Race And Practice In Archaeological Interpretation:

Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation Charles E. Orser, Jr., 2013-04-19 Scholars who investigate race a label based upon real or perceived physical differences realize that they face a formidable task The concept has been contested and condoned debated and denied throughout modern history Presented with the full understanding of the complexity of the issue Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation concentrates on the archaeological analysis of race and how race is determined in the archaeological record Most archaeologists even those dealing with recent history have usually avoided the subject of race yet Charles E Orser Jr contends that its study and its implications are extremely important for the science of archaeology Drawing upon his considerable experience as an archaeologist and using a combination of practice theory as interpreted by Pierre Bourdieu and spatial theory as presented by Henri Lefebvre Orser argues for an explicit archaeology of race and its interpretation The author reviews past archaeological usages of race including a case study from early nineteenth century Ireland and explores the way race was used to form ideas about the Mound Builders the Celts and Atlantis He concludes with a proposal that historical archaeology cast as modern world archaeology should take the lead in the archaeological analysis of race because its purview is the recent past that period during which our conceptions of race developed

Handbook of Postcolonial Archaeology Jane Lydon, Uzma Z Rizvi, 2016-07 The contributors to this volume themselves from six continents and many representing indigenous and minority communities and disadvantaged countries suggest strategies to strip archaeological theory and practice of its colonial heritage and create a discipline sensitive to its inherent inequalities

Anglo-Saxon Studies in Archaeology and History 14 Sarah Semple, Howard Williams, 2007-10-10 Volume 14 of the Anglo Saxon Studies in Archaeology and History series is dedicated to the archaeology of early medieval death burial and commemoration Incorporating studies focusing upon Anglo Saxon England as well as research encompassing western Britain Continental Europe and Scandinavia this volume originated as the proceedings of a two day conference held at the University of Exeter in February 2004 It comprises of an Introduction that outlines the key debates and new approaches in early medieval mortuary archaeology followed by eighteen innovative research papers offering new interpretations of the material culture monuments and landscape context of early medieval mortuary practices Papers contribute to a variety of ongoing debates including the study of ethnicity religion ideology and social memory from burial evidence The volume also contains two cemetery reports of early Anglo Saxon cemeteries from Cambridgeshire

Modes of Production and Archaeology Robert M. Rosenswig, Jerimy J. Cunningham, 2017-05-15 This volume challenges the historical materialistic non capitalist modes that are used by archaeologists as not all that useful and instead considers how social labor is organized to transform nature into culturally refined and useful resources and how this can either maintain or change a culture Rather than describe what a society is using the theoretical framework of Marx and materialism a mode of production approach explores what a society does in a more dynamic sense

The Routledge

Handbook of Global Historical Archaeology Charles E. Orser, Jr., Andres Zarankin, Pedro Funari, Susan Lawrence, James Symonds, 2020-07-26 The Routledge Handbook of Global Historical Archaeology is a multi authored compendium of articles on specific topics of interest to today's historical archaeologists offering perspectives on the current state of research and collectively outlining future directions for the field The broad range of topics covered in this volume allows for specificity within individual chapters while building to a cumulative overview of the field of historical archaeology as it stands and where it could go next Archaeological research is discussed in the context of current sociological concerns different approaches and techniques are assessed and potential advances are posited This is a comprehensive treatment of the sub discipline engaging key contemporary debates and providing a series of specially commissioned geographical overviews to complement the more theoretical explorations This book is designed to offer a starting point for students who may wish to pursue particular topics in more depth as well as for non archaeologists who have an interest in historical archaeology Archaeologists historians preservationists and all scholars interested in the role historical archaeology plays in illuminating daily life during the past five centuries will find this volume engaging and enlightening Karl Marx, Anthropologist

