Governing Higher Education: National Perspectives on Institutional Governance Alberto Amaral, Glen Jones, B. Karseth, 2013-11-11 Over the last decades higher education has gone through an unprecedented growth period and as a result the average university or college has now more students and a larger output than ever before At the same time the socio economic and political demands with respect to higher education have grown dramatically These developments have taken place without a proportional increase of the budgets and facilities of the higher education institutions This has created an imbalance between the expectations with respect to higher education and the institutional capacities in the sector One of the underlying trends is that the traditional pact between higher education and society has become problematic Society no longer accepts the rather special and protected position that universities have had for a very long time in our societies The knowledge based social and cultural missions of higher education institutions are no longer taken for granted as the main legitimacy bases for public investments in higher education Universities and colleges are at present expected to function efficiently to contribute to sustainable economic growth at various levels and to add to national and even supranational trade balances On top of this they have to prove that they maintain a high level of quality in their primary activities i e teaching research and services while adapting and responding to the expectations expressed so vehemently in their environments and to a decreasing per capita funding basis

Repositioning Organization Theory S. Böhm, 2005-11-08 Repositioning Organization Theory studies the political positioning of organization theory The book argues that there are two main projects in organization theory the hegemonic project of positioning and postmodern project of depositioning To critique the theoretical and political limits of these two projects. It employs a range of critical and post structural philosophies. Having conceptualized the need for a political event, the book is a passionate call for repositioning and repoliticizing organization theory. This book discusses the impossibilities of and strategies for such a project.

the book is meant to be used as a sourcebook for anthropological research The book s primary audience should be marketing and anthropology researchers and graduate students faculty and researchers P G Kishel in Choice As a business person responsible for the development of advertising strategies and advertising campaigns I was impressed with the contributors willingness and desire to apply anthropological principles to real world problems John Sherry Jr s comment sums it up nicely Anthropology is a practical discipline anchoring the blue sky thinking it encourages firmly to the local ground it inhabits We need to encourage blue sky thinking so we don t repeatedly get the same answers to our inquiries Anthropologists can help us with these issues This book gives me enormous hope that applied anthropology will help restore the tremendous value that can be gained through qualitative research techniques Today in marketing and advertising focus groups are grossly overused misused and underanalyzed I was encouraged and excited about the authors discussions of good ethnographies and focus groups that for example instead of simply asking respondents whether or not EMF causes cancer a far more creative and insightful exercise was performed with consumers and then was intensely analyzed by anthropologists All too often today qualitative research is carelessly and quickly administered and the analysis consists of a 30 minute debriefing at the end of the last focus group In the last few years the need for cross cultural consumer understanding has grown rapidly This phenomenon makes it imperative that not only must we fully understand the meanings of brands and products to our domestic consumers but we must know which meanings are transportable to consumers in other cultures John Sherry Jr s book suggests that anthropologists could and should have a major role in cross cultural consumer understanding Patricia A Cafferata President and Chief Executive Officer Young anthropologists as consumer researchers have been a powerful underground force for the past 15 years of innovative marketing Major companies as well as government and private institutions have looked to anthropologists to help when other research has failed John Sherry Jr has collected outstanding anthropological practitioners in this volume and they have written cutting edge chapters on product symbolism consumer culture advertising efficacy and international marketing The power of this collection lies in the fresh insights to each of these themes and the ability to reframe old problems to perceive what it means to live the life of a consumer as we approach the next century Steve Barnett Managing Director Global Business Network Containing original articles and empirical substance Contemporary Marketing and Consumer Behavior responds to a growing demand for scholarship more tuned to the empirical and practical realities of consumer culture Written by leading anthropologists who specialize in marketing and consumer research it is intended as a sourcebook for readers interested in consumption and its managerial consequences The topics and their treatments run a gamut of concerns including elements of the marketing mix such as goods and services advertising and promotion relationship management managerial intervention and development class and gender linked consumer behaviors and the production of consumption Anthropological perspectives and methods employed by the authors range from materialistic to semiotic and both qualitative and quantitative methods are employed Contributors range across time space and topics in pursuit of understanding The result is a multifaceted perspective of marketing and consumer behavior Also the remarks of eminent senior Fellows of the Association for Consumer Research who have drawn upon anthropology to make their own seminal contributions to a number of disciplines punctuate this exceptional volume A remarkable and extraordinary text Contemporary Marketing and Consumer Behavior is ideal for scholars students and professionals in marketing cultural studies gender studies psychology sociology anthropology and communication AoG Leadership and Culture William Foster,2024-02-12 The growth of Global Pentecostalism in the past century has been studied and documented from many perspectives Its leadership culture and ecclesiology however has received scant academic and theological attention This book based on an extensive research study of the Assemblies of God of Great Britain AoG could not be more timely conducted as AoG entered its centenary decade and faced the challenges that its historic culture and leadership dynamics posed The leadership struggles discussed in this book will resonate with any denomination that has grown or wrestled with polity leadership and culture Understanding College and University Organization James L. Bess,Jay R. Dee,2023-07-03 Now available in paperback this two volume work is intended to help readers develop powerful new ways of thinking about organizational principles and apply them to policy making and management in colleges and universities The book is written with two audiences in mind administrative and faculty leaders in institutions of higher learning and students both doctoral and Master s degree studying to become upper level administrators leaders and policy makers in higher education It systematically presents a range of theories that can be applied to many of the difficult management situations that college and university leaders encounter It provides them with the theoretical background to knowledgeably evaluate the many new ideas that emerge in the current literature and in workshops and conferences The purpose is to help leaders develop their own effective management style and approaches and feel confident that their actions are informed by appropriate theory and knowledge of the latest research in the field Without theory organizational leaders are forced to treat each problem that they encounter as unique as if it were a first time occurrence While leaders may have some experience with a particular issue their solutions are usually not informed by the accumulated wisdom of others who have already encountered and resolved similar situations The authors approach the theory of the organization and administration of colleges and universities from three quite different perspectives or paradigms each relying on different assumptions about the reality of organizational life in colleges and universities The positivist paradigm primarily an omnibus systems theory integrates the chapters into a comprehensive yet easily accessible whole Social constructionism the second paradigm is introduced in each chapter to illuminate the difficulty of seeking and finding meaningful consensus on problems and policies while also addressing important ethical issues that tend to be overlooked in leadership thought and action The third paradigm postmodernism draws attention to difficulties of logic and communication under the constraints of strictly linear thinking that authorities at all levels attempt to impose on organizations This multiple paradigm approach enables readers to become more cognizant of their own assumptions how they may differ from those of others in their organization and how those differences may both create difficulties in resolving problems and expand the range of alternatives considered in organizational decision making The book offers readers the tools to balance the real world needs to succeed in today's challenging and competitive environment with the social and ethical aspirations of all its stakeholders and society at large The authors aim is to elucidate how administration can be made more efficient and effective through rational decision making while also respecting humanistic values This approach highlights a range of phenomena that require attention if the institution is ultimately to be considered successful Also available Volume 1 The State of the System Two volume set

