Recollections of past life Sir Henry Holland, 1872

Recollections of an Old Cartman L. Lyon, 2023-03-13 Reprint of the original first published in 1872 The publishing house Anatiposi publishes historical books as reprints Due to their age these books may have missing pages or inferior quality Our aim is to preserve these books and make them available to the public so that they do not get lost Railroads in the Old South Aaron W. Marrs, 2022-02-03 An original history of the railroad in the Old South that challenges the accepted understanding of economic and industrial growth in antebellum America Drawing from both familiar and overlooked sources such as the personal diaries of Southern travelers papers and letters from civil engineers corporate records and contemporary newspaper accounts Aaron W Marrs skillfully expands on the conventional business histories that have characterized scholarship in this field He situates railroads in the fullness of antebellum life examining how slavery technology labor social convention and the environment shaped their evolution Far from seeing the Old South as backward and premodern Marrs finds evidence of urban life industry and entrepreneurship throughout the region But these signs of progress existed alongside efforts to preserve traditional ways of life Railroads exemplified Southerners pursuit of progress on their own terms developing modern transportation while retaining a conservative social order Railroads in the Old South demonstrates that a simple approach to the Old South fails to do justice to its complexity and contradictions The time is right to bring the South into the story of the economic transformation of antebellum America Aaron Marrs does this with force and grace in Railroads in the Old South John L Larson Purdue University I am hard pressed to think of another volume that better catches the overall effect railroads had on the Old South Kenneth W Noe Auburn University Interesting regional history It is a thoughtful and instructive study that examines not only the pervasiveness of transportation but also some of the social political and economic consequences associated with the evolution of southern railroads Choice Recollections of Past Life Henry Holland, 2023-02-04 Reprint of the original Critic and Literary World Jeannette Leonard Gilder, Joseph Benson Gilder, 1897 Recollections of past life Henry Holland, 1872 Guardian of Savannah Roger S. Durham, 2008 Durham s harrowing account of life and combat at Fort McAllister and of the subsequent restoration is augmented by twelve maps and sixty photographs including rare images of Sherman s troops at the end of the March to the Sea and of early preservation initiatives De Renne William Harris Bragg, 1999 Much of what is known today of Georgia history was preserved through the diligent efforts of a single family From Wormsloe their ancestral plantation near Savannah the De Rennes built an extraordinary collection of books and manuscripts on the history of the state and the Confederacy much of which is now housed at the University of Georgia and the Museum of the Confederacy This book focuses on their efforts in the years 1827 through 1970 conveying the passion and purpose with which they pursued their avocation William Harris Bragg has mined a vast array of archival sources to present this engaging narrative of the De Renne family He tells how wealthy bibliophile and philanthropist G W J De Renne and his wife Mary set the precedent for the family s accumulation of historic material how their son established the Wymberley Jones De Renne Georgia Library that bears his name and how his children in turn expanded upon that tradition The De Rennes also printed limited editions of primary historical materials beginning with the series known as the Wormsloe Quartos Bragg s account of three generations of the De Renne family vividly records their achievements as it reconstructs their life at Wormsloe and follows them in their travels around the world. It provides glimpses into the dynamics and behavior of one of Georgia's oldest and most prominent families and the evolution of the southern aristocracy. The book draws on newly available material to expand significantly on Ellis Merton Coulter's 1955 work Wormsloe and provides the most complete account to date of the De Rennes. Beyond the story of the De Renne family, Bragg also reveals much about the history of collecting and of the antiquarian book trade as well as of the evolution of Georgia's historical documentation. Appendix material includes genealogical tables and lists of collections and publications, making De Renne: Three Generations of a Georgia Family an invaluable source for all scholars and aficionados of southern history. AB Bookman's Weekly, 1989-05      Black Savannah, 1788-1864 Whittington Johnson, 1999-07-01 Black Savannah focuses upon efforts of African Americans free and slave who worked together to establish and maintain a variety of religious, social, and cultural institutions to carve out niches in the larger economy and to form cohesive black families in a key city of the Old South. Recollections of Oxford George Valentine Cox, 1870      Anti-Slavery Recollection Cb George Stephen, 2013-09-13 First Published in 1971 When in the spring of 1853 Harriet Beecher Stowe landed in Liverpool at the