Coram Deo Caryn D. Riswold,2006-07-01 In order to adequately address the issues of atonement and christology we must understand how it is that we think about the relationship between God and the human being The way in which we understand and interpret the life and death of Jesus and his role within that relationship then impacts our theology of the sacraments particularly the eucharist Further the questions continue to confront and be confronted by my inescapable identity as a Lutheran Christian I use the term inescapable because I find myself working from and with theologies and theologians that are unabashedly critical of patriarchal religious doctrine and paternal theological construction yet I cannot be convinced that the tradition which formed me is irretrievable or irrelevant I am seeking to use Luther as one of my sources but I am working to reinterpret him and offer a more adequate constructive alternative that embodies what is useable in his tradition I find the potential for a liberating message within Christian theology and I find a critical theological resource in Luther from the Introduction

Baptism and Christian Identity Gordon S. Mikoski,2009-07-02 In this book Gordon Mikoski examines how the sacrament of baptism the doctrine of the Trinity and the practice of Christian education together constitute a dynamic nexus that has the potential to foster congregations marked by the formation of both deep Christian identity and creative engagement in public arenas for the common good After establishing the necessity of holding baptism Trinity and ecclesial pedagogy together through his careful study of both Gregory of Nyssa and John Calvin Mikoski outlines how this nexus can function for contemporary Christian communities as they carry out the work of educational ministry He then explores the dynamics of faith formation in the contemporary American context concluding with a suggestive treatment of implications of the baptism Trinity pedagogy nexus for the educational ministry of a given congregation Believing in a Revealing God Gabriel Moran, 2016-12-09 What is faith Is it a thing one has or a human activity What is revelation Is it a deposit of truths in the past or God's action in the present These questions are addressed by renowned religious educator Gabriel Moran who draws upon biblical and theological traditions set within today's interreligious dialogue A church of moral and liturgical activity in relation to a revealing God is the needed response to both a dismissal of religion and apocalyptic violence in its name The future role of Christianity in the world and in individual lives may well hang in the balance The Christian ideas of faith and revelation will either be the chief obstacle to dialogue with the contemporary world or else the main foundation to a Christian spiritual life that can give substance and direction to religious searching Gabriel Moran is a professor in the Department of Humanities and the Social Sciences at New York University He is widely credited with reshaping the field of religious education in the United States and beyond Moran is author of twenty books on religion and education including Religious Education as a Second Language Both Sides The Story of Revelation and most recently Speaking of Teaching Lessons from History