Writing Organization Carl Rhodes, 2001-08-21 Carl Rhodes examines the implicit power of writing and authorship that is at play when people and organisations are re-presented in research To explore this the book reports a research project in the area of organisational storytelling that investigates how people in one organisation used stories to re-present their own learning experiences from the implementation of a quality management program This research is written in three principal genres autobiography ethnography and a fictional short story These re-presentational strategies are reviewed to examine how different genres effect authority in different ways Drawing extensively on the work of Mikhail Bakhtin and on writers associated with postmodernism and poststructuralism the book offers a challenging discussion of what organisational research might be when the notion of the equivalence of reality and representation is radically questioned

Organizations in Action Peter Clark, 2012-10-12 This original and ambitious work provides a fascinating examination of organizations from both a post modern and new organizational economics perspective Combining strategy international business and organisational theory it represents a ground breaking critique of prevailing mainstream modernist theories of organization Distinctive features include a comprehensive analysis of social and organizational theory discussion and exploration of knowledge capitalism a critique of core competencies and resource based approaches to strategy human resource management and organizational behaviour In an essential area of study for every business undergraduate and reflective manager this outstanding book pulls together material which is currently scattered and poorly synthesised and examines high profile real world business examples

In the Realm of Organisation Robert Chia, 2003-05-20 This book breaks new ground departing from an emphasis on organisations as social objects and moving towards a position of analysis which situates itself in the wider context of the late modernity The contributors of this book acknowledge the impact of Robert Cooper on their own work and develop further his insistence that organisational analysis must be understood in terms of the rationalization of society as a whole

The Politics of Management Knowledge Professor Stewart R Clegg, Gill Palmer, 1996-09-16 The notion that management knowledge is universal culture neutral readily transferable to any country or situation has come under mounting challenge The Politics of Management Knowledge goes beyond such broad brush assertions to explore in detail the relations between management knowledge power and practice in a world where globalization highlights rather than obscures the locally specific character of many management recipes The book recognizes the political nature of management knowledge as a discourse produced from and reproducing power processes within and between organizations This theme underpins discussion of the ways in which management ideas and practices produce managers of a particular kind person of enterprise bureaucrat heroic leader and so on Critical examinations of certain current management theories lean production excellence entrepreneurship illuminate the myriad modes in which relations of power intermingle with relations of knowledge Eminent authors from a variety of countries address the social and political processes involved in cross cultural transference of management ideas across the world They also look to the future stressing the need for a substantial new understanding that is less attuned to the corporate worlds of today and more appropriate for the increasingly diverse organizations likely to emerge in the twenty first century
