The Portfolio Approach to Assessment Emily Grady, 1992 The shortcomings of standardized testing as the predominant form of student assessment in the United States are reviewed and the use and potential benefits of portfolio assessment are explored Children's educational experiences and their future job prospects and standards of living are being decided by test scores Moreover these test scores may be unfair or biased against some students Instead of more tests we need a new attitude toward assessment one that encourages a variety of assessments Portfolio assessment through collections of student works can be an encompassing format for this new philosophy Before considering what a portfolio should contain it is important to establish the purpose of the assessment The experiences of Vermont illustrate the development of a portfolio assessment with consistent standards Examples of guidelines for mathematics and language arts portfolios make it clear that it is possible to establish consistent practices. It is also necessary to reflect on the portfolio occasionally using self evaluations and direct questions or profiles. Educators also find portfolios useful tools for preservice teachers. Portfolio assessment can be the framework for a new curricular structure that integrates assessment into the learning loop. SLD Middle School Teaching Richard Dean Kellough, Noreen G. Restructuring Early Childhood Education Michael F. Kelley, Elaine Surbeck, 1991. The first of six national educational goals proclaimed by President Bush to be accomplished by the year 2000 is that all children will start school ready to learn. This booklet examines this goal in terms of what it will take to ensure that all children develop the capacities or readiness to be successful in school. In the introduction, it is asserted that for children and families to succeed in the lifelong process of learning, early childhood experiences both in and out of the home must be as personalized as possible. The first chapter looks at the early childhood years and the concept of school readiness. The second chapter explains why restructuring rather than reform of early childhood education is needed. A framework for providing comprehensive intervention services is discussed in the third chapter. The fourth chapter profiles programs in Missouri, Minnesota, and California that seek to broaden the role of schools in early childhood education. The fifth chapter examines curriculum issues intrinsic to a restructuring of early childhood education. The sixth chapter deals with appropriate methods for child assessment. In a concluding section, it is argued that services for children and families be coordinated and that early childhood education be restructured to become personalized and family centered. HTH
