

The African Nationalist Idea of Africa

By Tlhabane Mokhele Dan Motaung

Abstract

This paper probes the impact of colonial designs in the fabrication of native subjectivities, which eventuated in toxic political identities that would later undermine the post-colonial nationalist project. African history was shaped by three discursive periods: pre-colonial, colonial and post-colonial. The colonisation period deformed, distorted and adulterated Africa's pre-colonial cultural landscape—its sense of selfhood. African nationalism was a response to this ontologically debilitated condition of African personhood resulting from the violence of self-serving European colonial modernity, which created a structured subjugation of the African 'other.' African colonial elites at once defined and epitomised various forms of African nationalism against European incursion. However, these African modernisers failed to grasp the historicity of such enduringly baneful identity politics, and were thereby often themselves cast into the vortex of social contradictions reflective of this history. Mamdani made this observation when he stated that in kick-starting the nation-building project after independence, post-colonial elites turned their backs on the history of colonialism and thus on their own history. Instead, they modelled their political imagination on the modern European state, the result being the nationalist dream was imposed on the reality of coloniality imposed fragmentation, leading to new rounds of nation-building by ethnic cleansing. Consequently, African nationalism has invariably spread across large swathes of post-colonial Africa as it degenerated into odious ethno-nationalism and chauvinism. Only through a deeper historical understanding of these colonial processes of African political identification can we begin to understand how this once glorious African nationalism regressed into a dystopian one. This article draws on history to dissect this legacy of subjective forms of African self-understanding.

Reflections Of An African Nationalist:

Reflections of an African Nationalist T. O. Dosumu-Johnson, 1980 Nkrumaism and African Nationalism Matteo Grilli, 2018-08-06 This book examines Ghana's Pan African foreign policy during Nkrumah's rule investigating how Ghanaians sought to influence the ideologies of African liberation movements through the Bureau of African Affairs the African Affairs Centre and the Kwame Nkrumah Ideological Institute In a world of competing ideologies when African nationalism was taking shape through trial and error Nkrumah offered Nkrumaism as a truly African answer to colonialism neo colonialism and the rapacity of the Cold War powers Although virtually no liberation movement followed the precepts of Nkrumaism to the letter many adapted the principles and organizational methods learnt in Ghana to their own struggles Drawing upon a significant set of primary sources and on oral testimonies from Ghanaian civil servants politicians and diplomats as well as African freedom fighters this book offers new angles for understanding the history of the Cold War national liberation and nation building in Africa

Reflections of South African University Leaders: 1981 to 2014 Council on Higher Education, 2016-03-17 Much has been written about the ever growing demands on university leadership worldwide in the face of increasingly complex changes and challenges from within the academy and beyond However as we are reminded by Johan Muller in the Introduction to this book there are particular features of time and place that also throw up unique problems It is precisely time and place that make this set of reflections by university leaders quite remarkable and distinguishes it from the many biographies to be found in the literature on higher education leadership In the main this collection spans two decades the 1990s and 2000s of unprecedented levels of change in South African higher education Leaders in universities as well as those responsible for higher education policy in the government and associated statutory bodies had no neat script to work off nor manuals or prescripts of good leadership or practice Instead there was palpable excitement about collectively imagining and nurturing a new post apartheid higher education system which would contribute to the social and economic development needs of the country the deepening of democracy and which would also be globally relevant Most reflections touch on the coalface of leadership which is the face to face interactional dimension dealing with staff with students with council chairs What comes through clearly is the importance of what are sometimes called people skills In these accounts this is not simply presented as a human relations aptitude for a number of reasons first of which is the special nature of universities and their occupants More than one points out the special challenge of managing the talented people that are academics and their inbuilt distaste for bureaucracy their reluctance to be managed or told what to do The message here is consistently one of needing to be completely open with academics the importance of maintaining the distinction between collegial and executive management avoiding managerialism and the critical importance of winning and holding their trust The inspiration for this collection arose in late 2013 in the Council on Higher Education's CHE Monitoring and Evaluation Directorate the directorate responsible for conducting research on the higher education landscape and monitoring the state of the sector They noted that conditions besetting universities had grown increasingly complex both globally but more especially locally and the question arose how had this altered the challenges to university leadership over the period between the new political dispensation and the second decade of the new millennium More particularly how had leaders with a proven track record of visionary and strong leadership during this period faced these challenges How did they see the main changes that needed dealing with What challenges did these changes pose and how were they successfully overcome What did they think looking back were the main constituents of successful leadership and management What wisdom could be distilled for posterity The Directorate decided to invite a range of vice chancellors and senior academic leaders who had completed their terms of office to contribute to a project that set out to gather such reflections and compile them into a publication

