Shadowtime History And Representation In Hardy Conrad And George Eliot:

Shadowtime Jim Reilly,1994 Shadowtime Jim Reilly,2013-12-19 In Shadowtime Jim Reilly explores how the great Victorian and Edwardian works of literature can be read in the light of current radical historiography which foresees the extinction not just of art but of history itself This is an outstanding combination of original readings and critical survey Shadowtime is ideal material for anyone studying nineteenth century realism modernism and the history of aesthetics

Memory and History in George Eliot Hao Li,2000-04-18 This book explores the interrelations between communal memory and the sense of history in George Eliot s novels by focusing on issues such as memory and narrative memory and oblivion memory and time and the interactions between personal communal and national memories Hao Li offers a fresh critical reading informed by major nineteenth century theories and argues for a reappraisal of George Eliot s complex understanding of the dialects of memory and history an understanding that both integrates and transcends the positivist and the romantic historical approaches of her time

Conrad and Theory ,2023-11-27 Series Editor Allan Simmons For submissions and a template please visit www.josephconradsociety.org conradian Joseph Conrad Andrew Michael Roberts,2014-05-12 Joseph Conrad is a key figure in modernist fiction whose innovative work engages with many of the crucial philosophical moral and political concerns of the twentieth century This collection of major critical readings of his work is arranged according to the issues which each critic addresses issues which are of crucial importance and in many cases remain controversial within contemporary literary theory and criticism Following an opening section on the critical tradition indicating how the study of Conrad's work has been politicised since the 1970s there are sections on Narrative Textuality and Interpretation Imperialism Gender and Sexuality Class and Ideology and Modernity Within each section two or three critical excerpts offer contrasting and complementary accounts of the fiction while the headnotes to each piece and the introduction place these excerpts within the wider critical debate clarifying for the reader both the theoretical issues and the interpretation of Conrad's fiction A glossary of terms and a bibliography categorised by critical approach complete a volume which will provide an invaluable resource for students of Conrad and twentieth century literature as well as other readers of Conrad's work

Narrative Hospitality in Late Victorian Fiction Rachel Hollander, 2013 Bringing together poststructuralist ethical theory with late Victorian debates about the morality of literature this book reconsiders the ways in which novels engender an ethical orientation or response in their readers explaining how the intersections of nation family and form in the late realist English novel produce a new ethics of hospitality Hollander reads texts that both portray and enact a unique ethical orientation of welcoming the other a narrative hospitality that combines the Victorians commitment to engaging with the real world with a more modern awareness of difference and the limits of knowledge While classic nineteenth century realism rests on a sympathy based model of moral relations novels by authors such as George Eliot Thomas Hardy and Olive Schreiner present instead an ethical recognition of the distance between self and other Opening themselves to the other in their very structure and narrative form the visited texts both represent and theorize the ethics of hospitality anticipating twentieth century philosophy's recognition of the limits of sympathy As colonial conflicts nationalist anxiety and the intensification of the woman question became dominant cultural concerns in the 1870s and 80s the problem of self and other known and unknown began to saturate and define the representation of home in the English novel This book argues that in the wake of an erosion of confidence in the ability to understand that which is unlike the self a moral code founded on sympathy gave way to an ethics of hospitality in which the concept of home shifts to acknowledge the permeability and vulnerability of not only domestic but also national spaces Concluding with Virginia Woolf's reexamination of the novel's potential to educate the reader in negotiating relations of alterity in a more fully modernist moment Hollander suggests that the late Victorian novel embodies a unique and previously unrecognized ethical mode between Victorian realism and a post World War I ethics of modernist form

Lost Causes Jason B. Jones, 2006 What if we didn't always historicize when we read Victorian fiction Lost Causes shows that Victorian writers frequently appear to have a more supple and interesting understanding of the relationship between history causality and narrative than the one typically offered by readers who are burdened by the new historicism As a return to these writers emphasizes the press of modern historicism deforms Victorian novels encouraging us to read deviations from strict historical accuracy as ideological bad faith By contrast Jason B. Jones argues through readings of works ranging from The French Revolution to Middlemarch that literature's engagement with history has to be read otherwise Perhaps perversely Lost Causes suggests simultaneously that psychoanalysis speaks pressingly to the vexed relationship between history and narrative and that the theory is neither a nor anti historical Through his readings of Victorian fiction addressing the recent past Jones finds in psychoanalysis not a set of truths but rather a method for rhetorical reading ultimately revealing how its troubled account of psychic causality can help us follow literary language s representation of the real Victorian narratives of the recent past and psychoanalytic interpretation share a fascination with effects that persist despite baffling inexplicable or absent causes In chapters focusing on Thomas Carlyle Charles Dickens Charlotte Bront and George Eliot Lost Causes demonstrates that history can carry an ontological as well as an epistemological charge one that suggests a condition of being in the world as well as a way of knowing the world as it really is From this point of view Victorian fiction that addresses the recent past is not a failed realism as it is so frequently claimed but rather an exploration of possibility in history

