation and reunion He discusses letters written by such well known and well educated persons as John Winthrop Benjamin Franklin Thomas Jefferson Abigail and John Adams Nathaniel Hawthorne Margaret Fuller Henry David Thoreau Samuel Clemens Henry James and Alice James but also letters by persons who except in their correspondence were not writers at all indentured servants New England factory workers slaves soldiers and Western pioneers Individual chapters explore the letter writing of Ralph Waldo Emerson Emily Dickinson and Henry Adams three of America's most ambitious accomplished and theoretically astute letter writers Finally Decker considers the ongoing transformation of letter writing in the electronic age Conduct Books for Girls in Enlightenment France Nadine Bérenguier, 2011 At the same time that secular and religious authorities suppressed women's efforts to read conduct books written specifically for girls and young unmarried women emerged as a new genre Nadine Berenguier offers an in depth analysis of this development in eighteenth century France situating conduct books in the context of Enlightenment concerns about improving education in order to reform society Her study contributes to our understanding of how print culture in eighteenth century France gave shape to a specific social subset of new readers modern girls

Correspondence and American Literature, 1770-1865 Elizabeth Hewitt, 2004-11-25 Elizabeth Hewitt uncovers the centrality of letter writing to antebellum American literature She argues that many canonical American authors turned to the epistolary form as an idealised genre through which to consider the challenges of American democracy before the Civil War

The letter was the vital technology of social intercourse in the nineteenth century and was adopted as an exemplary genre in which authors from Crèvecoeur and Adams through Jefferson to Emerson Melville Dickinson and Whitman could theorise the social and political themes that were so crucial to their respective literary projects They interrogated the political possibilities of social intercourse through the practice and analysis of correspondence Hewitt argues that although correspondence is generally only conceived as a biographical archive it must instead be understood as a significant genre through which these early authors made sense of social and political relations in the nation Correspondence: 1919-1973 Martin Heidegger, Karl Löwith, 2021-11-04 This volume consists of over one hundred epistolary exchanges between Martin Heidegger and one of his earliest students Karl L with who became a renowned and accomplished philosopher in his own right The letters span a period of just over fifty years and range from casual to philosophical in tone The more philosophically oriented letters shed important light on the ideas and writings of both Heidegger and L with while the more casual letters provide insight into Heidegger the teacher the man and the friend as well as into L with the devoted but reflectively critical student By providing previously untranslated materials this volume contributes to a greater understanding of the lives and the work of these two crucially important philosophers Additionally through the various bibliographical and cultural details that are disclosed along the way this volume contributes to a greater understanding of German intellectual and cultural history during the span of its most challenging and devastating years Mapping Mass Mobilization O. Onuch, 2014-12-09 Through a paired comparison of two moments of mass mobilization in Ukraine and Argentina focusing on the role of different actors involved this text maps out a multi layered sequence of events leading up to mass mobilization Women Writing Home, 1700-1920 Susan Clair Imbarrato, 2024-07-31 Assembles a range of women's letters from the former British Empire These letters written home are not only historical sources they are also representations of the state of the Empire in far off lands sent home to Britain and occasionally other centres established as home Indexicality Peter Juul Nielsen, María Sol Sansiñena, 2024-06-04 The book offers the first full scale focused treatment of linguistic indexicality as a tool for analysis and explanation of the organization of linguistic structures The book demonstrates the application of the concept of indexicality in the description of a broad range of linguistic phenomena from the internal workings of morphology via relations within syntactic constructions to lexical and grammatical elements designed to hook on to features outside the clause in the interactional context The book presents studies of the role of indexicality in synchrony and diachrony with descriptive cases from a number of languages from diverse language families Part I focuses on the general nature of linguistic indexicality in the larger perspective of the semiotics of language including examinations of domain straddling indexical functions Part II focuses on the role of indexicality in diachrony and the way it enters into the mechanisms of change including examinations of semiotic shifts from indexical to symbolic function and vice versa The book is relevant for researchers and students in historical and synchronic linguistics from a variety of linguistic frameworks with an interest in the role of semiotics in
