Mansion of Compassion Kenneth Berryhill, 2013-08-13 Mansions of Compassion Two and a half years in its creation my novel Mansions of Compassion is set in pre and post Civil War years in and about New Orleans Louisiana In New Orleans on a bay inlet peninsula was once a flourishing hotel The French Quarter resort that hosted the elite of society men and women of southern grace and charm The water inlet known to native Frenchmen and well to do alike is simply The Chateau The Chateau Laurent with its lush greenery and red clay high cliffs could not be seen from the bay and is only accessible for visitors from New Orleans by flat bottom river boats guided only by seasoned river pilots from the Chateau or from New Orleans itself Antebellum mansions and several huge country houses belonging to affluent cotton planters and politicians are hidden behind manicured acreage lawns and huge weeping willow trees Prosperous vineyards and a huge orchard grace the countryside Decades after its huge success the Chateau Laurent falls into a state of economic disaster and decay With its original corrupt leaders gone and no younger generation to repopulate the once beautiful Chateau The New Orleans New Day Preparatory School for Girls as well The French Quarter Hotel looks doomed A small pier facing the bay and away from the shallow rocks of the back waters berth deep hulled foreign frigates that arrive to sell apparel fashions and slaves to the highest bidders and wares to the not so affluent main populace of native employee Islanders The Isle is governed by two of its original wealthy elder settlers Irishman John Lockridge and Englishman Isiah Crowe together at first they built an honest enterprise for the entertainment of the Southern elite and share the proceeds with the their employee Islanders John Lockridge and his family own a huge sprawling antebellum mansion called Walnut Manor in which they host elaborate barbecues for elbow rubbing politicians and bureaucrats on business trips from Georgetown New York City Baltimore Richmond and Atlanta In addition he owns several fast racehorses and will stable private owned racehorses for the affluent clientele Powerful money changes hands at the oval race track known as Queen's Way the same bettors are invited to the dock area where they can choose from an array of imported apparel from the waterfront gazebos domestic hand made custom carriages purchase a tax free slave or two or purchase quilts for the family back home Isiah Crowe also owns a stately house on the Isle and although not as wealthy as John Lockridge he is the

other business partner and the point man for scheduling events paying the employee Islanders and making sure that the well to do visitors have all of the opportunity they need to spend their money A shrewd and calculating man he doesn't have Lockridge's pleasant mannerisms wit and class He doesn't reinvest in the Isle but takes his share of the proceeds to Georgetown where in the off season he builds and operates a lucrative import and export dock which he calls The Georgetown Wharf When at the Isle the wharf is managed by his cunning Barrack Master Weary of its small handout proceed economy and the administration's heavy handedness many descendants of the original Islanders come to age in their own right and move away to spoken of places that the rich southern visitors are from or cities that the northern visitors are from big city places that are talked about but not seen like New York City Baltimore or Philadelphia While John Lockridge lies ill with a devastating stroke Isiah soon realizes that with the departure of more and more of the young populace the future of the Isle is gone and so are his investments in the racetrack and dock In the next two years his share of the Isles profits dwindle while the wharf takes shape and thrives in Georgetown Isiah kn The Doheny Mansion Mary Ann Bonino,2008

