Because science is so central to life in the 21st century, science educators and other leaders of the scientific community believe that it is essential that everyone understand the basic concepts of the most vital and far-reaching disciplines. Human Origins 101 does exactly that. This accessible volume provides readers, whether students new to the field or just interested members of the lay public, with the essential ideas of the origins of humans using a minimum of jargon and mathematics. Concepts are introduced in a progressive order so that more complicated ideas build on simpler ones, and each is discussed in small bite-sized segments so that they can be more easily understood. Human Origins 101 enables students and the general public to understand the basic concepts underlying our knowledge of our evolution as a species. This small volume covers: A brief history of paleoanthropology and the discovery of human's place in nature; Evolution and the Origin of Life; Clues to human origins from genetics; The fossil and archaeological records; The distinctive traits that make us human; The diversity of modern humans; With a bibliography, glossary, and discussion of hoaxes, fringe theories, and hot button issues. Human Origins 101 provides the perfect starting point for anyone wishing to understand how scientists know how humans evolved.

Studying Human Origins Raymond Corbey, Wil Roebroeks, 2001 This history of human origin studies covers a wide range of disciplines. This important new study analyses a number of key episodes from palaeolithic archaeology, palaeoanthropology, primatology, and evolutionary theory in terms of various ideas on how one should go about such reconstructions and what, if any, the uses of such historiographical exercises can be for current research in these disciplines. Their carefully argued point is that studying the history of palaeoanthropological thinking about the past can enhance the quality of current research on human origins The main issues in the present volume are the uses of disciplinary history in terms of present day research concerns the relative weight of cultural and other external contexts and continuity and change in theoretical perspectives The book s overall approach is an epistemological one It does not in other words primarily address anthropological data as such but our ways of handling such data in terms of our most fundamental but usually quite implicit theoretical presuppositions Outlines and Highlights for Reconstructing Human Origins Cram101 Textbook

Human Evolution Francisco José Ayala, Camilo José Cela Conde, 2017 The discoveries of the last decade have brought about a completely revised understanding of human evolution due to the recent advances in genetics palaeontology ecology archaeology geography and climate science Written by two leading authorities in the fields of physical anthropology and molecular evolution Processes in Human Evolution presents a reconsidered overview of hominid evolution synthesising data and approaches from a range of inter disciplinary fields The authors pay particular attention to population migrations since these are crucial in understanding the origin and dispersion of the different genera and species in each continent and to the emergence of the lithic cultures and their impact on the evolution of cognitive capacities Processes in Human Evolution is intended as a primary textbook for university courses on human evolution and may also be used as supplementary reading in advanced undergraduate and graduate courses It is also suitable for a more general audience seeking a readable but up to date and inclusive treatment of human origins and evolution Human Evolution and the Origins of Hierarchies Benoît Dubreuil, 2010-09-06 In this book Beno t Dubreuil explores the creation and destruction of hierarchies in human evolution Combining the methods of archaeology anthropology cognitive neuroscience and primatology he offers a natural history of hierarchies from the point of view of both cultural and biological evolution This volume explains why dominance hierarchies typical of primate societies disappeared in the human lineage and why the emergence of large scale societies during the Neolithic period implied increased social differentiation the creation of status hierarchies and eventually political centralisation Human Evolution John H. Langdon, 2023-01-01 This is an introductory textbook for the study of human evolution and covers all major topics of human origins taught under paleoanthropology anthropology archaeology and evolutionary biology courses This book differs from the existing selection of textbooks in the following ways It incorporates the most recent fossil discoveries and interpretations It balances the discussion between descriptions of fossils and interpretations of behavior of hominins in different time periods It includes current findings of genomics into understanding the more recent stages of human evolution This important subdiscipline is badly underserved by current texts It consistently addresses the relationship of evidence to our current hypotheses and interpretations The book has an engaging and lucid style suitable for those entering the field Students will find ample case studies illustrations and examples helpful in understanding difficult concepts Tables timelines and maps in every chapter include data summaries and key points The book highlights peripheral points and background concepts in side boxes for easy reference and lists key ideas at the end of each chapter This up to date and easy to read text is suitable for both classroom study and self learning Time Maps Eviatar Zerubavel, 2003-05-15 Time Maps extends beyond all of the old clich s about linear circular and spiral patterns of historical process and provides us with models of the actual legends used to map history It is a brilliant and elegant exercise in model building that provides new insights into some of the old questions about philosophy of history historical narrative and what is called straight history Hayden White University of California Santa Cruz Who were the first people to inhabit North America