The Athens of West Africa Daniel J. African Nationalism from Apartheid to Post-Apartheid South Africa Ellen Wesemüller,2005-08-01 With the help of discourse analysis and ideology critique Ellen

Wesem ller establishes a theoretical framework to analyze African nationalism in apartheid and post apartheid South Africa Following the constructivist school of thought the study adopts the assumption that nations are imagined communities which are built on invented traditions It shows that historically and analytically there are two distinct concepts of nationalism constitutional and ethnic nationalism These concepts can be retraced in South Africa where they form the central antagonism of black political thought The study of post apartheid African nationalism is placed in its historical perspective by focusing on the major milestones of African National Congress discourse before and during apartheid It demonstrates that throughout its history the ANC was characterized by the rivalry between concepts of constitutional and ethnic nationalism While the former concept found its counterpart in Charterism the latter was adopted by African nationalism Though the ANC in its majority embraced Charterism it continually played with the appeal of an exclusive racial nationalism The theoretical and historical contextualization of the book allows for the investigation of the various dimensions of current ANC discourse on African nationalism Wesem ller analyses different concepts of nationalism employed by the ANC and compares these models to those discussed in academic literature She concludes that in post apartheid South Africa the historical dichotomy of Africanist and Charterist nationalism persists within the ANC While early concepts of nationalism like Mandela s rainbow nation and Mbeki s I am an African paid tribute to Charterism the discourses on the African Renaissance and Mbeki s two nation address at least leave openings for Africanist interpretations Furthermore the analysis shows that nationalism is not only a product of discourse but also one of material conditions The study provides evidence that it is not only the ANC that hijacks African nationalism in order to mobilize their electorate and push through unpopular policy choices Also there are compelling material reasons for some South Africans to adopt a nationalist agenda This is demonstrated by the new black bourgeoisie that mediates the gap between rich and poor as well as black and white African nationalism in this regard serves to legitimate domination and existing relations of inequality It affirms an African elite while neither uplifting the majority of African poor nor threatening the material privileges of white South Africans Lastly Ellen Wesem ller gives an outlook on the political implications of a resurrected nationalism The effects can be analyzed according to the two promises of nationalism superiority over outsiders and equality between insiders Superiority in post apartheid South Africa is established over other African countries immigrants and inner South African groups that are considered foreign

African Union Kofi Kissi Dompere, 2006-02-28 The monograph advances a sociological political and politico economic theoretic argument for African unity The conceptual system is based on the philosophy of polyrhythmicity The methods and techniques of the argument are drawn from the logic of polyrhythmics where conflicts in cultural differences as revealed in Africa s diversity are viewed as strength and beauty in unity within the Africentric mindset These cultural conflicts and differences must be concretized in unity for Africa s emancipation development and social welfare improvements The main premise of the book is that Africa must unite without which Africa s rapid socio economic development will be kept in arrested mode and held hostage by imperial system of predation through international strategic resource games The validity of the main premise is demonstrated from a global conceptual view of African nationalism The concept of global African nationalism is developed from the Pan African analytical foundations after reviewing other views with the title African nationalism The logic of the analysis is systematically constructed from the building blocks and conceptual relationships among state specific nationalism ethnic specific affinity and tribal specific affinity and the roles they may play in facilitating or inhibiting Africa s complete emancipation through politico economic unity The relationships are linked to events of contemporary dynamics of the modus operandi of global predation resource conflicts and politico economic power distribution over the global resource and demographic space In general the monograph presents a multidisciplinary theory of regional integration with a special emphasis on Africa s global position The monograph addresses itself to researchers scholars diplomats political practitioners students and those in the general public who are engaged in economics political science sociology theory of regional integration African studies Africana studies Black studies and activists searching for better global tomorrow