Many Mansions Alexis Soleil,2023-10-27 A successful real estate tycoon reunites with his long lost brother who's homeless and lives under the New York subway system Moses and his fraternal twin brother Isaac dreamt of entering real estate as kids They loved watching beautiful homes on TV social media in magazines and in real time During their childhood Moses and Isaac were close because Isaac was albino and he always came to his brother's defense from the cruel people who judged him When the twins became teenagers their brotherly bond broke due to Moses gaining popularity good grades parental favoritism and the girls After their high school graduation Isaac ran away from home and never returned Meanwhile Moses moved on with life He got his college education and real estate license and built his business He enjoyed the good life while his brother Isaac lived in the murky filthy sewage of the subway tunnels One day Moses and his soon to be wife Shawnette were shopping at the supermarket when a destitute gentleman a few customers ahead of them couldn't afford to pay for his food Moses offered to pay for the items recognizing his brother Isaac The brother's reunion wasn't easy because there was still lots of jealousy envy and betrayal Moses wanted Isaac to be his business partner in his real estate company that he built from the ground up Just like when they were kids Moses and Isaac envisioned themselves going into business together And now it's a reality Moses and Isaac realized their stepfather was responsible for their broken relationship After getting rid of this monster from their lives they focused on their passion The twins sold luxurious homes and also created homes for the homeless population Empty Mansions Bill Dedman,Paul Clark Newell, Jr.,2014-04-22 1 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER NAMED ONE OF THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR BY Janet Maslin The New York Times St Louis Post Dispatch When Pulitzer Prize winning journalist Bill Dedman noticed in 2009 a grand home for sale unoccupied for nearly sixty years he stumbled through a surprising portal into American history Empty Mansions is a rich mystery of wealth and loss connecting the Gilded Age opulence of the nineteenth century with a twenty first century battle over a 300 million inheritance At its heart is a reclusive heiress named Huguette Clark a woman so secretive that at the time of her death at age 104 no new photograph of her had been seen in decades Though she owned palatial homes in California New York and Connecticut why had she lived for twenty years in a simple hospital room despite being in excellent health Why were her valuables being sold off Was she in control of her fortune or controlled by those managing her money Dedman has collaborated with Huguette Clark's cousin Paul Clark Newell Jr one of the few relatives to have frequent conversations with her Dedman and Newell tell a fairy tale in reverse the bright talented daughter born into a family of extreme wealth and privilege who secrets herself away from the outside world Huguette was the daughter of self made copper industrialist W A Clark nearly as rich as Rockefeller in his day a controversial senator railroad builder and founder of Las Vegas She grew up in the largest house in New York City a remarkable dwelling with 121 rooms for a family of four She owned paintings by Degas and Renoir a world renowned Stradivarius violin a vast collection of antique dolls But wanting more than treasures she devoted her wealth to buying gifts for friends and strangers alike to quietly pursuing her own work as an artist and to guarding the privacy she valued above all else The Clark family story spans nearly all of American history in three generations from a log cabin in Pennsylvania to mining camps in the Montana gold rush from backdoor politics in Washington to a distress call from an elegant Fifth Avenue apartment The same Huguette who was touched by the terror attacks of 9 11 held a ticket nine decades earlier for a first class stateroom on the second voyage of the Titanic Empty Mansions reveals a complex portrait of the mysterious Huguette and her intimate circle We meet her extravagant father her publicity shy mother her star crossed sister her French boyfriend her nurse who received more than 30 million in gifts and the relatives fighting to inherit Huguette's copper fortune Richly illustrated with more than seventy photographs Empty Mansions is an enthralling story of an eccentric of the highest order a last jewel of the Gilded Age who lived life on her own terms

The House with No Keys Lindsay Currie, 2025-09-30 This exhilarating sequel to the 1 New York Times bestseller The Mystery of Locked Rooms follows the famous Deltas as they race to complete the most challenging escape room they've ever faced and confront their fears in order to save their friendship It's been just over a year since Sarah Hannah and West made it through the epic funhouse that changed their lives forever Since then the three best friends have been working for Mr William Taters the owner of that very funhouse renamed The Delta Game and completing every challenging escape room they can But then a strange invitation shows up from the ominous and cryptic owner of a new funhouse The Mystery Mansion The Mystery Mansion claims to be the biggest and best escape house ever and it's opening just miles away from The Delta Game The mysterious owner has invited the trio to come test it on opening day offering a ten thousand dollar prize if they successfully escape The prize is exciting but the three friends don't want to be a walking advertisement for a competitor to their beloved The Delta Game But maybe the only way to keep their funhouse in business is to accept the invite escape the mansion in record time and show just how boring and easy it is by comparison The trio arrive on opening day armed with
