than an abstract crisis of masculinity or new man identity Concurrently in the 1980s changes in demography economics and ideology gave certain men greater freedom and spending power than ever before Edwards investigates how these men clearly distinguished by age class and sexual orientation were seduced by advertisers with sexualised images of suited city gents and body beautiful boys in Levis and how the resultant process of consumption was facilitated through developments in the practice of shopping itself such as easy access to credit He examines the influence of the advertisers message in creating a hierarchy of masculinity in which some men are valorised and others are denigrated Starting with a historical review of men s fashion and a discussion of its importance and meanings Edwards goes on to analyse the contemporary marketing of menswear and masculinity in advertising and in the media and considers the politics of fashion for men in terms of gender class race and sexuality
