Culture and Disability is a groundbreaking work on persons with disabilities from diverse immigrant backgrounds. It is a pioneering and practical volume dealing with topics that have been too long ignored. Using a cultural broker model and written by individuals who have emigrated to the U.S. from countries such as China, Korea, Jamaica, Mexico, and the Dominican Republic, Providing Culturally Competent Disability Services contains concrete examples, case studies, and recommendations that will help rehabilitation practitioners in their day-to-day activities. Providing Culturally Competent Disability Service also serves as an excellent supplemental text for undergraduate and graduate programs in rehabilitation and related disciplines. Paul Leung, Ph.D., CRC, University of North Texas. One in ten persons living in the United States was born in another country, and in many areas, this percentage is much higher. Minority groups are currently underrepresented in the rehabilitation professions; consequently, many persons with disabilities are served by professionals from a culture that may be very different than their own. Culture and Disability provides information about views of disability in other cultures and ways in which rehabilitation professionals may improve services for persons from other cultures, especially recent immigrants. Culture and Disability includes chapters with descriptions of the interaction of culture and disability. A model on Cultural Brokering provides a framework for addressing conflicts that often arise between service providers and clients from differing cultures. Seven chapters discuss the cultural perspectives of China, Jamaica, Korea, Haiti, Mexico, the Dominican Republic, and Vietnam, focusing on how disability is understood in these cultures. Each of these chapters includes a discussion of the history of immigration to the United States, the role of the family and the community in rehabilitation, as well as recommendations for service providers on working with persons from each culture. Culture and Disability is a unique and timely text for students and instructors in disability-related programs. It is also a vital resource for service providers who work in cross-cultural environments. Ethics in a Multicultural Context Sherlon P. Pack-Brown, Carmen Braun Williams, 2003-02-28

Multicultural counselors often face a moral dilemma: should they follow the ethical guidelines of their professional counseling organization at the expense of a client, or take the appropriate action while bending official standards? Ethics in a Multicultural Context provides strategies for critical decision making in multicultural settings. Utilizing extensive case studies, authors Sherlon P. Pack-Brown and Carmen Braun Williams present a comprehensive exploration of counseling ethics in a cultural context. Examining the implications and consequences of competent multicultural counseling, they present ethical dilemmas arising in face-to-face counseling interactions, supervisory relationships, and educational situations. By placing ethical issues in a cultural context, this inclusive volume provides readers with the practical tools to address complex questions such as: Are dual relationships ethical? How do you handle unintentional cultural bias? Can you barter for counseling services? How do you manage a client's welfare? Does counseling foster dependence? What are the boundaries of competence? Ethics in a Multicultural Context encourages critical thinking rather than passive acceptance. The authors identify culturally troublesome issues encourage culturally appropriate interpretations of existing ethical guidelines and promote ethical behavior in multicultural contexts encourages critical thinking rather than passive acceptance The authors identify culturally troublesome issues encourage culturally appropriate interpretations of existing ethical guidelines and promote ethical behavior in multicultural contexts Designed for students and educators in counselor education and counseling psychology programs this book is also an essential guide for social workers psychologists and health professionals who work in multicultural environments
