Manufacturing Hope and Despair Ricardo D. Stanton-Salazar, 2001 Relying on a wealth of ethnographic and statistical data this groundbreaking volume documents the many constraints and social forces that prevent Mexican origin adolescents from constructing the kinds of networks that provide access to important forms of social support Special attention is paid to those forms of support privileged youth normally receive and working class youth do not such as expert guidance regarding college opportunities The author also reveals how some working class ethnic minority youth become the exception weaving social webs that promote success in school as well as empowering forms of resiliency In both cases the role of social networks in shaping young people s chances is illuminated In this badly needed alternative to the individualism that pervades most debates about American education Stanton Salazar explores how Latino teenagers lives are embedded within social networks from home community and school This grand work shows how school programs can confound or can draw from the strengths of such networks to build better lives for all Bruce J Biddle Professor Emeritus of Psychology and Sociology University of Missouri Columbia A beautifully written and inspiring book that announces a new generation of Mexican Latino scholars This is a book which tells the tale about Mexican Latino adolescents but in reality it is a book about how working class adolescent life is socially constructed defined and elaborated in the United States An eloquent rendering indeed Carlos G V lez Ib ez Presidential Chair in Anthropology University of California Riverside Using creative theorizing and rigorous methodology Manufacturing Hope and Despair illuminates brilliantly the supposed mystery of persistent race class inequities in American society Walter R Allen Professor University of California Los Angeles

Saving America's

High Schools Becky Smerdon, Kathryn M. Borman, 2009-11-13 Our educational system is in a continuous state of reform yet outcomes are nowhere near what we can accept Though the search for answers is perpetual many efforts over the past decade have homed in on one feature of high schools their size If we simply reduce school size the argument goes students will gain a safer environment that can address their individual needs It seems like common sense but such changes alone have not proven a magic bullet Saving America's High Schools offers quantitative research drawn from large scale reform studies along with recommendations for federal state and district reform The State of the System Paul W. Bennett, 2020-09-23 Over the last fifty years Canada's public schools have been absorbed into a modern education system that functions much like Max Weber's infamous iron cage Crying out for democratic school level reform the system is now a centralized bureaucratic fortress that every year becomes softer on standards for students less accessible to parents further out of touch with communities and surprisingly unresponsive to classroom teachers Exploring the nature of the Canadian education order in all its dimensions The State of the System explains how public schools came to be so bureaucratic confronts the critical issues facing kindergarten to grade 12 public schools in all ten provinces and addresses the need for systemic reform Going beyond a diagnosis of the stresses strains and ills present in the system Paul Bennett proposes a bold plan to re engineer schools on a more human scale as the first step in truly reforming public education In place of school consolidation and managerialism one size fits all uniformity limited school choice and the success for all curriculum Bennett advocates for a new set of priorities decentralize school governance deprogram education ministries and school districts listen to parents and teachers and revitalize local education democracy Tackling the thorny issues besetting contemporary school systems in Canada The State of the System issues a clarion call for more responsive engaged and accountable public schools School Kids/street Kids Nilda Flores-González, 2002 Examines the statistics on the low percentage of Latinos graduating high school using the role identity theory to explain the stigmas surrounding the labels of school kid versus street kid Contradictions in Women's Education Barbara J. Bank, 2003-01-01 This volume provides a fresh lens for viewing single sex colleges by examining a different setting a non elite woman's college in the Midwest This is the story of how a group of undergraduate women experienced and coped with the contradictions of gender traditionalism careerism and community that formed the context in which they received their college education Includes an in depth look at the differences between sorority members and independent women testing historical and contemporary beliefs Naturally Small Stephen A. Swidler, 2006-08-01 This book asks simply How do the teachers in small schools manage to teach The research reported here is concerned with how teachers and students organize themselves and do school that is small is scale
