Restoration Ecology And Sustainable Development:

Restoration Ecology and Sustainable Development Krystyna M. Urbanska, Nigel R. Webb, Peter J. Edwards, 1997-12-11

The problem of ecosystem damage is international a recent estimate suggests that 43% of the earth's terrestrial surface has a reduced capacity to supply benefits to humanity because of recent direct impacts of land use The discipline of restoration ecology aims to provide a scientifically sound basis for the reconstruction of degraded or destroyed ecosystems and to produce self supporting systems which are to some degree resilient to subsequent damage This book looks at the main issues with a broad perspective using case studies where appropriate and considering the economic and social context in which restoration is carried out It is essential to reverse current trends by developing and using our knowledge of how to restore ecosystems The book is therefore important for scientists professionals in ecological restoration landscape architects and environmental engineers and more generally for those involved in sustainable development

Ecological Restoration in International Environmental Law Anastasia Telesetsky, An Cliquet, Afshin Akhtar-Khavari, 2016-12-01 Human activities are depleting ecosystems at an unprecedented rate In spite of nature conservation efforts worldwide many ecosystems including those critical for human well being have been damaged or destroyed States and citizens need a new vision of how humans can reconnect with the natural environment With its focus on the long term holistic recovery of ecosystems ecological restoration has received increasing attention in the past decade from both scientists and policymakers Research on the implications of ecological restoration for the law and law for ecological restoration has been largely overlooked This is the first published book to examine comprehensively the relationship between international environmental law and ecological restoration While international environmental law IEL has developed significantly as a discipline over the past four decades this book enquires whether IEL can now assist states in making a strategic transition from not just protecting and maintaining the natural environment but also actively restoring it Arguing that states have international duties to restore this book offers reflections on the philosophical context of ecological restoration and the legal content of a duty to restore from an international law European Union law and national law perspective The book concludes with a discussion of several contemporary themes of interest to both lawyers and ecologists including the role of private actors protected areas and climate change in ecological restoration

Restoring Natural Capital James Aronson, Suzanne J. Milton, James N. Blignaut, 2012-09-26

How can environmental degradation be stopped How can it be reversed And how can the damage already done be repaired The authors of this volume argue that a two pronged approach is needed reducing demand for ecosystem goods and services and better management of them coupled with an increase in supply through environmental restoration Restoring Natural Capital brings together economists and ecologists theoreticians practitioners policy makers and scientists from the developed and developing worlds to consider the costs and benefits of repairing ecosystem goods and services in natural and socioecological systems It examines the business and practice of restoring natural capital and seeks to establish common ground between economists and ecologists with respect to the restoration of degraded ecosystems and landscapes and the still broader task of restoring natural capital The book focuses on developing strategies that can achieve the best outcomes in the shortest amount of time as it considers conceptual and theoretical issues from both an economic and ecological perspective examines specific strategies to foster the restoration of natural capital and offers a synthesis and a vision of the way forward Nineteen case studies from around the world illustrate challenges and achievements in setting targets refining approaches to finding and implementing restoration projects and using restoration of natural capital as an economic opportunity Throughout contributors make the case that the restoration of natural capital requires close collaboration among scientists from across disciplines as well as local people and when successfully executed represents a practical realistic and essential tool for achieving lasting sustainable development

Ecological Restoration Law Afshin Akhtar-Khavari, Benjamin J. Richardson, 2019-01-25 Ecological restoration is as essential as sustainable development for the health of the biosphere Restoration however has been a low priority of most countries environmental laws which tend to focus narrowly on rehabilitation of small discrete sites rather than the more ambitious recovery of entire ecosystems and landscapes Through critical theoretical perspectives and topical case studies this book's diverse contributors explore a more ambitious agenda for ecological restoration law Not only do they investigate current laws and other governance mechanisms they also consider the philosophical and methodological bases for the law to take ecological restoration more seriously Through exploration of themes relating to time space geography semiotics social justice and scientific knowledge this book offers innovative and critical insights into ecological restoration law

Restoration of Ecosystems - Bridging Nature and Humans Stefan Zerbe, 2023-02-13 In this interdisciplinary textbook which bridges the gap between the natural and social sciences both the scientific principles of restoration ecology and practical aspects of ecosystem restoration are comprehensively presented The diversity of land use types with a focus on Central Europe is highlighted and case studies of practical restoration projects are presented The textbook offers students who deal with the environment as well as scientists and practitioners a profound and up to date but also critical overview of the state of knowledge This book opens up the broad spectrum of degraded ecosystems of Central European natural and cultural landscapes In further chapters marine ecosystems and their restoration as well as development potentials and the limits of restoration are discussed in more detail The ecological fundamentals are expanded through an interdisciplinary perspective taking into account environmental ethics sociology anthropology and economics In addition to an up to date overview of the various areas and fields of activity in restoration ecology and ecosystem restoration the textbook provides a valuable basis for studies science and practice The students also receive assistance in searching for literature and critical fact analysis and the lecturers on teaching formats and interdisciplinary approaches to discussion in restoration ecology
