Mark A. Russell, 2020-04-15 Steamship Nationalism is a cultural social and political history of the S S Imperator Vaterland and Bismarck Transatlantic passenger steamships launched by the Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktien Gesellschaft HAPAG between 1912 and 1914 they do not enjoy the international fame of their British counterparts most notably the Titanic Yet the Imperator class liners were the largest most luxurious passenger vessels built before the First World War In keeping with the often overlooked history of its merchant marine as a whole they reveal much about Imperial Germany in its national and international dimensions As products of business decisions shaped by global dynamics and the imperatives of international travel immigration and trade HAPAG's giant liners bear witness to Germany's involvement in the processes of globalization prior to 1914 Yet this book focuses not on their physical but on their cultural construction in a variety of contemporaneous media including the press and advertising on both sides of the Atlantic At home they were presented to the public as symbolic of the nation's achievements and ambitions in ways that emphasize the complex nature of German national identity at the time Abroad they were often construed as floating national monuments and as such facilitated important encounters with Germany both virtual and real for the populations of Britain and America Their overseas reception highlights the multi faceted image of the European superpower that was constructed in the Anglo American world in these years More generally it is a pointed indicator of the complex relationship between Britain the United States and Imperial Germany

Trapping and the Detection, Control, and Regulation of Tephritid Fruit Flies Todd Shelly,Nancy Epsky,Eric B. Jang,Jesus Reyes-Flores,Roger Vargas,2014-10-06 The book focuses on four broad topics related to trapping of agriculturally important tephritid fruit flies namely i lures and traps ii invasion biology and detection of infestations iii attract and kill systems and iv trade regulations and risk assessment

This comprehensive structure progresses from the biological interaction between insect and lures traps to the area wide use of trapping systems to the utilization and impact of trapping data on international trade The chapters include accounts of earlier research but are not simply compendia and instead evaluate past and current work as a tool for critical analysis and proposal of productive avenues for future work At present there is no book available that deals with fruit fly trapping in such a broad context Our book fills this gap and serves as a global reference for both those interested in fruit flies specifically as well as anyone dealing with the threat of invasive agricultural insects in general

Fruit Fly Research and Development in Africa - Towards a Sustainable Management Strategy to Improve Horticulture Sunday Ekesi, Samira A.

Mohamed, Marc De Meyer, 2016-12-01 Horticultural sector presents many opportunities for economic development and improving livelihood of growers but several factors constrain production and limit the potential for trade of fruits and vegetables Tephritid fruit flies constitute a major constraint They cause enormous losses through direct feeding damage and loss of market opportunities through imposition of quarantine restrictions by importing countries to prevent entry and their establishment In Africa several native Ceratitis and Dacus spp and exotic Bactrocera and Zeugodacus spp species inflict considerable losses to horticulture causing losses ranging from 30 90% Over the past 10 years of R coverage of African native species has been limited largely to Bactrocera oleae and Ceratitis capitata which are not economically important species in many Africa countries Indeed no book exist that have explicitly addressed economically important African fruit flies and none of the various reviews have specifically focused on the status of the bioecology economic impact and management of exotic and native fruit flies including several potentially invasive Dacus species attacking vegetables in Africa This book consolidates this status of knowledge and socio economic impact of various intervention techniques that are currently being applied across Africa The timing of the book is especially pertinent due to the changing fruit fly landscape in Africa caused by arrivals of the highly destructive alien invasives Bactrocera dorsalis B zonata and B latifrons and the priorities African countries have placed recently on export of fruits and vegetables to international markets This is an important reference material for researchers academics and students that are keen at improving horticulture and enhancing food and nutrition security in Africa and beyond
