'Malleable at the European Will': British Discourse on Slavery (1784–1824) and the Image of Africans Helmut Meier, 2019-05-30 Helmut Meier's study of pro and anti slavery texts from 1784–1825 focuses on understanding the distinct image of Africans in the British debate on the slave trade and slavery as such Starting from the premise that at the threshold from the early to the late modern period the distinct image of Africans as slaves was instrumental in universalizing a Eurocentric concept of capitalist wage labor both at the colonial centres and margins Meier argues that by portraying African slaves as suffering wretches especially anti slavery texts created colonial Others in an indistinct zone between inclusion and exclusion from humanity The discourse on slavery thus constructs African slaves as mimetic Others which could subsequently become the objects of a discourse of colonial reform and betterment Massacre at St. Louis Kenneth E.

Jackson, 2010-11-24 Anthony Benezet 1713–84 universally recognized by the leaders of the eighteenth century antislavery movement as its founder was born to a Huguenot family in Saint Quentin France As a boy Benezet moved to Holland England and in 1731 Philadelphia where he rose to prominence in the Quaker antislavery community In transforming Quaker antislavery sentiment into a broad based transatlantic movement Benezet translated ideas from diverse sources Enlightenment philosophy African travel narratives Quakerism practical life and the Bible into concrete action He founded the African Free School in Philadelphia and such future abolitionist leaders as Absalom Jones and James Forten studied at Benezet's school and spread his ideas to broad social groups At the same time Benezet's correspondents including Benjamin Franklin Benjamin Rush Abb Raynal Granville Sharp and John Wesley gave his ideas an audience in the highest intellectual and political circles In this wide ranging intellectual biography Maurice Jackson demonstrates how Benezet mediated Enlightenment political and social thought narratives of African life written by slave traders themselves and the ideas and experiences of ordinary people to create a new antislavery critique Benezet's use of travel narratives challenged proslavery arguments about an undifferentiated primitive African society Benezet's empirical evidence laid on the intellectual scaffolding provided by the writings of Hutcheson Wallace and Montesquieu had a profound influence from the high culture writings of the Marquis de Condorcet to the opinions of ordinary citizens When the great antislavery spokesmen Jacques Pierre Brissot in France and William Wilberforce in England rose to demand abolition of the slave trade they read into the record of the French National Assembly and the British Parliament extensive unattributed quotations from Benezet's writings a fitting tribute to the influence of his work

Race, Racism, and Science John P. Jackson, Nadine M. Weidman, 2006

Since the eighteenth century when natural historians created the idea of distinct racial categories scientific findings on race have been a double edged sword For some antiracists science holds the promise of one day providing indisputable evidence to help eradicate racism On the other hand science has been enlisted to promote racist beliefs ranging from a justification of slavery in the eighteenth century to the infamous twentieth century book The Bell Curve whose authors argued that racial differences in intelligence resulted in lower test scores for African Americans This well organized readable textbook takes the reader through a chronological account of how and why racial categories were created and how the study of race evolved in multiple academic disciplines including genetics psychology sociology and anthropology In a bibliographic essay at the conclusion of each of the book's seven sections the authors recommend primary texts that will further the reader's understanding of each topic Heavily illustrated and enlivened with sidebar biographies this text is ideal for classroom use
