Presenting The Past Britain 1500 1750 Presenting The Past:

Britain 1500-1750 Keith Worrall, 2002 The second book of teacher s resources in a Key Stage 3 series      Echoing Events Tina van der Vlies, 2022-12-12 Echoing Events questions the perpetuation actualization and canonization of national narratives in English and Dutch history textbooks wide reaching media that tendentially inspire a sense of meaning memory and thus also identity The longitudinal study begins in the 1920s when the League of Nations launched several initiatives to reduce strong nationalistic visions in textbooks and ends in the new millennium with the revival of national narratives in both countries The analysis shows how and why textbook authors have narrated different histories which vary in terms of context epoch and place as echoing events by using recurring plots and the same combinations of historical analogies This innovative and original study thus investigates from a new angle the resistance of national narratives to change      Outdoor Learning: Past And Present Joyce, Rosaleen, 2012-02-01 This book places outdoor learning in a theoretical historical and social context of constructions of children childhood and the use of the outdoors      Climate: Present, Past and Future (Routledge Revivals) H. H. Lamb, 2013-09-05 First published in 1972 this first volume of Professor Lamb s study of our changing climate deals with the fundamentals of climate and climatology as well as providing global data on the contemporary climates of the twentieth century      The Smoke of London William M. Cavert, 2016-04-07 William M Cavert investigates the origins of urban air pollution explaining how this problem arose during the early modern period      The Making of Man-midwifery Adrian Wilson, 1995 In England in the seventeenth century childbirth was the province of women The midwife ran the birth helped by female gossips men including the doctors of the day were excluded both from the delivery and from the subsequent month of lying in But in the eighteenth century there emerged a new practitioner the man midwife who acted in lieu of a midwife and delivered normal births By the late eighteenth century men midwives had achieved a permanent place in the management of childbirth especially in the most lucrative spheres of practice Why did women desert the traditional midwife How was it that a domain of female control and collective solidarity became instead a region of male medical practice What had broken down the barrier that had formerly excluded the male practitioner from the management of birth This confident and authoritative work explores and explains a remarkable transformation a shift not just in medical practices but in gender relations Exploring the sociocultural dimensions of childbirth Wilson argues with great skill that it was not the desires of medical men but the choices of mothers that summoned man midwifery into being      Reading Early Modern Women Helen Ostovich, Elizabeth Sauer, 2004-08-02 Much has been written about women of the English Renaissance but few examples of women s writing from that era have been readily available until now This remarkable anthology assembles for the first time 144 primary texts and documents written by women between 1550 and 1700 and reveals an unprecedented view of the intellectual and literary lives of women in early modern England The writings range from poetry to philosophical treatises addressing a wide array of subjects including law gender education motherhood medicine religion life writing and the arts

Each selection is paired with a beautifully reproduced facsimile of the text's original source manuscript allowing a glimpse into the literary past that will lead the reader to truly appreciate the care and craft with which these women writers prepared their texts. This essential anthology is a captivating guide to the legacy of early modern women's literature and its authors that must not be overlooked.

Town and Countryside in Western Berkshire, c.1327-c.1600 Margaret Yates, 2007

A fresh examination of how society and economy changed at the end of the middle ages comparing urban and rural experience. The traditional boundary between the medieval and early modern periods is challenged in this new study of social and economic change that bridges the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. It addresses the large historical questions: what changed when and why through a detailed case study of western Berkshire and Newbury integrating the experiences of both town and countryside. Newbury is of particular interest being a rising cloth manufacturing centre that had contacts with London and overseas due to its specialist production of kerseys. The evidence comes from original documentary research and the data are clearly presented in tables and graphs. It is a book alive with the actions of people famous men such as the clothier John Winchcombe known as Jack of Newbury but more notably by the hundreds of individuals such as William Eyston or Isabella Bullford who acquired property cultivated their lands or in the case of Isabella managed the mill complex after her husband's death.

MARGARET YATES is Lecturer in History at the University of Reading.
