remained largely inaccessible to modern readers Young's anthology offers a corrective In his introduction to the volume Young explores the relationship between proslavery thought Christianity racism and sectionalism He emphasizes the ways in which justifications for slavery were introduced into the American South by reformers who hoped to integrate the region into a transatlantic religious community These early proponents of slavery tended to minimize racial distinctions between master and slave and they hoped to minimize the cultural distance between southern plantations and English society Only in the early nineteenth century with the rise of an increasingly influential abolition movement did proslavery thinkers begin to justify their beliefs with approaches that underscored differences between North and South Even then the theorists included in this anthology emphasized the extent to which southern slaveholders' claims to mastery were rooted in a Western moral tradition that reached back to antiquity
