Restructuring for Integrative Education Todd E. Jennings, 1997 Restructuring for Integrative Education Todd E. Jennings, 1997-07-16 How can education be restructured to align more closely with the complex ways in which students actually create meaning and learn The collection of essays asserts that this question must be the nexus of educational restructuring This book addresses educational restructuring with a specific goal the promotion of integrated education Addressing a variety of contexts elementary school through post secondary and written from a range of theoretical perspectives critical theory postmodernism constructivism the authors explore the educational structures that mediate the work of schools teachers and students The contributors explore how educational institutions can change to promote authentic and holistic learning Firmly rooted in theory the collection presents a vision for the integrated education linked to concrete practices and contexts Critical Pedagogy Barry Kanpol, 1999-04-30 Critical pedagogy refers to the means and methods of testing and attempting to change the structures of schools that allow inequities It is a cultural political tool that takes seriously the notion of human differences particularly those related to race class and gender Critical pedagogy seeks to release the oppressed and unite people in a shared language of critique struggle and hope to end various forms of human suffering In this revised edition Kanpol takes the pre and in service educators along some initial steps to becoming critical pedagogists As before university professors and public school teachers alike will learn how to address their own prophetic commitments to belief and faith in the fight against despair institutional chaos oppression death of spirit and exile

Postmodern Philosophical Critique and the Pursuit of Knowledge in Higher Education Roger Mourad, 1997-08-30 This work explores the philosophical positions of five postmodern thinkers Lyotard Rorty Schrag Foucault and Derrida to show how their critiques imply that scholars are unduly limited by the belief that inquiry is fundamentally about gaining knowledge of phenomena that are assumed to exist prior to and independent of inquiry and to persist essentially unchanged by inquiry The author argues that there are good reasons why this constraint is both unnecessary and undesirable and he resituates the disciplines within a more flexible foundation that would expand what counts as legitimate inquiry This foundation would emphasize the inquirer as a cause of reality not just an observer who aims to accurately describe and explain phenomena Mourad proposes an intellectual and organizational form which he calls post disciplinary research programs These dynamic programs would be composed of scholars from diverse disciplines who collaborate to juxtapose disparate disciplinary concepts in order to create contexts for post disciplinary inquiries Racial Categorization of Multiracial Children in Schools Jane A. Chiong, 1998-05-21 Multiracial students have unique needs that are not being met in schools because teachers and school personnel assume that those needs are the same as those of monoracial minority children Children of multiple races are in fact invisible in the schools On school and federal forms they are racially categorized based on one race only and such categorizations are not limited to documents Schools and teachers may unknowingly transmit monoracial identity messages to multiracial students which is problematic for some students who may want to identify with more than one race Our racial categorization process reflects the deficiencies of the concept of race in American culture and needs to be renegotiated The multiracial child is a microcosm of the American cultural identity Current racial categorization of multiracial children reflects a society that is still renegotiating its own racial and ethnic identities and these children bear the burdens of the difficulties As America continues to become increasingly populated by diverse peoples what it means to be American is in transition Americans are moving away from a fixed notion of the American cultural identity toward an expanded more inclusive resolution
