Leadership and Administration of Successful Archival Programs Bruce W. Dearnsteyne, 2001-10-30 Strong archival programs are rare in part because the archival field has not given sustained attention to program leadership and management issues over the years As a consequence many programs are underfunded and undersupported and lack sufficient space staff and other resources to carry out their immensely important work This collection of essays from eight of the archival field's notably successful leaders provides first hand accounts of how to carry out planning build coalitions and alliances garner resources empower and inspire program personnel change program direction and take programs in new dynamic directions There is an abundance of literature on archival theory techniques and practice but leadership program building and related topics are seldom covered in archival literature This collection of essays provides varying perspectives insights advice caveats and other helpful information based on the experiences of highly regarded professionals in the field who have actually developed and administered successful programs They address such issues as how to define program success the traits of a successful program leadership traits and similarities and differences between archival program and similar programs such as libraries

Planning for a New Generation of Public Library Buildings Gerard B. McCabe, 2000-01-30 The public library director needs information that helps in understanding what is involved in planning for a public library building project This applies whether the subject is a free standing independent building a branch library a joint use facility with a museum a senior academic library a community or junior college library or a school library Reading this book will not turn a reader into a qualified specialist on library buildings but it will help librarians and others learn what should be known about a project so that they may function effectively as part of the planning team The concept of modern libraries is moving toward interactive connections with information sources far beyond the immediate community For the contemporary public library this means connection to a network with several terminals constantly online to the Internet New library buildings must be constructed with these and other needs in mind The public library director needs information that helps in understanding what is involved in planning for a public library building project This applies whether the subject is a free standing independent building a branch library a joint use facility with a museum a senior academic library a community or junior college library or a school library This book will help librarians and others learn what should be known about a project so that they may function effectively as part of the planning team