Thomas C. Patterson, 2020-05-31 After being widely rejected in the late 20th century the work of Karl Marx is now being reassessed by many theorists and activists Karl Marx Anthropologist explores how this most influential of modern thinkers is still highly relevant for Anthropology today Marx was profoundly influenced by critical Enlightenment thought He believed that humans were social individuals that simultaneously satisfied and forged their needs in the contexts of historically particular social relations and created cultures Marx continually refined the empirical philosophical and practical dimensions of his anthropology throughout his lifetime Assessing key concepts from the differences between class based and classless societies to the roles of exploitation alienation and domination in the making of social individuals Karl Marx Anthropologist is an essential guide to Marx's anthropological thought for the 21st century Archaeologies of Cultural Contact Timothy Clack, Marcus Brittain, 2022-08-11 Archaeologies of Cultural Contact undertakes an exploration of cultural transfer with a particular focus on the combination and modification of both material and behavioural attributes under conditions of contact From globalization and displacement to cultural legitimization and identity politics the modern world is characterised by and articulated through dynamics of contact and transfer This book recognises that creolization ethnogenesis hybridity and syncretism are analytical concepts and social processes relevant not only to the postcolonial contexts of the twentieth century but also to wide ranging instances where contact is made between cultural groups Indeed in representing the re working of pre existing cultural elements they were crucial and ever present features of the human past Ranging in their analytical frame scale and geographical and temporal location the chapters in this volume demonstrate the diverse understandings that can be gained from explorations into the material remains of past contact exposing and overcoming various limitations of competing models of cultural change They permit insights into not only cultural change and difference

but also the processes of appropriation resistance redefinition and incorporation Together the contributions articulate the perspectives that concern practices in relations to people places and things and note how power dynamics mediate social interactions and sustain and constrain forms of cultural contact This book will be of interest to researchers and students in archaeology as well those from cognate disciplines particularly anthropology and history People and Things James M. Skibo, Michael Brian Schiffer, 2008-03-12 The study of the human made world whether it is called artifacts material culture or technology has burgeoned across the academy Archaeologists have for centuries led the way and today offer investigators myriad programs and conceptual frameworks for engaging the things ordinary and extraordinary of everyday life This book is an attempt by practitioners of one program Behavioral Archaeology to furnish between two covers some of our basic principles heuristic tools and illustrative case studies Our greater purpose however is to engage the ideas of two competing programs agency practice and evolution in hopes of initiating a dialog We are convinced that there is enough overlap in goals interests and conceptions among these programs to warrant guarded optimism that a more encompassing more coherent framework for studying the material world can result from a concerted effort to forge a higher level synthesis However in engaging agency practice and evolution in Chap 2 we are not reticent to point out conflicts between Behavioral Archaeology and these programs This book will appeal to archaeologists and anthropologists as well as historians sociologists and philosophers of technology Those who study science technology society interactions may also encounter useful ideas Finally this book is suitable for upper division and graduate courses on anthropological theory archaeological theory and the study of technology Colonial and Postcolonial Change in Mesoamerica Rani T. A Historical Archaeology of Early Spanish Colonial Urbanism in Central America William R. Fowler, 2022-01-04 In this milestone work William Fowler uses archaeology history and social theory to show that the establishment of cities was essential to Spanish colonialism Fowler draws upon decades of archaeological research on the landscape built environment and architecture of Ciudad Vieja a sixteenth century site located in present day El Salvador and the best preserved Spanish colonial city in Latin America Fowler compares Ciudad Vieja to other urban sites in the region and to the tradition of urbanism in early modern Spain to determine how the Spanish grid plan layout was modified and implemented in the Americas Using extensive archival material Fowler describes how this layout reflected and perpetuated power structures that benefited the Spanish although the city's Indigenous population was greater in number Fowler analyzes recorded interactions between colonists Indigenous peoples and enslaved Africans to demonstrate the ways the cityscape affected the relationships among individuals and cultural groups Offering an unparalleled view into a critical moment in Latin American history this book offers new ways of looking at urbanism and colonialism as intertwined forces in the emergence of the early modern world

Archaeologies of Violence and Privilege Christopher N. Matthews, Bradley D. Phillippi, 2020-11-15 In Archaeologies of Violence and Privilege archaeologists Christopher N. Matthews and Bradley D. Phillippi bring together a collection of authors who document the ways in which past social formations rested on violent acts and reproduced violent social and cultural structures

Archaeology of the Chinese Fishing Industry in Colonial Victoria Bowen, Alister, 2012-11-01 During the 1850s and 1860s Chinese immigrants played a major role in the development of the fishing industries in Australia Prior to their involvement the industry was hampered by the problems posed by the transportation of fish to market It was common for whole catches of fish to putrefy before they could reach their destination The influx of Chinese gold miners who relied on fish as a dietary staple increased the demand that prompted the creation of many Chinese fish curing establishments Chinese fish curers in colonial Australia fished but also purchased large quantities of fish creating a new and reliable market for European fishermen Fish curing businesses supplied their compatriots on the goldfields with fresh and cured fish These establishments which made sums of money far greater than any European fishing operation provided hundreds of jobs for both European and Chinese Australians in the fishing industry Very few pieces of documentary evidence along with archaeological records from one colonial period Chinese fish curing camp in Victoria remain They reveal a fascinating story of how Chinese fish curers successfully dominated Australia's fishing industry how they lived worked organised themselves participated in colonial society and the reasons why they suddenly disappeared

