In antiquity the expertise of the Babylonians in matters of the heavens was legendary and the roots of both western astronomy and astrology are traceable in cuneiform tablets going back to the second and first millennia BC The Heavenly Writing first published in 2004 discusses the place of Babylonian celestial divination horoscopy and astronomy in Mesopotamian intellectual culture Focusing chiefly on celestial divination and horoscopes it traces the emergence of personal astrology from the tradition of celestial divination and the use of astronomical methods in horoscopes It further takes up the historiographical and philosophical issue of the nature of these Mesopotamian celestial sciences by examining elements traditionally of concern to the philosophy of science without sacrificing the ancient methods goals and interests to a modern image of science This book will be of particular interest to those concerned with the early history of science      A History of Ancient Mathematical Astronomy O. Neugebauer, 2012-12-06 From the reviews This monumental work will henceforth be the standard interpretation of ancient mathematical astronomy It is easy to point out its many virtues comprehensiveness and common sense are two of the most important Neugebauer has studied profoundly every relevant text in Akkadian Egyptian Greek and Latin no matter how fragmentary With the combination of mathematical rigor and a sober sense of the true nature of the evidence he has penetrated the astronomical and the historical significance of his material His work has been and will remain the most admired model for those working with mathematical and astronomical texts D Pingree in Bibliotheca Orientalis 1977 a work that is a landmark not only for the history of science but for the history of scholarship HAMA History of Ancient Mathematical Astronomy places the history of ancient Astronomy on a entirely new foundation We shall not soon see its equal N M Swerdlow in Historia Mathematica 1979      Astrological Comments John M.
