More Productive Slow Down author Bud Roth suggests methods of reflection as well as useful models and exercises demonstrating how you can regain control of your life and reduce stress by slowing down. Be More Productive Slow Down provides a guide to help you focus on what's important and shows you how to be more productive at work and at home. It presents a process for making good choices that lead you to living successfully by showing you how to see the dangers of how you currently live and work, reflect on who you are and the reality of the environment in which you live and work, create a plan for the next cycle of life, not the rest of your life, understand what you can and can't control, ask yourself and others uncomfortable questions that produce desirable actions. With powerful yet manageable lessons, Roth shows how you can design your life in the ways you choose to command your sailboat to your intended destinations. The Journal of Markets & Morality, 2006

Business School and the Noble Purpose of the Market Andrew J. Hoffman, 2025-04-08 The intellectual foundation for the next generation of business leaders. Today's business schools were designed for a world that no longer exists. Capitalism raised the standard of living for billions of people over the past 150 years but is now causing systemic challenges it is unable to address including climate change and inequality. And yet business schools continue to teach ideas that are making things worse: elevating the primacy of shareholder profits above the interests of employees, the environment, and society; viewing government as an intrusion on the free market rather than an arbiter of its proper functioning; and promoting unlimited economic growth despite the devastating environmental and social consequences. Business schools cannot simply drop an elective into their curriculum to address these challenges. We must rethink the faulty foundations. Business School and the Noble Purpose of the Market explains the intellectual foundation. MBA students, faculty, and administrators need to reform capitalism and restore its noble purpose for the 21st century. Many business students are in fact seeking this kind of education and frustrated that they are not getting it from their professors. This book will fill in gaps in their education, equipping them with the models and mindset to rethink shareholder capitalism and serve society's needs. Business faculty and administrators will find a practical program for amending curriculum and pedagogy, changing student and faculty rewards, and bringing a new spirit and sensibility to the business school.

Cover design by Katie Makrie.

Rethinking College Education George Allan, 1997 Not a method of turning your degree back in and having your loans forgiven, but an argument that by becoming vocational schools measured by reduced cost and efficient production, colleges and universities are neglecting their essential purpose. The reason for college education, says Allan, is to

DuFour Law Library,2004 How to Lead Academic Departments Successfully Lindgreen, Adam,Irwin, Alan,Poultfelt, Flemming,Thomsen, Thyra U.,2021-12-07 It is an old cliché that leading and managing academics is like herding cats This book challenges this myth and presents a way to deal with the many challenges of academic leadership from managing departments research groups and teams to managing tensions between research and teaching The book is a practical and stimulating guide to different pathways to successful academic leadership both in personal and organizational terms All In David Grayson,Chris Coulter,Mark Lee,2018-05-23 Written by three leading thinkers in the field of sustainability All In defines the essential attributes of high impact corporate sustainability leadership and describes how companies can combine and apply those characteristics for future success All In draws on research involving thousands of experts globally as collected via the GlobeScan SustainAbility Leaders Survey over two decades The book also reveals insights from dozens of interviews with Chairs CEOs and Chief Sustainability Officers of pioneering companies including 3M BASF BP DuPont Google GE Huawei IKEA Interface Marks Spencer Natura Nestle acute Nike Novo Nordisk Patagonia Shell Tata Toyota Unilever and Walmart explaining how they have gained recognition created value and boosted resiliency based on their sustainability leadership All In also outlines what the private sector must do to lift sustainability performance protect business s license to operate and help deliver the UN Sustainable Development Goals by 2030 This unique book rich with quantitative and qualitative insights offers current and aspiring business leaders a succinct overview of the most important developments and trends in corporate sustainability and responsible leadership All In will also appeal to others interested in why sustainability has become a critical mainstream business issue With a foreword by Dan Hendrix Chairman Interface and afterword by Paul Polman CEO Unilever Symposium, the Corporation and the Human Person ,2006 Rethinking How Business Purpose is Taught in Catholic Business Education Lyman Johnson,2013 Business education at a Catholic university should engage students and faculty across the university in critically examining the purpose of business in society Following the best practices of leading business schools the Catholic business curriculum has mostly focused on the shareholder and stakeholder approaches with the shareholder approach being the predominant view Creatively engaging the Catholic Social Tradition especially the community of persons can bring a richer appreciation of the purpose of business in our contemporary society than either the shareholder or stakeholder approaches We argue that far more discretion to pursue various corporate purposes in manifold ways exists than is frequently appreciated by business managers and those who educate them This article examines how given this legal and moral discretion the Catholic Social Tradition is a rich resource for teaching corporate purpose and reveals how tapping into a religious tradition with a long philosophical discourse can shape a rich dialogue in the curriculum as to a company's moral direction. We contrast two philosophies of business: an Association of Individuals (the shareholder and stakeholder approaches) and a Community of Persons (mission-centric approach) and their respective views of corporate purpose. While business scholars tend not to question their underlying anthropological presuppositions because of the desire to be practical, a business education grounded in the liberal arts must engage the first principles of its discourse.

COVID-19 and Society Mustafa Polat, Serhat Burmaoglu, Ozcan Saritas, 2022-11-16 This timely book presents a collection of expert insights into the impacts of COVID-19 in a broader socio-economic context. In each chapter, the authors identify the current impact of COVID-19 by demonstrating transformative signals and project these signals to the future by considering their alternative futures and implications. The book emphasizes that dealing with major global pandemics like COVID-19 requires all countries and regions to take different but synchronized measures to decrease its socio-economic effects in the short, medium, and long run. The consequences of COVID-19 will go beyond medicine to cover all other aspects of life and are bound to change the nature of organizations. Moving beyond the medical viewpoint, the experts in this book discuss the topic from multi-dimensional and multi-disciplinary angles by focusing on the domains of technology, business, finance, marketing, law, public administration, and education.