A Primer on Modern-World Archaeology Charles E. Orser Jr, 2014-12-31 Despite its slow development historical archaeology has been steadily maturing over the past three decades Archaeologists today are exploring daily life in the post 1500 world at an increasing pace investigating sites throughout the world frequently locales where historical archaeology was never before practiced using a variety of complex theories and perspectives Given the explosion of worldwide research it is now possible to create a new historical archaeology a modern world archaeology that explicitly explores modern life in all its variations extending from local to global scales of analysis Focused on four overarching elements of the post Columbian world colonialism Eurocentrism racialization and capitalism A Primer on Modern World Archaeology is designed to introduce this new kind of historical archaeology to undergraduates graduate students and everyone interested in the material expressions of how the present world came to be Major perspectives are presented in accessible language and study questions are provided at the end of each chapter

Historical Archaeology of the Delaware Valley, 1600-1850 Richard Veit, David Orr, 2014-02-01 The Delaware Valley is a distinct region situated within the Middle Atlantic states encompassing portions of Delaware Pennsylvania New Jersey and Maryland With its cultural epicenter of Philadelphia its surrounding bays and ports within Maryland and Delaware and its conglomerate population of European settlers Native Americans and enslaved Africans the Delaware Valley was one of the great cultural hearths of early America The region felt the full brunt of the American Revolution briefly served as the national capital in the post Revolutionary period and sheltered burgeoning industries amidst the growing pains of a young nation Yet despite these distinctions the Delaware Valley has received less scholarly treatment than its colonial equals in New England and the Chesapeake region In Historical Archaeology of the Delaware Valley 1600 1850 Richard Veit and David Orr bring together fifteen essays that represent the wide range of cultures experiences and industries that make this region distinctly American in its diversity From historic period American Indians living in a rapidly changing world to an archaeological portrait of Benjamin Franklin from an eighteenth century shipwreck to the archaeology of Quakerism this volume highlights the vast array of research being conducted throughout the region Many of these sites discussed are the locations of ongoing excavations and archaeologists and historians alike continue to debate the region s multifaceted identity The archaeological stories found within Historical Archeology of the Delaware Valley 1600 1850 reflect the amalgamated heritage that many American regions experienced though the Delaware Valley certainly exemplifies a richer experience than most it even boasts the palatial home of a king Joseph Bonaparte elder brother of Napoleon and former King of Naples and Spain This work thoroughly based on careful archaeological examination tells the stories of earlier generations in the Delaware Valley and makes the case that New England and the Chesapeake are not the only cultural centers of colonial America

International Handbook of Historical Archaeology Teresita Majewski, David Gaimster, 2009-06-07 In studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today

Social Archaeologies of Trade and Exchange Alexander A Bauer, Anna S Agbe-Davies, 2016-06-16 This volume focuses on the anthropological concept of trade as a fundamentally social activity concerned not only with the movement of goods but also on the social context and consequences of that exchange The distinguished contributors discuss trade on a range of scales from a solitary confinement cell to trans oceanic networks in settings around the world and over the past 3000 years They address themes such as exchange as a communicative act the ways in which exchange transforms the relationship between people and things the significance of agency and power in contexts of trade and how sites of consumption and discard speak to processes of exchange The volume merges traditional archaeological concerns about trade and exchange with more contemporary issues of agency identity and social meaning Ethnic Ambiguity and the African Past Francois G Richard, Kevin C MacDonald, 2016-07-01 The collective inquiries in this volume address ethnicity in ancient Africa as social fact and political artifact along numerous dimensions Is ethnicity a useful analytic What can archaeology say about the kinds of deeper time questions which scholars have asked of identities in Africa Eleven authors engage with contemporary anthropological historical and archaeological perspectives to examine how ideas of self understanding belonging and difference in Africa were made and unmade They examine how these intersect with other salient domains of social experience states landscapes discourses memory technology politics and power The various chapters cover broad geographic and temporal ground following an arc across Senegal Mali Nigeria Cameroon the Democratic Republic of Congo Rwanda and East Africa spanning from prehistory to the colonial period Archaeologies of African American Life in the Upper Mid-Atlantic Michael J. Gall, Richard F. Veit, 2017-10-17 New scholarship provides insights into the archaeology and cultural history of African American life from a collection of sites in the Mid Atlantic