Does the West Bank belong to the Arabs or the Jews Why are racists so obsessed with origins Is a seventh cousin still a cousin Why do some societies name their children after dead ancestors As Eviatar Zerubavel demonstrates in Time Maps we cannot answer burning questions such as these without a deeper understanding of how we envision the past In a pioneering attempt to map the structure of our collective memory Zerubavel considers the cognitive patterns we use to organize the past in our minds and the mental strategies that help us string together unrelated events into coherent and meaningful narratives as well as the social grammar of battles over conflicting interpretations of history Drawing on fascinating examples that range from Hiroshima to the Holocaust from Columbus to Lucy and from ancient Egypt to the former Yugoslavia Zerubavel shows how we construct historical origins how we tie discontinuous events together into stories how we link families and entire nations through genealogies and how we separate distinct historical periods from one another through watersheds such as the invention of fire or the fall of the Berlin Wall Most people think the Roman Empire ended in 476 even though it lasted another 977 years in Byzantium Challenging such conventional wisdom Time Maps will be must reading for anyone interested in how the history of our world takes shape Burn Herman Pontzer PhD,2022-04-19 One of the foremost researchers in human metabolism reveals surprising new science behind food and exercise We burn 2 000 calories a day And if we exercise and cut carbs we ll lose more weight Right Wrong In this paradigm shifting book Herman Pontzer reveals for the first time how human metabolism really works so that we can finally manage our weight and improve our health Pontzer s groundbreaking studies with hunter gatherer tribes show how exercise doesn t increase our metabolism Instead we burn calories within a very narrow range nearly 3 000 calories per day no matter our activity level This was a brilliant evolutionary strategy to survive in times of famine Now it seems to doom us to obesity The good news is we can lose weight but we need to cut calories Refuting such weight loss hype as paleo keto anti gluten anti grain and even vegan Pontzer discusses how all diets succeed or fail For shedding pounds a calorie is a calorie At the same time we must exercise to keep our body systems and signals functioning optimally even if it won t make us thinner Hunter gatherers like the Hadza move about five hours a day and remain remarkably healthy into old age But elite athletes can push the body too far burning calories faster than their bodies can take them in It may be that the most spectacular athletic feats are the result not just of great training but of an astonishingly efficient digestive system Revealing irreverent and always entertaining Pontzer has written a book that will change how you eat move and live Marriage, a History Stephanie Coontz,2006-02-28 Just when the clamor over traditional marriage couldn t get any louder along comes this groundbreaking book to ask What tradition In Marriage a History historian and marriage expert Stephanie Coontz takes readers from the marital intrigues of ancient Babylon to the torments of Victorian lovers to demonstrate how recent the idea of marrying for love is and how absurd it would have seemed to most of our ancestors It was when marriage moved into the emotional sphere in the nineteenth century she argues that it suffered as an institution just as it began to thrive as a personal relationship This enlightening and hugely entertaining book brings intelligence perspective and wit to today's marital debate Home John S Allen, 2015-12-29 A leading anthropologist studies the science behind feeling at home to show us how home made us human Home is where the heart is Security comfort even love are all feelings that are centered on the humble abode But what if there is more to the feeling of being at home Neuroanthropologist John S Allen believes that the human habitat is one of the most important products of human cognitive technological and cultural evolution over the past two million years In Home Allen argues that to feel at home is more than just an expression but reflects a deep seated cognitive basis for the human desire to have use and enjoy a place of one's own Allen addresses the very basic question How did a place to sleep become a home Within human evolution he ranks house and home as a signature development of our species as it emerged alongside cooperative hunting language and other critical aspects of humanity Many animals burrow making permanent home bases but primates generally speaking do not most wander making nests at night wherever they might find themselves This is often in home territory