Richard McKelvey, 2000-01-15 Since the early 1930s MacPhail has been a big name in baseball Three generations of this one family have provided leadership innovation and vision for the sport Larry Lee and Andy MacPhail representing very different eras of American life have each addressed baseball's needs and opportunities in his own way. During the 1930s and 1940s Larry MacPhail served as general manager and vice president of the Cincinnati Reds, executive vice president and president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and part owner and president of the New York Yankees. He was posthumously inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1978. Larry's son Lee worked for 13 years in the Yankee organization before serving as general manager and president of the Baltimore Orioles. Lee later served two five-year terms as president of the American League and two years as president of the Player Relations Committee. Lee was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1998, becoming the only son ever to join his father in the Hall. Lee's son Andy worked in management positions for the Chicago Cubs, the Houston Astros, and the Minnesota Twins before becoming president and CEO of the Cubs.

A Short Course in International Contracts Karla C.

Shippey, 2003. Resource added for the Global Business program 101381.

Local Government Innovation Robin A.

Johnson, Norman Walzer, 2000-09-30. Nationally recognized scholars and practitioners examine opportunities in which services traditionally provided by local governments are offered by the private sector through a contract or are transferred to a private business completely. Many large U.S. cities have contracted services for many years. With the movement to rightsize governments in recent years, there has been renewed interest by local governments in similar ventures. Privatization in its many forms is now seen as a viable alternative to traditional ways of providing public services and can bring substantial benefits to residents. With greater accountability being demanded and pressures on local officials to hold the line on or reduce taxes, efforts to find innovative service delivery methods will probably increase. Cities such as Atlanta, Indianapolis, and Charlotte are examples showing that contracts with private businesses can work to benefit all parties. Local officials must move ahead cautiously, and not all attempts at privatization or contracting have succeeded. Some cities, after an evaluation, have decided to provide services with municipal employees. The main issues underlying privatization decisions will be addressed conceptually so that practitioners and academics benefit from a review of the current thinking on the issues. At the same time, exemplary practices and case studies are included so that readers can understand how privatization and managed competition have been implemented in local governments. Special attention is paid to administrative questions that may arise during the implementation process. For example, ways in which cities have worked with employees who fear displacement because of the privatization process are described. The book breaks new ground by including references to recent innovations in public-private partnerships and describing how privatization may evolve in the future.
