Contemporary Masculinities in Fiction, Film and Television Brian Baker,2016-07-28 While masculinity has been an increasingly visible field of study within several disciplines sociology literary studies cultural studies film and tv over the last two decades it is surprising that analysis of contemporary representations of the first part of the century has yet to emerge

Professor Brian Baker evolving from his previous work Masculinities in Fiction and Film Representing Men in Popular Genres 1945-2000 intervenes to rectify the scholarship in the field to produce a wide ranging readable text that deals with films and other texts produced since the year 2000. Focusing on representations of masculinity in cinema popular fiction and television from the period 2000-2010 he argues that dominant forms of masculinity in Britain and the United States have become increasingly informed by anxiety trauma and loss and this has resulted in both narratives that reflect that trauma and others which attempt to return to a more complete and heroic form of masculinity. While focusing on a range of popular genres such as Bond films war movies science fiction and the Gothic the work places close analyses of individual films and texts in their cultural and historical contexts arguing for the importance of these popular fictions in diagnosing how contemporary Britain and the United States understand themselves and their changing role in the world through the representation of men fully recognising the issues of race ethnicity class sexuality and age. Baker draws upon current work in mobility studies and in the study of masculinities to produce the first book length comparative study of masculinity in popular culture of the first decade of the twenty first century.

Edinburgh Companion to Science Fiction and the Medical Humanities Donna

McCormack, Anna McFarlane, Gavin Miller, 2025-03-31 The medical humanities are becoming increasingly important as their first wave is interrogated by a critical approach that aims to uncover the wider possibilities of the field. In conversation with this debate this volume explores the ways in which science fiction studies can contribute to such discussions. Science fiction challenges techno optimism and offers a non realist avenue for the expression of illness experience. Science fiction also estranges its readers from their societies and the medical possibilities inherent in those societies inviting consideration of how medicine may be complicit with or opposed to other structures of power. By engaging these concerns this Companion volume offers a unique viewpoint on the power of the future to shape the present.

Envisaging Death Michele

Aaron, 2014-07-18 Envisaging Death Visual Culture and Dying enters the expanding field of Death Studies and connects some of its key interpretive frameworks such as issues of internment practice trauma or end of life care to visual culture and more than that to visual culture's socio political geographic and aesthetic specificities. Where the prevailing picture of death within this field is as a Western experience framed by its denial on one side and its sensationalism on the other this collection confronts the specifics of death's marginalisation its experience as local rather than universal and the precise relationship between the context and the cultural mediation of death. Who and where you are which part of the world you live in whether you are famous or wealthy subject to natural catastrophe civil unrest or high tech healthcare has enormous influence on how your death is marked imaged and imagined. As such this book addresses the socio cultural factors permeating and styling the visual and inevitably material treatment of death and dying in a broad array of personal and national settings. Advanced society has been characterised by an increased distancing of death from the everyday and its distortion or invisibility within the public sphere. The essays collected here return some shape and context and geo politics to the treatment of death and dying within contemporary culture and specifically within contemporary visual culture which provides an ever more dominating forum for society's depiction of and dealings with death Charting important new interdisciplinary terrain scholars and practitioners from a wide range of fields address an assortment of cultural mediations of real fictional or fictionalised death They navigate in different ways the fraught policed but always relative distance between the living and the dead which characterises these mediations a distance which works inevitably to reassure and re secure those supposedly untouched by death and dying Envisaging Death whether through discussion of the cemetery landscape the still or moving image the therapeutic or educational art practice addresses how such a distance is reinforced It also crucially explores countless cases of and increasing possibilities for the disruption of this distance With the various crises of current times be they economic environmental or regional such possibilities for this disruption and the altered dynamics of human connection that they represent can only gain in significance