but it isn't quite home Our hominid ancestors were wanderers too so how did we over the past several million years find our way home To tell that story Allen will take us through evolutionary anthropology neuroscience the study of emotion and modern sociology He examines the home from the inside of our heads out homes are built with our brains as much as with our hands and tools Allen argues that the thing that may have been most critical in our evolution is not the physical aspect of a home but developing a feeling of defining creating and being in a home whatever its physical form The result was an environment relatively secure against whatever horrors lurked outside that enabled the expensive but creative human mind to reach its full flowering Today with the threat of homelessness child foster care and foreclosure this idea of having a home is more powerful than ever In a clear and accessible writing style Allen sheds light on the deep cognitive sources of the pleasures of having a home the evolution of those behaviors and why the deep reasons why they matter Home is the story about how humans evolved to create a space not only for shelter but also for nurturing creativity innovation and culture and why feeling at home is a fundamental aspect of the human condition Human Origins , 2011 Describes how mapping the human genome has aided paleoanthropologists in their study of ancient bones used to explore human origins from the earliest humans bipedal apes up to Martin Pickford's Millennium Man Genes, Language, & Culture History in the Southwest Pacific Jonathan S. Friedlaender, 2007-04-19 The broad arc of islands north of Australia that extends from Indonesia east towards the central Pacific is home to a set of human populations whose concentration of diversity is unequalled elsewhere Approximately 20% of the world's languages are spoken here and the biological and genetic heterogeneity among the groups is extraordinary Anthropologist W W Howells once declared diversity in the region so Protean as to defy analysis However this book can now claim considerable success in describing and understanding the origins of the genetic and linguistic variation there In order to cut through this biological knot the authors have applied a comprehensive battery of genetic analyses to an intensively sampled set of populations and have subjected these and complementary linguistic data to a variety of phylogenetic analyses This has revealed a number of heretofore unknown ancient Pleistocene genetic variants that are only found in these island populations and has also identified the genetic footprints of more recent migrants from Southeast Asia who were the ancestors of the Polynesians The book lays out the very complex structure of the variation within and among the islands in this relatively small region and a number of explanatory models are tested to see which best account for the observed pattern of genetic variation here The results suggest that a number of commonly used models of evolutionary divergence are overly simple in their assumptions and that often human diversity has accumulated in very complex ways

Reticulate Evolution and Humans Michael L. Arnold, 2008-10-02 Reticulate Evolution and Humans is the first book to describe the effect of genetic exchange on the origin and evolution of our own species as well as those species with which we have and continue to interact closely both evolutionarily and culturally After demonstrating how genetic exchange has affected H sapiens the book goes on to describe how the same processes have structured the evolution of organisms on which the human species depends for shelter sustenance and companionship It also considers the dark side of gene transfer as it pertains to the evolution and adaptation of human disease vectors and diseases The development of the central thesis of this book that reticulate evolution via introgressive hybridization and lateral gene transfer has been a pervasive factor in the evolution and cultural development of H sapiens its ancestors sister taxa and associated organisms reveals the extent of these processes across the widest of taxonomic temporal and spatial bounds We cannot escape the conclusion that we are constantly fed entertained sheltered attacked and killed by organisms that possess mosaic genomes reflective of widespread genetic exchange during evolutionary diversification

The Social Origins of Language Danny Dor, Chris Knight, Jerome Lewis, 2014 This book presents a new perspective on the origins of language and highlights the key role of social and cultural dynamics in driving language evolution It considers among other questions the role of gesture in communication mimesis play dance and song in extant hunter gatherer communities and the time frame for language evolution
