Women in the Middle Elaine M. Brody,2006-03-16 Daughters are the main caregivers to elderly disabled parents most often in their middle years and are caught in the middle of multiple competing demands on their time and energy Dr Brody revisits this phenomenon in this updated edition of her groundbreaking work

Last Rights Barbara Logue,1993-01-01 Several recent trends demographic social and economic are increasing the incidence and public support of deliberate death among the old and sick The number of elderly people is at an all time high Medical technology can prolong the lives of these men and women but it cannot keep them independent free of pain or competent to manage their own affairs Never before have so many been so sick for so long Changes in the size and structure of the American family make long term home care almost impossible while exorbitant health costs and scarce resources limit the provision of highquality care by paid workers Researcher Barbara J Logue refers to any deliberate behavior that causes death as death control She points out that death control like birth control involves very serious and deeply personal decisions choices that ought to be made on the basis of reliable information with care and compassion without coercion She goes on to assert that like birth control death control should be performed legally and with the help of the medical community Without access to assisted deaths many frail old people are left to endure wretched deaths Some die slowly of neglect or malnutrition in nursing homes Others take their own lives sometimes by violent means while they can still act independently because they are afraid that no one will help them if they wait until they are very sick Some die alone fearful of implicating friends or relatives in their back alley euthanasia While some die too soon because they are poor uneducated or hard to manage others are overtreated and their deaths delayed because doctors and hospitals want to increase their income or fear prosecution if they help a patient die Barbara Logue describes these and many other hazards inherent in our present long term care system noting that all too often the system causes suffering instead of alleviating it After assessing the alternatives she urges that we must make compassionate death control as available as birth control We must regulate and monitor it like any other medical procedure taking steps to minimize the risks while maximizing the benefits Clinical Diagnosis and Management of Alzheimer's Disease Serge Gauthier, 2006-11-22 The third edition of this successful textbook has been completely updated throughout and includes new chapters on electrophysiological tests biological markers global staging measures and management of neuropsychiatric symptoms There has been steady progress in our understanding of the natural history prognostic factors and treatments for Alzh Innovative Interventions To Reduce Dementia Caregiver Distress David W. Coon, PhD, Dolores Gallagher-Thompson, PhD, ABPP, Larry W. New Directions in Understanding Dementia and Alzheimer's Disease Taher Zandi, Richard J. Ham, 2012-12-06 The management of Alzheimer's Disease and the related dementias is one of the major challenges to health care professionals and American society at large for the coming decade and the coming millennium The rapid growth of the over eighty five population the group which as recent studies have confirmed and as many of us clinicians have long suspected has an even higher prevalence than previously quoted of dementing disorders is the major cause of this We are thus challenged by as Bernard Issacs used to call it the survival of the unfittest as well as the optimistic approach of bringing life to years as John F Kennedy said The fact is that we as a society tend to confuse treatment and cure and prevention As the proceedings of the conference which this book represents emphasize there is considerable work going on about the potential prevention of or at least the reduction of symptomatology in these illnesses by interventions genetically chemically and so forth However the more we find out the more complicated it becomes and the more heterogeneous Alzheimer s and the related disorders appear to be not only in their manifestations as clinicians have long recognized but also in the individual initiating and underlying processes For these reasons absolute preventive techniques or the likelihood of an intervention which will reverse the process in a high proportion of patients do not appear to be just around the corner
