Researching Language And Literacy In Social Context:

Researching Language and Literacy in Social Context David Graddol, Janet Maybin, Barry Stierer, 1994 This volume shows how experienced researchers have approached investigations of talk or reading and writing behaviour and what they have discovered about the social and cultural embeddedness of language and literacy practices Literacy Practices Mike Baynham, 1995 It examines the social context of literacy reviewing important theoretical sources and providing illustrative case studies going on to review current linguistics perspectives on literacy with illustrative texts Mike Baynham also includes a critical review of ideas on reading and writing development from a social practice perspective and concludes with a discussion of issues in researching literacy as social practice Literacy Practices will be of interest to students of applied linguistics language education cultural studies and adult education as well as literary theorists and researchers and anthropologists Language, Literacy, and Learning in Educational Practice Barry Stierer, Janet Maybin, 1994 Language and literacy are highly contested areas of the curriculum Questions of what should be taught how it should be taught and who should control such decisions are increasingly subjected to public scrutiny debate and challenge in a manner which is often more reflection of competing social and political values than of theory and research evidence In recent years there has been a rapid development of new conceptual frameworks for understanding language literacy and learning from such diverse fields as anthropology cultural studies social psychology and critical linguistics The papers in this collection have been chosen because they will help readers to consider ways in which these new developments in theory and research may be applied to everyday practice BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Gendered Speech in Social Context Janet Holmes, 2000 Researching Education for Social Justice in Multilingual Settings Jean Conteh, 2017-12-14 Researching Education for Social Justice in Multilingual Settings provides innovative guidance on carrying out qualitative research in education by offering a wide range of examples of research projects with a focus on the methodologies and data collection strategies used Rather than decontextualised how to advice the book offers insights into the complexities of actually carrying out research in multilingual settings In this practical guide examples of real life projects are framed by chapters providing a theoretical background to the principles of ethnography and to the processes and practices of qualitative research focusing on data generation and collection strategies Case study chapters offer a rich understanding of the detail of qualitative research in education from the points of view of people who have engaged in it Moreover the book promotes understanding of current research that aims to make a difference to pupils students teachers and families whose diverse languages and cultural experiences are not fully valued in society and in mainstream education contexts Pedagogical features that support private study and use on courses include a glossary of key terms guiding questions for reading at the start of each section and discussion questions to promote reflection as well as suggestions for further reading Researching Education for Social Justice in Multilingual Settings is a supportive guide to the principles of ethnography and the processes of qualitative research for all those wishing to investigate complex problems in multilingual education settings Language and Literacy in Social Practice Open University,1993 Compiled for use in the Open University MA course E825 The 15 articles sample the ideas over the past decade on the importance of social factors in language and literacy development They include theoretical and ethnographic accounts cross cultural and historical perspectives and explorations of the political aspects and the discourses within which language and literacy are discussed Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Student Writing Theresa M. Lillis,2002-01-04 Student Writing presents an accessible and thought provoking study of academic writing practices Informed by composition research from the US and academic literacies studies from the UK the book challenges current official discourse on writing as a skill Lillis argues for an approach which sees student writing as social practice The book draws extensively on a three year study with ten non traditional students in higher education and their experience of academic writing Using case study material including literacy history interviews extended discussions with students about their writing of discipline specific essays and extracts from essays Lillis identifies the following as three significant dimensions to academic writing Access to higher education and to its language and literacy representational resources Regulation of meaning making in academic writing Desire for participation in higher education and for choices over ways of meaning in academic writing Student Writing access regulation desire raises questions about why academics write as they do who benefits from such writing which meanings are valued and how on what terms outsiders get to be insiders and at what costs Computers and Talk in the Primary Classroom Rupert Wegerif,Peter Scrimshaw,1997 This text looks at how computers are being used in primary classrooms and how they could be used better Its three sections focus upon how do we investigate learning through talk around computers What affects the quality of group work around computers What can teachers do to improve this Competing and Consensual Voices Patrick J. M. Costello,Sally Mitchell,1995 Examines the theory and practice of argument in primary secondary and tertiary education The book s coverage includes the nature forms and functions of argument and its role in teaching and critical analyses of the practice of argument and suggested ways to develop it in educating contexts

Resources in Education ,1995-05 Language and the Joint Creation of Knowledge Neil Mercer,2019-04-25 In the World Library of Educationalists series international experts themselves compile career long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces extracts from books key articles salient research findings major theoretical and practical contributions so the world can read them in a single manageable volume Readers will be able to follow the themes and strands and see how their work contributes to the development of the field Language and the Joint Creation of Knowledge draws on the most prominent writing of Neil Mercer covering his ground breaking and critically acclaimed work on the role of talk in education and on the relationship between spoken language and cognition The text explores key themes relating theoretical ideas to research evidence and to practical educational situations that improve children s lives Offering students and researchers a clear accessible and up to date account of a sociocultural perspective on the relationship between spoken language and cognition it explains one of the key themes in Neil Mercer's work that humans have uniquely evolved the capacity to think together or interthink Offering a crucial insight into the work of Neil Mercer this selection showcases why his approach has become the dominant paradigm in educational research and why it is increasingly influential in the psychology of teaching and learning This unique collection of published articles and chapters which represent the key themes and range of his research over the last 40 years will be of interest to all followers of his work and any reader interested in the role of language in education

Researching Widening Access to Lifelong Learning Beth Crossan, Jim Gallacher, Michael Osborne, 2004-07-15 This authoritative volume is a truly international contribution to the worldwide debate on how best to widen access to lifelong learning The first section of the book comprises research studies from around the world reflecting the diversity of contexts in which widening access is researched and considers issues central to the access debate including different understandings of the concept of access organisational and structural change curriculum development entry policies performance and retention and labour market outcomes The second section illustrates diverse and innovative methodological approaches that have been employed by researchers in the field and considers the range of approaches available Given the growing concern around the world on the need to combat social exclusion and to improve economic circumstances through access to lifelong learning this book acts as a unique reference point informing the ongoing debate exploring the relationships between research policy and practice
