Classroom Management for Students with Emotional Or Behavioral Disorders, 2014 Emotional or Behavioral Disorder E BD is a highly complex medical biological psychological and genetic condition that affects a student's ability to learn and function in school. Students that meet E BD criteria need specialized services in special education along with emotional or behavioral supports. The majority of students with E BD do not graduate high school. Their challenging emotional or behavioral problems frequently get them sent out of classrooms or suspended from school, missing invaluable learning time. School districts need to adapt responsive discipline policies and train teachers to implement responsive classroom management practices not only for E BD students but for all students. When teachers are able to connect with students, affirming relationships are formed. The teacher-student relationship is a fundamental component for engaging youth which correlates to academic success and increased graduation rates. When behavior issues arise, teachers will now have a better understanding of how to handle the incident in a less punitive manner while still holding students accountable. leaf 4
