Rethinking Intelligence Joe L. Kincheloe, Shirley R. Steinberg, Leila Villaverde, 2013-08-21 Arguing that a comprehensive theoretical overhaul of mainstream educational psychology is long overdue Rethinking Intelligence suggests criteria upon which new models can be developed The contributors reconceptualize educational psychology through a democratic vision of inclusivity that takes into account the culturally inscribed nature of research They offer a theoretical and historical critique of how intelligence is measured in ways that exclude or ignore other criteria By doing so they hope to encourage educators and researchers to imagine new forms of intelligence education and life

The Praeger Handbook of Education and Psychology Raymond Horn, Joe Kincheloe, 2006-12-30 Cognition mind counseling psychology lesson plans learning styles and Vygotsky are just a few of the many subjects discussed in this exciting work Educators students counselors parents and others will find new understanding as they read and browse How does the immigrant experience affect student outcomes What are the effects of poverty on standardized testing How can a teacher or parent develop study skills in the special needs learner What is the effect of the school environment on students What are the larger issues at work in educating students of diverse races cultures and classes This work a rethinking of school psychology will be an essential resource for anyone who is interested in teaching and learning It combines effective traditional knowledge with contemporary insights into the nature of today s schools and students

Standards and Schooling in the United States Joe L. Kincheloe, Danny Weil, 2001-12-07 In this definitive three volume set top scholars illuminate the historical social cultural political administrative psychological and philosophical issues behind the standards debate The nation s demand for more sophisticated knowledge workers who can easily access information using computers requires that they be able to interpret that information judge and assess it and give it meaning In short students must be taught how to think Is education as it now exists in the United States a mere memorization and regurgitation of facts If so is this a pseudo education In this three volume encyclopedia a 100 page introductory overview and 41 essays by top scholars present a new vision of education and educational rigor in a variety of classroom contexts and subject areas Essays cover the most important issues in education today the purpose of education regulating teachers school accreditation testing nontraditional schools bilingual education justice and education the politics of education learning theory and cognition and opposition to standards and more The encyclopedia also includes a historical timeline of educational reform and an annotated bibliography Empathic Intelligence Roslyn Arnold,2005 Arnold defines in an engrossing and practical manner the hallmarks of educational leadership Power Dynamics in Education Chetan Sinha,2023-03-24 The educational domain provides a platform for social mobility and social change This book investigates the new National Educational Policy NEP to understand how it can bring social justice and transform education in a meaningful way to match the imagination of students from diverse groups The author discusses matters of emotion and authority in education and argues for the need for educational psychology which takes into account the self conscious emotions of students and teachers The book reflects on important topics such as critical pedagogy dehumanization power in education through bricolage and legitimacy in education all within the context of critical educational psychology Through research and observations it discusses the socialpsychological aspect of stereotyping othering and prejudices in the educational domain The book will be of interest to students teachers and researchers working on education school education sociology of education and educational psychology It will also be useful for academicians educators policymakers schoolteachers and those interested in the politics of education Appropriating the Discourse of Social Justice in Teacher Education Marta P. Baltodano,2015-03-05 In recent years there have been strong movements of reforms in teacher education The most common are intended to adjust teacher preparation to the standardization demands of NCLB Race to the Top and CAEP to make teacher education more accountable These reforms carried out in the name of excellence accountability diversity and inclusion constitute subliminal efforts to appropriate the possibilities for real transformation in teacher education However in spite of the pervasive rhetoric to identify diversity and social justice with the accountability and standardization movement there are endeavors to create transformations in teacher preparation that are authentic These deliberate changes seek to counteract the neoliberal vision of school reform and strive to reclaim the original goals of public education represented in a vision of rigorous content knowledge democratic schooling and social justice Appropriating the Discourse of Social Justice in Teacher Education is a testimony to that kind of authentic reform It documents the transformational efforts of a teacher education program that infused the preparation of its teachers with a vision of education as a public good This book validates the claim that the process of reproduction of social inequalities in teacher education is not a perfect static process but on the contrary the real seeds of transformation within teacher education departments are abundant The Praeger Handbook of Urban Education Philip M. Anderson,Kecia Hayes,Joe Kincheloe,Karel Rose,2006-03-30 Maintaining that urban teaching and learning is characterized by many contradictions this work proposes that there is a wide range of social cultural psychological and pedagogical knowledge urban educators must possess in order to engage in effective and transformative practice It is necessary for those teaching in urban schools to be scholar practitioners rather than bureaucrats who can only follow rather than analyze understand and create Ten major sections cover the myriad issues of urban education as it exists today

