Political Space in Pre-industrial Europe Beat Kümin,2016-04-22 Social and cultural studies are experiencing a spatial turn Micro sites localities empires as well as virtual or imaginary spaces attract increasing attention In most of these works space emerges as a social construct rather than a mere container This collection examines the potential and limitations of spatial approaches for the political history of pre industrial Europe Adopting a broad definition of political the volume concentrates on two key questions Where did political exchange take place How did spatial dimensions affect political life in different periods and contexts Taken together the essays demonstrate that pre modern Europeans made use of a much wider range of political sites than is usually assumed not just palaces town halls and courtrooms but common fields as well as back rooms of provincial inns and that spatial dimensions provided key variables in political life both in terms of territorial ambitions and practical governance and in the more abstract forms of patronage networks representations of power and the emerging public sphere As such this book offers a timely and critical engagement with the spatial turn from a political perspective Focusing on the distinct constitutional environments of England and the Holy Roman Empire one associated with early centralization and strong parliamentary powers the other with political fragmentation and absolutist tendencies it bridges the common gaps between late medieval and early modern studies and those between historians and scholars from other disciplines Preface commentary and a sketch of research perspectives discuss the wider implications of the essays findings and reflect upon the value of spatial approaches for political history as a whole Cryogenic Engineering Klaus D. The Feeling of Space Christopher Bardt, 2024-12-31 A richly illustrated exploration of humanity's drive to shape life as a spatial project from Plato's time to the digital era Place is something real but space is generally conceived as abstract and immaterial In The Feeling of Space Christopher Bardt explores this damaging modern binary and traces the contradictory impulses that have dematerialized our sense of space through history fear and wonder a yearning for the infinite and intimate and the need for autonomy and belonging Using rich illustrations and examinations of art technology and philosophy Bardt argues that if we can get back to first feeling space then we can treat space as the substance that gives agency to our intersubjectivity the exchange of conscious and unconscious thoughts we have with others Expertly connecting ideas with clear examples from lived experiences Bardt's revolutionary framework will appeal to a broad readership particularly those who are interested in the theoretical and philosophical aspects of spaces In an age where digital media has dissolved instead of increased our sense of connection The Feeling of Space shows that when we learn to experience space as a medium as real as a place we not only see ourselves as inherently spatialized beings but we can also rebuild the bonds that tie us together

Defining the Limits of Outer Space for Regulatory Purposes Olavo de Oliveira Bittencourt Neto, 2015-05-14 With different countries ascribing to different theories of air space and outer space law Dr Bittencourt Neto proposes in this Brief a reassessment of the international law related to the extension of state territories vertically Taking into consideration the vast number of proposals offered by scholars and diplomatic delegations on this subject matter as well as the principles of comparative law a compromise to allow for peaceful development is the only way forward The author argues for setting the delimitation of the frontier between air space and outer space at 100 km above mean sea level through an international treaty This would also regulate passage rights for space objects during launchings and reentries as long as those space activities are peacefully conducted in accordance with international law and respecting the sovereign interests of the territorial State Continuing expansion of the commercial space industry and conflicting national laws require a stable and fair legal framework best adjudicated by the United Nations instead of allowing a patchwork system to persist The proper framework for developing such regulation is carefully discussed from all angles with a practical recommendation for policy makers in the field Higher Education and the Gendering of Space in England and Wales, 1869-1909 Georgia Oman,2023-06-07 This book offers a spatial history of the decades in which women entered the universities as students for the first time Through focusing on several different types of spaces such as learning spaces leisure spaces and commuting spaces it argues that the nuances and realities of everyday life for both men and women students during this period can be found in the physical environments in which this education took place as declaring women eligible for admittance and degrees did not automatically usher in coeducation on equal terms It posits that the intersection of gender and space played an integral role in shaping the physical and social landscape of higher education in England and Wales in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries whether explicitly as epitomised by the building of single sex colleges or implicitly through assumed behavioural norms and practices
