Patrick White Twaynes World Authors Series:

Dissociation and Wholeness in Patrick White's Fiction Laurence Steven, 1989-08-23 Most studies of Patrick White's fiction are devoted to elucidating archetypal patterns symbolic configurations and thematic preoccupations and generally to praising the way White's fictional elements combine to form a religio-mystical worldview Few have questioned this critical approach to White fewer still have questioned White's vision itself Yet according to the author questioning is in order for Patrick White is a man divided One part of him strives for permanence for the ideal in a world he knows is contingent and temporal a world that will undermine his striving This leads him as a novelist to devalue human life and to impose arbitrary symbolic resolutions on his novels This has been the focus of most critics But there is another side a part of White that strains away from the dualism of idealism versus despair and towards a vital wholeness that can be found not in a world beyond the one we live in but in human relationships It is this side of Patrick White argues Laurence Steven that is the source of his genuine power as a novelist An important challenge for the critic is to develop an ability to see within the restrictive compass White's symbolic designs impose on the novels the new shoots as D H Lawrence would have it which indicate new life new creativity and which point towards a wholeness which human beings can embrace as their own overshadowed in contemporary theory by perspectives of a linguistic or sociological orientation and by relativist sometimes negatory stances on all searches for meaning This book attempts to show that myth criticism and critical theories of more recent provenance are not irreconcilable While taking into consideration some of the more influential tenets of structuralist post-structuralist Marxist and feminist theory it applies a post-Jungian archetypal approach to illustrating the perennial nature of a particular myth the Fall of Man in two main traditions Mesopotamian and Christian and in the contemporary novel in English The discussions of five major novels by William Golding Patrick White Martin Amis Salman Rushdie and Wilson Harris not only serve to expand the mythological insights achieved in the first part of the book they also suggest the incommensurability of imaginal novelistic life with mythology's age-old intuitions about the human condition Myth criticism emerges from this book as an irreplaceable vantage point from which man's lapsarian predicament can be scrutinized synchronically as archaic wisdom contemporary anxiety and post-colonial commitment to the building of a new human city
