Security Strategy And The Global Economics Of Defence Production:

Security, Strategy and the Global Economics of Defence Production Queen's University (Kingston, Ont.). School of Policy Studies, 1999 As the recent fighting in Serbia illustrates the technology of modern warfare is in constant evolution with implications spanning a wide range of public policy areas from the broad dimensions of alliance strategy to the specific confines of defence investment production and trade For the past several years technological innovation in the arms industry of the world's leading states has been proceeding in relation to the phenomenon of globalisation in the civilian sector Although the combined impact of the postulated revolution in military affairs and the globalisation of industry has been felt in all Western states it has been of particular concern in two NATO countries Canada and the United Kingdom as each is located on the margins of a continental market in defence goods Both have established a set of privileged linkages and interests with this market although they have retained a certain strategic political and economic distance Security Strategy and the Global Economics of Defence Production features contributions from a broad range of policy analysts and practitioners in Canada and the United Kingdom whose primary concern is to identify and analyse the major challenges that Ottawa and London will be facing in the coming decade Among the issues and challenges considered are understanding the changing nature of threat and risk to security interests devising appropriate means of harnessing and responding to technological change in warfare and assessing the relative merits of regional defence industrial groupings as opposed to trans Atlantic arrangements The contributors also discuss developments in policy respecting the procurement and export of arms as well as the enhancement of the quality of bilateral defence co operation and trade David G Haglund is director of the Centre for International Relations Queen's University S Neil MacFarlane is director for the Centre of International Studies and Lester B Pearson Professor of International Relations at Oxford University

Security, Strategy and the Global Economics of Defence Production Canada-UK Colloquium (1998 : Halifax, N.S.), 1998 The Economics of the Global Defence Industry Keith Hartley, Jean Belin, 2019-11-08 This book makes an original contribution to our knowledge of the world's major defence industries Experts from a wide range of different countries from the major economies of North America and Western Europe to developing economies and some unique cases such as China India Singapore South Africa and North Korea describe and analyse the structure conduct and performance of the defence industry in that country Each chapter opens with statistics on a key nation's defence spending its spending on defence R D and on procurement over the period 1980 to 2017 allowing for an analysis of industry changes following the end of the Cold War After the facts of each industry the authors describe and analyse the structure conduct and performance of the industry The analysis of structure includes discussions of entry conditions domestic monopoly oligopoly structures and opportunities for competition The section on conduct analyses price non price competition including private and state funded R D and performance incorporates profitability imports and exports together with spin offs and technical progress The conclusion explores the future prospects for each nation's defence industry Do defence industries have a future What might the future defence firm and industry look like in 50 years time This volume is a vital resource and reference for anyone interested in defence economics industrial economics international relations strategic studies and public procurement Defence Industries in the 21st Century Çağlar Kurç, Richard A. Bitzinger, Stephanie G. Neuman, 2021-05-13 Defence Industries in the 21st Century explores the transformation in the global defence industrial production through examining the interaction between international and domestic factors With the global defence industry and arms market likely continue to expand and mature the ways in which this progression could influence international politics remain obscure In practice as the contents of this book show the defence industrial bases and arms export policies of emerging states display significant variance This variance is the result of a unique balance between domestic and international factors that has shaped the defence industrialisation behaviour and policies of the less industrialised states One of the most important conclusions of the book is that the interplay between domestic and international factors clearly influences the variation in the emerging states defence industrialisation policies as well as their success or failure While international factors create opportunities they also limit the options available to emerging economies Domestic factors also play an important role by shaping the policy choices of the states decision makers Exploring the balance between international and domestic factors and the ways in which they influence defence industrialisation in emerging states Defence Industries in the 21st Century will be of great interest to scholars of Defence Industries Arms Manufacturing and Defence Strategic and Security Studies more generally The chapters were originally published in Defence Studies Comparative Strategy and All Azimuth War as Business Armin Krishnan, 2016-03-03 The privatization of defence assets and the outsourcing of military services from the armed forces to the private sector is an increasing trend This book approaches the issue of military privatization by linking it to the transformation of the defence industries since the early 1990s and shows the extent to which many military functions and activities ranging from military research to military consulting training to operational support services have already been outsourced in the US and in Europe This detailed study provides new and updated information on the ongoing privatization of the defence sector and offers an original theoretical explanation as to why the most modern armed forces throughout the world have come increasingly to rely on private companies for nearly everything they do Contributing to a better understanding of military privatization and its close connection to technological change the book explains the complexity of the whole phenomenon and discusses its implications for national and international security Security, Strategy and the Global Economics of Defence Production : Canada-UK Colloquium, Halifax, Nova Scotia, 5-8 November 1998 : Rappateur's Report Denis Stairs, Queen's University (Kingston, Ont.). School of Policy Studies, Canada-UK Colloquia. British Committee, Canada-UK Colloquium (1998 : Halifax, N. S.), 1999 The Canadian Defence Industry in the New Global Environment Alistair D. Edgar, David G. Haglund, 1995 The defence industry in Canada is facing serious challenges

