The Acquisition of English Restrictive Relative Clauses by Hungarian Learners of English Judit Kiss-Gulyás, 2004 The present work uses the standard version of principles and parameters theory of Universal Grammar to address second language acquisition issues It is assumed that comparative analysis of Hungarian and English based on the model enables the researcher to formulate precise and testable questions and the empirical research provides reliable answers The investigated area is the acquisition of English restrictive relative clauses by L1 Hungarian learners of L2 English This area of grammar causes problems most of these are proficiency determined but there are some which are observable even at fairly advanced levels In the given framework it is postulated that some properties of parameters set differently for the L1 can be reset to the new language whereas other properties seem to resist re setting and remain non native like in the interlanguage of even near native L2 English speakers of L1 Hungarian The book may interest pure and applied linguists psycholinguists as well as practising teachers as it attempts to offer a possible answer to the often made observation there are parts of L2 grammar which are relatively easy to acquire despite the language differences yet there are several features that remain faulty or misunderstood despite teacher and learner effort BOOK JACKET Oxford Textbook of Urological Surgery Freddie C. The Oxford Guide to the Atlantic Languages of West Africa Friederike Lüpke, 2025-06-17. This volume presents the first book-length overview of the Atlantic languages, a small family of languages spoken mainly on the Atlantic coast of West Africa. Languages in this area have been used in diverse multilingual societies with intense language contact for the whole of their known history, and their genealogical relatedness and the impact of language contact on their lexicon and grammar have been widely debated. The book is divided into four parts. The first provides an introduction to language ecologies in the area and includes two accounts of the genealogical classification of Atlantic languages. Chapters in the second part offer grammatical overviews of individual languages, including the most important non-Atlantic contact languages, Casamance Creole and Mandinka, while the third part explores Atlantic languages from a typological perspective with chapters that explore formal and semantic aspects of their nominal classification systems, nominalization strategies, their rich system of verbal extensions, and the stem-initial consonant mutation that is attested in a subset of languages. The final part of the book investigates Atlantic languages in their social environments, including the creation of creole identities, secret languages, Ajami writing practices, language acquisition, the spread and use of Fula as a lingua franca, digital language practices, and language ideologies. The volume is an essential tool for linguists interested in the languages of West Africa, language history, and classification patterns of language use in Atlantic societies and typology and language contact more broadly. Cardiac Markers Alan H.
