English Dictionaries for Foreign Learners Anthony Paul Cowie, 1999 This is the first history of dictionaries of English for foreign learners from their origins in Japan and East Asia in the 1920s to the computerized compilations of the present. Monolingual dictionaries for foreign speakers were a revolutionary development at their outset and now represent a coming together of intellectual, technological and commercial forces almost unequalled in book publishing. As the author shows, the early history of EFL dictionaries was research-driven, arising directly from research in linguistic theory and language pedagogy; now it is user-driven, determined by what users require or are thought to require. The pioneering dictionaries were the work of individuals. Current dictionaries are the products of huge databases manipulated by sophisticated processing as publishers strive to share an immense and constantly growing global market. The book has both a thematic and a chronological structure. Three chapters describe the historical sequence over a period of some sixty years. These alternate with chapters dealing with phraseology, computers and corpus linguistics and research into dictionary users and uses. Three subjects central to the development of ELT dictionaries over the last thirty years. Dr Cowie examines the way in which availability of massive computing power has transformed the recording and analysis of current speech and shows how the growth of research into the users and uses of dictionaries has led to developments both in ELT lexicography and method. This readable and non-technical account is directed both at professionals in applied linguistics and English language teaching and at lexicographers but it will interest and fascinate everyone concerned with the analysis of English and faced with the challenge of recording of the subtleties of its grammar and meaning.

Bilingual Thematic Dictionaries Martin Stark, 2011-10-27 This book is concerned with bilingual thematic dictionaries (BTDs). The three chief aims of the research project are: 1. to identify the characteristic features of the bilingual thematic dictionary; 2. to gauge its usefulness and 3 to make suggestions as to how it could be improved Various approaches are adopted in order to reveal the nature of the BTD The typological approach considers the lexicographic genres bilingual thematic and pedagogical which have been combined to create this hybrid reference work Particular attention is paid to the BTD s immediate forerunner and closest lexicographic relative the monolingual thematic learner s dictionary Detailed textual analyses of contemporary thematic dictionaries identify the characteristic features of the macrostructure microstructure and other components from a structural perspective In order to evaluate the usefulness of the BTD features identified the textual analyses are supplemented by three pieces of user research involving a questionnaire to elicit learners opinions a test on the effectiveness of the access structure and an experiment to discover how a learner uses a BTD

Introducing Dictionaries to 10-14 Year Olds in the English Classroom Bianca Lehner, 2016-02-29 Diploma Thesis from the year 2005 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies grade 1 00 PH Oberoesterreich language English abstract This paper aims at raising the reader s awareness for the complexity of dictionaries and is meant to convey lots of additional information on dictionaries as such and also on how to use them especially with young learners of English in the classroom The majority of dictionary owners are not aware of the huge source of knowledge they could have access to if they had learned how to use a dictionary properly and therefore actually will not profit from their purchase The first thing most adults do when they start to learn a new language is to buy a dictionary because this seems to be the first step to successful language acquisition to them This might be true for some people who really know how to appropriate the multifarious information provided by their dictionaries
