With an explanatory intr. by the author James Henthorn Todd, 1836 Consuming Happiness Mehita Iqani, 2023-06-27 This book offers a collection of scholarly writing on the meanings of happiness in relation to consumption The concept of happiness in relation to consumption deserves critical attention While administrative marketing scholars might take for granted the notion that consumption and brand engagement produces positive affects in consumers such as enjoyment and thrill more analysis and theoretical exploration are needed to shed light on what that satisfaction and pleasure means in the context of an increasingly unjust and unequal world This question is particularly pressing in terms of exploring consumer cultures in the global south The chapters in this volume explore how material practices link to structures of power and exploitation Taken together they offer nuanced insight into what notions of a good and fulfilling life mean both to individual consumers and to the societies in which they participate especially when those societies are characterised by inequality and poverty alongside wealth and elite consumption This collection places the spotlight on consumption practices that is the various forms of social action including communication and marketing that are implemented in everyday life in relation to the market economy with and through it This book will be of great value to students and scholars who are interested in the everyday practices of consumption within a range of fields such as business and management sociology media and cultural studies The chapters in this book were originally published in Consumption Markets Culture The Environmental Unconscious in the Fiction of Don DeLillo Elise Martucci, 2012-09-10 This book presents an ecocritical reading of DeLillo s novels in an attempt to mediate between the seemingly incompatible influences of postmodernism and environmentalism Martucci argues that although DeLillo is responding to and engaging with a postmodern culture of simulacra and simulation his novels do not reflect a postmodernist theory of the end of nature Rather his fiction emphasizes the lasting significance of the natural world and alerts us to the dangers of destroying it In order to support this argument Martucci examines DeLillo s novels in the context of traditional American literary representations of the environment especially through the lens of Leo Marx s discussion of the conflict between technology and nature found in traditional American literature She demonstrate that DeLillo s fiction explores the way in which new technologies alter perceptions and mediate reality to a further extent than earlier technologies however she argues that he keeps the material world at the forefront of his novels thereby illuminating the environmental implications of these technologies Through close readings of Americana The Names White Noise and Underworld and discussions of postmodernist and ecocritical theories this project engages with current criticism of DeLillo postmodernist fiction and environmental criticism Bankers' Magazine, Journal of the Money Market and Commercial Digest ,1870