Trial by Ordeal Edward Neill,1999 Trial by Ordeal takes a sharp look at central aspects of the critical reception of Thomas Hardy It demonstrates how critical appropriations of Hardy s work often provide a simplifying conventional or conservative image of the writer which a sophisticated view of his creative intentions by no means confirms Edward Neill discusses the dangers inherent in interpreting Hardy s writings in terms of his life the limitations of criticism that views his work as nostalgic reaction approaches to the poetry and the critical response to Jude the Obscure

Thomas Hardy Julian Wolfreys,2009-09-30 No other major author of the nineteenth century has arguably produced as much critical activity as

Thomas Hardy This timely addition to the Critical Issues series explores the various philosophical views of critics with close textual analysis of Hardy's novels and with reference to his poetry Conrad and Gide Russell West-Pavlov, 2023-04-17

This study examines the relations between the work of the Polish English novelist Joseph Conrad and the French Nobel Prize winner Andr  Gide Gide's translation of Conrad's Typhoon is read as a work belonging paradoxically to the oeuvres of both writers where their respective preoccupations meet with illuminating results Focusing also on other major works by Conrad and Gide the study suggests that the intertextual and personal interaction between these two masters of 20th Century fiction was governed by processes of identification and projection conflict between master and disciple and a consequent resistant reading of texts and confrontation with linguistic and cultural heterogeneity Issues of translation theory psychoanalysis and intertextuality are brought together to offer a glimpse of a possible dialogue between literature and ethics This study will be of interest to students and researchers in English French and Comparative Literature Re-reading P o Baroja and English Literature Katharine Murphy, 2004

This volume investigates a broad range of structural connections between P o Baroja's early fiction and the novels of his contemporaries in England and Ireland with prominence given to Joseph Conrad Thomas Hardy E M Forster and James Joyce Starting from the premise that Spain has been neglected in studies which assess the evolution of the European novel at the turn of the twentieth century and challenging the insular concept of the Generation of 1898 the author reassesses the relationship between Baroja and English literature Particular emphasis is given to renderings of consciousness the role and identity of the artist European landscapes and questions of form genre and representation in the novels under scrutiny The book produces new readings of Baroja in the context of early twentieth century English fiction Picturing the Past Rosemary Mitchell, 2000-07-13

This monograph is a wide ranging and sophisticated analysis of representations in text and image of the English past between 1830 and 1870 It consists of a series of inter related case studies of illustrated history books ranging from editions of David Hume's History of England to W H Ainsworth's The Tower of London 1840 It contributes to present debates on nationalism highlighting the complex and variable nature of cultural constructions of identity Simultaneously it offers an overall interpretation of historiographical change in early and mid Victorian Britain focusing in particular on the transition from picturesque reconstructions of the English past to the scientific approaches of the professional historian Genuinely interdisciplinary Picturing the Past presents new perspectives on traditional studies of Victorian historiography literature and illustration It explores relationships between text and image author illustrator and publisher in the production of illustrated historical texts often drawing on neglected material in publishers' archives The tendency to analyse text and image fiction and non fiction popular and elite publications in isolation from each other is challenged in the interests of a more complex and nuanced portrait of the middle class Victorian historical consciousness Colonial Odysseys David Adams, 2018-08-06

Works such as Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness and Lord Jim Virginia Woolf's The Voyage Out E M

Forster's A Passage to India and Evelyn Waugh's A Handful of Dust explore the relationship between Britain and its colonies when the British Empire was at its height. David Adams observes that because of their structure and specific literary allusions they also demand to be read in relation to the epic tradition. The elegantly written and powerfully argued Colonial Odysseys focuses on narratives published in English between 1890 and 1940 in which protagonists journey from the familiar world of Europe to alien colonial worlds. The underlying concerns of these narratives, Adams discovers, are often less political or literary than metaphysical: in each of these fictions a major character dies as a result of the journey, inviting reflection on the negation of existence. Repeatedly imaginative encounters with distant, uncanny colonies produce familiar, insular presentations of life as an odyssey with death as the home port. Expanding postcolonial and Marxist theories by drawing on the philosophy of Hans Blumenberg, Adams finds in this preoccupation with mortality a symptom of the failure of secular culture to give meaning to death. This concern, in his view, shapes the ways modernist narratives reinforce or critique imperial culture; the authors project onto British imperial experience their anxieties about the individual's relation to the absolute.