beginning of her first triumphal tour of the British Isles, one of the first people she met was Sir George Stephen. It was in its way a symbolic encounter. Both were second-generation abolitionists whose whole lives had been intimately linked with the progress of the anti-slavery causes in their respective countries. This is a collection of seventeen letters Sir George wrote to Mrs. Beecher Stowe. Recollections of the 26th Missouri Infantry, in the War for the Union Benjamin Devor Dean, 1892      Recollection in the Republics Imogen Peck, 2021-04-28 Following the execution of Charles I in January 1649, England's fledgling republic was faced with a dilemma: which parts of the nation's bloody recent past should be remembered and how, and which were best consigned to oblivion. Across the country, the state's opponents, local communities, and individual citizens were grappling with many of the same questions as calls for remembrance vied with the competing goals of reconciliation, security, and the peaceful settlement of the state. Recollection in the Republics provides the first comprehensive study of the ways Britain's Civil Wars were remembered in the decade between the regicide and the restoration. Drawing on a wide-ranging and innovative source base, it places the national authorities' attempts to shape the meaning of the recent past alongside evidence of what the English people, lords and labourers, men and women, veterans and civilians, actually were remembering. Recollection in the Republics demonstrates that memories of the domestic conflicts were central to the politics and society of England's republican interval, inflecting national and local discourses, complicating and transforming interpersonal relationships, and infusing and forging individual and collective identities. In so doing, it enhances our understanding of the nature of early modern memory and the experience of post-civil war states more broadly. Memory was a multifaceted dynamic resource, and this book emphasises its fecundity, the manifold meanings it possessed, and the creativity of those who deployed it. Further, by situating 1650s England in relation to other post-conflict societies, both within and beyond early modernity it points to a consistency in some of the challenges that have confronted post civil war states across time and space      Mornings on Horseback David McCullough, 2001-06 Winner of the 1982 National Book Award for Biography Mornings on Horseback is the brilliant biography of the young Theodore Roosevelt Hailed as a masterpiece by Newsday it also won the Los Angeles Times Book Prize for Biography Now with a new introduction by the author Mornings on Horseback is reprinted as a Simon Schuster Classic Edition Mornings on Horseback is about the world of the young Theodore Roosevelt It is the story of a remarkable little boy seriously handicapped by recurrent and nearly fatal attacks of asthma and his struggle to manhood an amazing metamorphosis seen in the context of the very uncommon household and rarefied social world in which he was raised His father is the first Theodore Roosevelt Greatheart a figure of unbounded energy enormously attractive and selfless a god in the eyes of his small frail namesake His mother Mittie Bulloch Roosevelt is a Southerner and celebrated beauty but also considerably more which the book makes clear as never before There are sisters Anna and Corinne brother Elliott who becomes the father of Eleanor Roosevelt and the lovely tragic Alice Lee Teddy Roosevelt s first love And while such disparate figures as Abraham Lincoln Mrs John Jacob Astor and Senator Roscoe Conkling play a part it is this diverse and intensely human assemblage of Roosevelts all brought to vivid life which gives the book its remarkable power The book spans seventeen years from 1869 when little Teedie is ten to 1886 when as a hardened real life cowboy he returns from the West to pick up the pieces of a shattered life and begin anew a grown man whole in body and spirit The story does for Teddy Roosevelt what Sunrise at Campobello did for FDR reveals the inner man through his battle against dreadful odds Like David McCullough s The Great Bridge also set in New York this is at once an enthralling story with all the elements of a great novel and a penetrating character study It is brilliant social history and a work of important scholarship which does away with several old myths and breaks entirely new ground For the first time for example Roosevelt s asthma is examined closely drawing on information gleaned from private Roosevelt family papers and in light of present day knowledge of the disease and its psychosomatic aspects At heart it is a book about life intensely lived about family love and family loyalty about courtship and childbirth and death fathers and sons about winter on the Nile in the grand manner and Harvard College about gutter politics in washrooms and the tumultuous Republican Convention of 1884 about grizzly bears grief and courage and blessed mornings on horseback at Oyster Bay or beneath the limitless skies of the Badlands Black care rarely sits behind a rider whose pace is fast enough Roosevelt once wrote It is the key to his life and to much that is so memorable in this magnificent book      Recollections of Past Life, Etc Sir Henry Holland, 1872
