Homeownership and America's Financial Underclass Mechele Dickerson, 2014-06-30 Why does America have a love affair with homeownership For many buying a home is no longer in their best interest and may harm their children's educational opportunities This book argues that US leaders need to re-evaluate housing policies and develop new ones that ensure that all Americans have access to affordable housing whether rented or owned After describing common myths the book shows why the circumstances now faced by America's financial underclass make it impossible for them to benefit from homeownership because they cannot afford to buy homes It then exposes the risks of home buying while brown or black discussing US policies that made it easier for whites to buy homes but harder and more costly for blacks and Latinos to do so The book argues that remaining racial discrimination and certain demographic features continue to make it harder for blacks and Latinos to receive homeownership's promised benefits

Contemporary Patterns of Politics, Praxis, and Culture Georgia A. Persons, 2017-07-12 The National Political Science Review is the official publication of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists This new volume Contemporary Patterns of Politics Praxis and Culture reflects major research focuses across religion race gender culture and of course politics Themes that engage a community of scholars also engage them in praxis as individual citizens and practitioners in a democratic society and collectively as member participants in a changing culture Two themes religion and culture are relatively new areas of intellectual curiosity for political scientists Articles in this volume extend the beachheads already established by African American political scientists in studies that gauge the significance and influence of religion in both individual and group behavior They chart religion's inevitable move onto the center stage of U.S. public affairs The study of culture has essentially languished for almost a generation within political science especially with regard to the study of American politics and society During this time the emphasis has also shifted significantly from an almost exclusive focus on civic culture to an expanding focus on the broad expanse of popular culture in the contemporary period Culture is the crucible within which politics race religion and gender both foment and ferment and artistic products of the culture are manifestations and mirrors of how we envision and construct a changing reality Issues of race religion gender and culture are all dimensions of individual and group identity The dynamics of changing individual and group identities change the underlying cultural canvas against which identity is displayed and politics is acted out The concept of praxis is relatively new to the lexicon of political science However engagement in the practice of politics is not a new idea for African American social scientists Indeed particularly for this group and clearly for many others The Neighborhood Planning and Community-Based Development William Peterman,2000 This book explores the promise and limits of bottom up grass roots strategies of community organizing development and planning as blueprints for successful revitalization and maintenance of urban neighborhoods Peterman proposes conditions that need to be met for bottom up strategies to succeed Successful neighborhood development depends not only on local actions but also on the ability of local groups to marshal resources and political will at levels above that of the neighborhood itself While he supports community based initiatives he argues that there are limits to what can be accomplished exclusively at the grassroots level where most efforts fail Back cover The Creation of a Community Land Trust Program in Oakland, California Amy Beth Cohen,2002

Neighborhood Change and Neighborhood Action R. Allen Hays,2018-01-19 This book is an examination of neighborhood mobilization and engagement from the perspective of several disciplines psychology social work political science planning and education The essays included in the work examine both internal and external factors related to the ability of neighborhoods to meet the human needs of their residents They address the constraints put on neighborhood mobilization by the local and international political economy but they also show how those constraints can in a number of cases be overcome by effective action They treat neighborhood engagement as an educational process through which residents enhance their skills and knowledge as they participate Taken together these essays provide a comprehensive and multi faceted view of the issues facing contemporary urban neighborhoods Cities After Socialism Gregory

Andrusz,Michael Harloe,Ivan Szelenyi,2011-08-10 Cities After Socialism is the first substantial and authoritative analysis of the role of cities in the transition to capitalism that is occurring in the former communist states of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union It will be of equal value to urban specialists and to those who have a more general interest in the most dramatic socio political event of the contemporary era the collapse of state socialism Written by an international group of leading experts in the field Cities after socialism asks and answers some crucial questions about the nature of the emergent post socialist urban system and the conflicts and inequalities which are being generated by the processes of change now occurring Nonprofits in Urban America Cynthia Jackson-Elmoore,Richard C. Hula,2000-09-30 From their experience in nonprofit operations and their understanding of the realities of urban politics the editors of this wide ranging volume and their contributors dig into issues seldom explored in the literature They study the role of nonprofits in local governing coalitions the potential of nonprofits to replace social welfare programs their efforts to restructure key elements of the local political process and the unanticipated internal impacts of the changing roles of nonprofit organizations in the urban community The result is a compelling argument that to understand life in contemporary American cities we must take into account the expanding role of nonprofit organizations their response to increased service demands and their participation in common efforts to direct policy choices Hula Jackson Elmoore and their panel of scholars researchers and close observers of urban policymaking focus on the delivery of social services to illustrate the complex and important set of roles that nonprofits have assumed As social programs are cut at all levels of government it is often believed that nonprofits can and should take up the slack and restore at least some portion of the cutbacks in such services They examine how some nonprofit organizations have taken a proactive stance in this regard by implementing efforts that do not simply react to political and social change but attempt to initiate and guide it instead They attempt to change the political environment in which they operate and the result has been to change the face of local politics in many jurisdictions Each chapter of their book explores these expanding and emerging roles Themes and focuses vary which in turn reflects the variation and complexity within the nonprofit sector itself At the same time each chapter presents an emerging political or policy role now being played by today's nonprofits and voluntary associations and a theoretical context in which such activities and behavior can best be understood Scholars and advanced students in public administration economics and nonprofit management as well as executive level nonprofit managers will find here an important update on what is happening in their special worlds and the knowledge they need to make sense of it