Handbook of Positive Psychology and Indian Thought Systems Geetika Dutta,Girishwar Misra,Shalini Gupta,2025-06-18 This handbook explores the intersection of positive psychology and Indian thought systems in education to create a generation of future citizens who are not only well educated but also happy and well rounded It discusses mental hygiene well being flow resilience gratitude happiness mindfulness and happiness curriculum With contributions from esteemed scholars and practitioners this book offers comprehensive coverage of positive psychology Indian thought systems and their applications in education It bridges the gap between theory and practice providing readers with the knowledge and tools to create positive educational experiences that promote well being resilience and happiness The book is a valuable academic resource for practitioners and students in psychology educational psychology and education It is also helpful for parents educators and anyone interested in promoting well being and eternal happiness in our educational institutions and society

Whatever Happened to Inclusion? Phil Smith,2010 Law policy and practice in the United States has long held that students with disabilities including those with intellectual disabilities have the right to a free and appropriate public education in a non restrictive environment Yet very few of these students are fully included in general education classrooms Educational systems use loopholes to segregate students universities regularly fail to train teachers to include students and state regulators fail to provide the necessary leadership and funding to implement policies of inclusion Whatever Happened to Inclusion reports on the inclusion of students with intellectual disabilities from national and state perspectives outlining the abject failure of schools to provide basic educational rights to students with significant disabilities in America The book then describes the changes that must be made in teacher preparation programs policy funding and local schools to make the inclusion of students with intellectual disabilities a reality

Creating Learning without Limits Mandy Swann,Alison Peacock,Susan Hart,Mary Jane Drummond,2012-04-16 This book tells the story of how one primary school community worked to build a learning environment that is inclusive humane and enabling for everybody a place free from the damaging effects of fixed ability thinking and practices Drawing on compelling accounts of everyday life in the school it describes how in just a few years the school once in special measures grew into a thriving community with distinctive views of learning curriculum and pedagogy monitoring and accountability that found expression in every aspect of school life The work of the school community was guided by the findings of a previous project Learning without Limits Hart Dixon Drummond and McIntyre 2004 an empirical study of the classroom practice of individual teachers who had rejected the concept of fixed ability Creating Learning without Limits explores what becomes possible when the same ideas and principles are used creatively to guide and inspire whole school improvement This book is not simply a celebration of the success of the school it engages with the struggles and difficulties encountered by the staff as they set about learning to reshape pedagogy and curriculum by reference to their shared values of inclusion social justice and human educability It gives a detailed analysis of how the headteacher harnessed the power of collective action The insights generated by this study have enduring relevance and applicability to people in other contexts for staff groups craving for more equitable school improvement for individual teachers wondering how best to foster children s learning capacity for school leaders and teacher educators who find their values increasingly compromised Creating Learning without Limits takes on one of the most important issues in education today This is a must read for educators policy makers and parents alike Jo Boaler Professor of Mathematics Education Stanford University California Formerly a teacher and researcher at the Universities of London and Sussex This will undoubtedly turn out to be amongst the most important educational books of the decade If you want to know why the standards agenda must inevitably fail and what we might do instead read this book Professor Michael Fielding Institute of Education University of London UK This is an inspiring and reviving book Anne Watson Professor of Mathematics Education University of Oxford UK This book provides a grounded demonstration of the importance of educational principles the most important of which is the understanding that each child s potential for learning is limitless I urge you to let it influence your thinking too Professor Andrew Pollard Institute of Education University of London UK The book deserves a really wide readership Professor Clyde Chitty Institute of Education University of London UK This book is slim in size but hefty in significance Barry Hymer Professor of Psychology in Education Education Faculty University of Cumbria UK A classic for our time it should be read by all who seek approaches to teaching and learning that are free from externally imposed views of ability and potential Professor Lani Florian School of Education University of Aberdeen UK This book could be the catalyst for the educational change that we are all praying for Julie Lilly Head Teacher UK Families, Education and Giftedness Jim Campbell, Laura Mazzoli Smith, 2013-02-12 What is it like to be YOUNG GIFTED AND WORKING CLASS in contemporary England How do working class family values support high educational achievement What do researchers and policy makers have to learn about giftedness from working class families These provocative questions are explored in this ground breaking book Most studies of giftedness focus on the characteristics of individuals and draw upon psychological frameworks to understand them Participants in most gifted education programmes are recruited disproportionately from the higher social classes Sceptical of the concept of giftedness Mazzoli Smith and Campbell question conventional methodologies using a narrative approach to understand how four families of working class origins each with a gifted child construct their values in relation to education and social class They explore the influence of their family histories cultural values and life styles upon educational engagement and achievement The authors show that gifted education policies are poorly matched to the values of these families and argue that much research into giftedness has been flawed by social and cultural discrimination They propose an agenda for change in research paradigms in the giftedness field which should be characterized by interdisciplinarity and more culturally relative conceptions of giftedness Making Teaching and Learning Matter

