

Respiration in Aquatic Organisms

- The evolution of larger, more complicated aquatic organisms capable of high metabolic rates required additional solutions to those already mentioned
- Many of these organisms employ specialized respiratory structures called gills.
    - Gills are basically areas of the body modified for gas exchange by virtue of being either highly evaginated or highly invaginated.
    - The large surface area allows for rapid gas exchange
  - the problem that remains is getting that  $O_2$  to the tissues that need it.
  - For this, many organisms have evolved circulatory systems
    - pump an internal fluid through the gills to obtain  $O_2$
    - then transport the  $O_2$  to metabolizing tissue.
    - Often pigments, probably derived from pigments used in the electron transport chain, are used to carry the  $O_2$  in the circulatory fluid, or blood.
