The Military Reforms of Nicholas I F. Kagan, 1999-04-14 In the 1830s Russia was facing a crisis The army was poorly organized the administration was underdeveloped inefficient and corrupt and the state was too poor to bear the strain This crisis was the principal driving force behind Russia's reforms of the 1830s and Nicholas policies can only be understood within the context of that crisis Within this context Frederick Kagan's The Military Reforms of Nicholas I examines Nicholas fundamental reorganization of the Russian military administration from 1832-1836 bringing about the birth of the modern Russian army S. Harrison Thomson Lubomyr Roman Wynar,1963 The Publishers Weekly,1972 The Crisis of Medieval Russia 1200-1304 John Fennell,2014-10-13 John Fennell's history of thirteenth century Russia is the only detailed study in English of the period and is based on close investigation of the primary sources His account concentrates on the turbulent politics of northern Russia which was ultimately to become the tsardom of Muscovy but he also gives detailed attention to the vast southern empire of Kiev before its eclipse under the Tatars The resulting study is a major addition to medieval historiography an essential acquisition for students of Russia itself and a book which decisively fills a vast blank on the map of the European Middle Ages for medievalists generally The Fiction and Reality of Jan Struys K. Boterbloem,2008-09-30 Dutch Sailmaker and sailor Jan Struys c 1629 c 1694 account of his various overseas travels became a bestseller after its first publication in Amsterdam in 1676 and was later translated into English French German and Russian This new book depicts the story of its author's life as well as the first singular analysis of the Struys text

The Language of Mineralogy Matthew D. Eddy,2016-12-05 Classification is an important part of science yet the specific methods used to construct Enlightenment systems of natural history have proven to be the b te noir of studies of eighteenth century culture One reason that systematic classification has received so little attention is that natural history was an extremely diverse subject which appealed to a wide range of practitioners including wealthy patrons professionals and educators In order to show how the classification practices of a defined institutional setting enabled naturalists to create systems of natural history this book focuses on developments at Edinburgh's medical school one of Europe's leading medical programs In particular it concentrates on one of Scotland's most influential Enlightenment naturalists Rev Dr John Walker the professor of natural history at the school from 1779 to 1803 Walker was a traveller cleric author and advisor to extremely powerful aristocratic and government patrons as well as teacher to hundreds of students some of whom would go on to become influential industrialists scientists physicians and politicians This book explains how Walker used his networks of patrons and early training in chemistry to become an eighteenth century naturalist Walker's mineralogy was based firmly in chemistry an approach common in Edinburgh's medical school but a connection that has been generally overlooked in the history of British geology By explicitly connecting eighteenth century geology to the chemistry being taught in medical settings this book offers a dynamic new interpretation of the nascent earth sciences as they were practiced in Enlightenment Britain Because of Walker's influence on his many students the book also provides a unique insight into how many of Britain's leading Regency and Victorian intellectuals were taught to think about the composition and structure of the material world

The Making of Russian Absolutism 1613-1801 Paul Dukes, 2014-01-14 Revised and expanded the second edition of this fascinating study surveys the first two centuries of Romanov rule from the foundation of the dynasty by Michael Romanov in 1613 to the accession of Alexander I in 1801 The central theme of the book is the growth of absolutism in Russia throughout these years and it traces in detail how the Russian variety of what was a contemporary European phenomenon came fully into being

Between Ideology and Utopia A. Liebich, 2012-12-06 Nineteenth century European intellectual history has given rise to such varied and abundant research that one is surprised to find certain important problems long identified and yet still relatively unexplored Such is the case for certain aspects of the crucial transition from Hegel to Marx for minority tendencies among French socialists and for the Messianic phenomenon national and religious so central to the period particularly in Eastern Europe and so rarely studied in detail Certainly these lacunae are exemplified by the absence of any com prehensive work on August Cieszkowski whose overall contribution to the history of the period may be marginal but whose specific role in each of the areas mentioned is both significant in itself and illustrative of certain wider problems Cieszkowski first achieved recognition as the author of the Pro legomena zur Historiosophie in 1838 This short tract never became popular among the Berlin Hegelians for whom it was intended but it affected a number of radical intellectuals outside their circle His next work Gott und Palingenesie was a defense of personal immortality against Hegelian revisionism The following year however he founded as a bulwark of the Hegelian school the Philosophische Gesellschaft against external critics and internal dissolution

Russia Geoffrey A. Hosking, 1997 The Soviet Union crumbles and Russia rises from the rubble once again the great nation a perfect scenario but for one point Russia was never a nation And this says the eminent historian Geoffrey Hosking is at the heart of the Russians dilemma today as they grapple with the rudiments of nationhood His book is about the Russia that never was a three hundred year history of empire building at the expense of national identity Russia begins in the sixteenth century with the inception of one of the most extensive and diverse empires in history Hosking shows how this undertaking the effort of conquering defending and administering such a huge mixture of territories and peoples exhausted the productive powers of the common people and enfeebled their civic institutions Neither church nor state was able to project an image of Russian ness that could unite elites and masses in a consciousness of belonging to the same nation Hosking depicts two Russias that of the gentry and of the peasantry and reveals how the gap between them widened by the Tsarist state s repudiation of the Orthodox messianic myth continued to grow throughout the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Here we see how this myth on which the empire was originally based returned centuries later in the form of the revolutionary movement which eventually swept away the Tsarist Empire but replaced it with an even more universalist one Hosking concludes his story in 1917 but shows how the conflict he describes continues to affect Russia right up to the present day