Nationalism and National Projects in Southern Africa Ndlovu-Gatsheni, Sabelo J., Ndhlovu, Finex, 2013 Despite the fact that nationalism and its national projects have in recent years been severely criticised by postcolonial theorists for being fundamentalist and essentialist by feminists for being patriarchal and exclusive by global financial institutions for being antagonistic to development and globalisation by Pan Africanists for being anticontinental unity and by those Africans born after decolonisation for being irrelevant Sabelo J Ndlovu Gatsheni and Finex Ndhlovu s book convincingly argues that nationalism has defied its death and displayed remarkable resilience and resonance Since the end of the Cold War what has been poignant has been the enduring contest tensions and contradictions between the growth of various forms of transnationalism on the one hand and a resurgence of territorial as well as other narrow and xenophobic forms of nationalism on the other In this important book Ndlovu Gatsheni and Ndhlovu provide new critical reflections on nationalism and its national projects in southern Africa covering South Africa Zimbabwe and the Democratic Republic of Congo DRC a member of SADC The national question is interrogated from different disciplinary vantage points to reveal how it impinges on contemporary challenges of nation building development devolution of power language questions and citizenship on the one hand and ethnicity nativism and xenophobia on the other

From Foreign Natives to Native Foreigners. Explaining Xenophobia in Post-apartheid South Africa M. Neocosmos,2010 The events of May 2008 in which 62 people were killed simply for being foreign and thousands were turned overnight into refugees shook the South African nation This book is the first to attempt a comprehensive and rigorous explanation for those horrific events It argues that xenophobia should be understood as a political discourse and practice As such its historical development as well as the conditions of its existence must be elucidated in terms of the practices and prescriptions which structure the field of politics In South Africa the history of xenophobia is intimately connected to the manner in which citizenship has been conceived and fought over during the past fifty years at least Migrant labour was de nationalised by the apartheid state while African nationalism saw the same migrant labour as the foundation of that oppressive system Only those who could show a family connection with the colonial and apartheid formation of South Africa could claim citizenship at liberation Others were excluded and seen as unjustified claimants to national resources Xenophobia's conditions of existence the book argues are to be found in the politics of post apartheid nationalism where state prescriptions founded on indigeneity have been allowed to dominate uncontested in conditions of an overwhelmingly passive conception of citizenship The de politicisation of an urban population which had been able to assert its agency during the 1980s through a discourse of human rights in particular contributed to this passivity Such state liberal politics have remained largely unchallenged As in other cases of post colonial transition in Africa the hegemony of xenophobic discourse the book contends is to be sought in the specific character of the state consensus

Flexible Regional Economic Integration in Africa Timothy Masiko, 2022-04-21 This book examines the relationship between flexible regional economic integration in the East African Community EAC through its application of variable geometry and the establishment of the African Continental Free Trade Area AfCFTA as a continent wide form of integration It uses a historical political legal and economic analysis of the processes that led to the adoption of flexible regional integration in Africa with particular regard to the EAC This takes place in the inescapable context of pan Africanism showing how regional integration efforts in Africa are based on pan Africanist ideals and how an evolution of these ideals has led to an evolution in the goals of integration With growing awareness of the weaknesses and impracticality of consensus based decision making on a global level it makes the case for the pursuit of flexibility in multilateral trade drawing lessons from the experience of the AfCFTA and blocs in other regions This book is a historical evaluation of regional economic integration efforts in Africa and it follows the path of attempts to integrate the economies on the continent from colonial times to the birth of the AfCFTA While it is a study in law it relies heavily on politics economics and history to weave together a more complete theory of economic integration based on the African experience Flexible Regional Economic Integration in Africa was awarded the 2020 SIEL Hart Prize in International Economic Law
