Koepf-Taylor, 2013-11-01 In the subsistence agricultural social context of the Hebrew Bible children were necessary for communal survival In such an economy children s labor contributes to the family s livelihood from a young age rather than simply preparing the child for future adult work Ethnographic research shows that this interdependent family life contrasts significantly with that of privileged modern Westerners for whom children are dependents This text seeks to look beyond the dominant cultural constructions of childhood in the modern West and the moral rhetoric that accompanies them so as to uncover what biblical texts intend to communicate when they utilize children as literary tropes in their own social cultural and historical context A.M.F. Spaulding, 2009-04-09 Commemorative Identities represents a significantly new approach to the issue of replacement abrogation vs continuation of Jewish thought patterns and practices among Jewish Christ followers as they are addressed by the Johannine author Previous studies have been unable to elucidate a comprehensible argument to support continuation of commemoration in the face of explicit Temple replacement terminology in the Gospel This study provides that argument based upon known sociological observations and models and direct comparative analysis with Jewish practices pre and post 70 Mary Spaulding s study will further invigorate scholarly debate concerning identity issues in the Fourth Gospel a topic of significant interest among Johannine scholars today More generally the origins of Christianity as portrayed in the Gospel of John are understood as a gradual unfolding of and differentiation among various Jewish groups post Second Temple rather than as an abrupt break from an established normative Judaism