Judith Summerfield, Cheryl C. Smith, 2010-12-09 This volume captures the spirit of collaboration and innovation that its authors bring into the classroom as well as to groundbreaking undergraduate programs and initiatives Coming from diverse points of view and twenty different disciplines the contributors illuminate the often perplexing debates about what matters most in higher education today Each chapter tells a unique story about creating vital pedagogical arenas that have the potential to transform teaching and learning for both faculty and students These exploratory spaces include courses under construction cross college and interdisciplinary collaborations general education reform initiatives and fresh perspectives on student support services faculty development freshman learning communities writing across the curriculum on line degree initiatives and teaching and learning centers All these spaces lend shape to an over arching system wide project bringing together the often disconnected silos of undergraduate education at The City University of New York CUNY America s largest urban public university system Since 2003 the University s Office of Undergraduate Education has sponsored coordinated efforts to study and improve teaching and learning for the system s 260 000 undergraduates enrolled at 18 distinct colleges The contributors to this volume present a broad spectrum of administrative and faculty perspectives that have informed the process of transforming the undergraduate experience Combined the voices in these chapters create a much needed exploratory space for the interplay of ideas about how teaching and learning need to matter in evolving notions of higher education in the twenty first century In addition the text has wider social relevance as an in depth exploration of change and reform in a large public institution

Stephanie Burridge lectures at Lasalle College of the Arts and Singapore Management University and is the series editor for Routledge Celebrating Dance in Asia and the Pacific      Postformal Education Jennifer M. Gidley, 2016-08-05 This book explains why the current education model which was developed in the 19th century to meet the needs of industrial expansion is obsolete It points to the need for a new approach to education designed to prepare young people for global uncertainty accelerating change and unprecedented complexity The book offers a new educational philosophy to awaken the creative big picture and long term thinking that will help equip students to face tomorrow s challenges Inside readers will find a dialogue between adult developmental psychology research on higher stages of reasoning and today s most evolved education research and practice This dialogue reveals surprising links between play and wisdom imagination and ecology holism and love The overwhelming issues of global climate crisis growing economic disparity and the youth mental health epidemic reveal how dramatically the current education model has failed students and educators This book raises a planet wide call to deeply question how we actually think and how we must educate It articulates a postformal education philosophy as a foundation for educational futures The book will appeal to educators educational philosophers pre service teacher educators educational and developmental psychologists and educational researchers including postgraduates with an interest in transformational educational theories designed for the complexity of the 21st century This is the most compelling book on education I have read for many years It has major implications for all who are in a position to influence developments in teacher education and educational policy Gidley is one of the very rare scholars who can write intelligently and accessibly about the past present and future in education I was challenged and ultimately convinced by her contention that what masquerades as education today must be seen for what it is an anachronistic relic of the industrial past Gidley s challenge is to co evolve a radically new education All who seek to play a part must read this book Brian J Caldwell PhD Educational Transformations former Dean of Education at the University of Melbourne and Deputy Chair Australian Curriculum
