Reconstituting The Market:

Reconstituting the Market Paul Hare, Judy Batt, 2005-08-12 Reconstituting the Market details many transition economies some already well known others enjoying very little attention from researchers and a range of important issues to do with state building and its links with microeconomic transformation The book was based on the authors view that transition in the new states would be fundamentally more difficult than in more established states a view which turned out to be incorrect since in all the transition countries the former communist state had to be largely rebuilt as part of the complex process of constructing a market economy Aspects of this process focusing on competition policy privatization and the regulation of public utilities are examined in respect to Central Europe the Baltics Russia Ukraine and Moldova The result is essential reading for anyone seeking an up to date account of key transition issues covering both familiar and unfamiliar countries

Reconstituting the Curriculum M. R. Islam, Gary M. Zatzman, Jaan S. Islam, 2013-11-13 Based on groundbreaking new ideas this treatise signals a return to a rebuilding and reshaping of the curriculum as the primary tool for education This book presents a new definition of curriculum and what it should consist of with a view toward creating a more ethical educated and thinking person Rather than treating students as products for society this approach returns to a view of the curriculum as a tool for educating students to reason through problems be bold in creating new solutions and contribute to a more vibrant just world The university curriculum introduced in the post Renaissance era dominated by doctrinal philosophy is based on learning or skill development suitable for creating a learned society that would eventually serve the establishment This curriculum has been promoted as the only form suitable for the modern education system It has introduced a tremendous amount of tangible advancement in all fields of the structured education system These tangible gains are often promoted as knowledge This has created confusion between education acquiring knowledge and learning training or skill development This book seeks to clarify the difference between these two divergent views of education It has been shown that the current curriculum is not conducive to increasing a student s knowledge because it is based on consolidating preconceived ideas that have been either passed on from previous generations or gained through personal experience In most cases this mode of cognition will not create a pathway for gaining knowledge that brings one closer to discovery The term education on the other hand is always meant to be a process of bringing forth one s inherent qualities and unique traits necessary and sufficient for increasing one s knowledge

The Transformation or Reconstitution of Europe Tamara Perišin, Siniša Rodin, 2018-03-08 It is generally understood that

EU law as interpreted by the ECJ has not merely reconstituted the national legal matrix at the supranational level but has also transformed Europe and shaken the well established often formalist ways of thinking about law in the Member States This innovative new study seeks to examine such a narrative through the lens of the American critical legal studies CLS perspective The introduction explains how the editors understand CLS and why its methodology is relevant in the European context Part II examines whether and how judges embed policy choices or even ideologies in their decisions and how to detect them Part III assesses how the ECJ acts to ensure the legitimacy of its decisions whether it resists implementing political ideologies what the ideology of European integration is and how the selection of judges influences these issues Part IV uses the critical perspective to examine some substantive parts of EU law rules on internal and external movement and the European arrest warrant It seeks to determine whether the role of the ECJ has really been transformative and whether that transformation is reversible Part V considers the role of academics in shaping the narratives of EU integration

Death of a Partner - English Navneet Singh, Ascertaining the Amount Due to Retiring Deceased Partner When a partner retires or passes away the amount due to the retiring or deceased partner needs to be ascertained This amount typically includes the partner s share of the partnership s assets including their share of goodwill and any accumulated profits or losses up to the date of retirement or death Here s how you can ascertain the amount due to a retiring or deceased partner

Calculate the Partner s Capital Account Balance Determine the partner s capital account balance as of the date of retirement or death This balance represents the partner s initial capital contribution their share of profits or losses and any additional capital contributions or withdrawals made during their tenure in the partnership

Value Partnership Assets Revalue partnership assets including both tangible and intangible assets such as property equipment inventory and goodwill The valuation should reflect the fair market value of these assets as of the date of retirement or death

Determine Partnership Liabilities Identify and quantify partnership liabilities including debts accounts payable and any other obligations Subtract these liabilities from the total value of partnership assets to determine the partnership s net assets

Calculate the Partner s Share of Net Assets Determine the retiring or deceased partner s share of the partnership s net assets based on their capital account balance and profit sharing ratio as specified in the partnership agreement This share represents the amount of assets attributable to the partner

Adjust for Goodwill If goodwill is recorded in the partnership s books determine the retiring or deceased partner s share of goodwill based on the agreed upon valuation method Include this amount in the calculation of the partner s share of net assets

Account for Accrued Profits or Losses Consider any accumulated profits or losses that have not yet been distributed to partners Allocate these profits or losses to the retiring or deceased partner based on their profit sharing ratio to determine their entitlement

Deduct Partner s Capital Account Balance Subtract the retiring or deceased partner s capital account balance from their share of net assets to ascertain the amount due to the partner This amount represents the partner s final settlement from the partnership

Settlement Process Arrange for the payment of the amount due to the retiring or deceased partner This may involve transferring cash assets or a combination thereof to the partner or their estate as specified in the partnership agreement or applicable laws

By following these steps you can ascertain the amount due to a retiring or deceased partner in a partnership ensuring a fair and equitable settlement that reflects the partner s contributions and entitlements within the partnership