Declining defence expenditures protectionism in Canada's principal markets political resistance and escalating costs of weapons technology all threaten it The Canadian Defence Industry in the New Global Environment is a thorough examination and assessment of the problems and prospects of the industry given the recent dramatic changes that have transformed the international security environment Forces for Good Graeme Cheeseman, 2004 Forces for good develops and explores the concept of cosmopolitan militaries It examines how governments militaries and institutions have responded politically doctrinally and operationally to claims that militaries have a new role in cosmopolitan law enforcement that allows and perhaps even requires the use of force to protect and defend those who are the victims of gross abuse of human rights The contributors include academics defence practitioners and serving military officers BOOK JACKET Dangerous Trade Jennifer Erickson, 2015-05-19 The United Nations's groundbreaking Arms Trade Treaty ATT which went into effect in 2014 sets legally binding standards to regulate global arms exports and reflects the growing concerns toward the significant role that small and major conventional arms play in perpetuating human rights violations conflict and societal instability worldwide Many countries that once staunchly opposed shared export controls and their perceived threat to political and economic autonomy are now beginning to embrace numerous agreements such as the ATT and the EU Code of Conduct Jennifer L Erickson explores the reasons top arms exporting democracies have put aside past sovereignty security and economic worries in favor of humanitarian arms transfer controls and she follows the early effects of this about face on export practice She begins with a brief history of failed arms export control initiatives and then tracks arms transfer trends over time Pinpointing the normative shifts in the 1990s that put humanitarian arms control on the table she reveals that these states committed to these policies out of concern for their international reputations She also highlights how arms trade scandals threaten domestic reputations and thus help improve compliance Using statistical data and interviews conducted in France Germany Belgium the United Kingdom and the United States Erickson challenges existing IR theories of state behavior while providing insight into the role of reputation as a social mechanism and the importance of government transparency and accountability in generating compliance with new norms and rules Defence Diplomacy and National Security Strategy Ian Liebenberg, Dirk Kruijt, Shrikant Paranjpe, 2020-04-20 The post cold war era presented security challenges that at one level are a continuation of the cold war era at another level these phenomena manifested in new forms Whether the issues of economics and trade transfer of technologies challenges of intervention or humanitarian crisis the countries of the South previously pejoratively labelled Third World or developing countries have continued to address these challenges within the framework of their capabilities and concerns The volume explores defence diplomacies national security challenges and strategies dynamics of diplomatic manoeuvres and strategic resource management of Latin American southern African and Asian countries Defence And Strategic Studies Question Bank UGC NTA NET Assistant Professors Mocktime Publication, 101-01-01 Chapter 1 Defence and Strategic Studies Assumptions and Approaches The Producing Security Stephen G. Brooks, 2011-10-16 Scholars and statesmen have debated the influence of international commerce on war and peace for thousands of years Over the centuries analysts have generally treated the questions Does international commerce influence security and Do trade flows influence security as synonymous In Producing Security Stephen Brooks maintains that such an overarching focus on the security implications of trade once made sense but no longer does Trade is no longer the primary means of organizing international economic transactions rather where and how multinational corporations MNCs organize their international production activities is now the key integrating force of global commerce MNC strategies have changed in a variety of fundamental ways over the past three decades Brooks argues resulting in an increased geographic dispersion of production across borders The author shows that the globalization of production has led to a series of shifts in the global security environment It has a differential effect on security relations in part because it does not encompass all countries and industries to the same extent The book s findings indicate that the geographic dispersion of MNC production acts as a significant force for peace among the great powers The author concludes that there is no basis for optimism that the globalization of production will promote peace elsewhere in the world Indeed he finds that it has a net negative influence on security relations among developing countries The Global Arms Trade
