Ly Or Zero Suffix?. Lise Opdahl, 1997 LY Or Zero Suffix?: Overview Lise Opdahl, 2000 Ly Or Zero Suffix?:
Appendixes I-VI Lise Opdahl, LY Or Zero Suffix? Lise Opdahl, 2000 A study in linguistic variation this work deals with those much discussed but little researched adverbs which in present day English sometimes occur with the suffix ly and sometimes not e.g. direct directly and wrong wrongly The forms studied are 20 de adjectival adverbial pairs which occur fairly regularly as verb modifiers without displaying well established and clear semantic differences between the two forms The present work in two volumes first investigates which factors have been mentioned previously as explanatory for the choice of form and then tests to what extent these factors seem to apply Both British and American material is analysed collected from machine readable corpora and through elicitation The results show contrary to some claims that no one parameter seems to influence the choice of form and that the adverbial lexemes vary considerably in their profiles in this respect The lexemes can be grouped in various ways which may be useful e.g. in the teaching of English Some findings indicate instability suggesting potential language change LY Or Zero Suffix?: Adverbial profiles Lise Opdahl, 2000

Adjectives in Germanic and Romance Petra Sleeman, Freek Van de Velde, Harry Perridon, 2014-02-15 Although the Germanic and Romance languages are two branches of the same language family and although both have developed the adjective as a separate syntactic and morphological category the syntax morphology and interpretation of adjectives is by no means the same in these two language groups and there is even variation within each of the language groups One of the main aims of this volume is to map the differences and similarities in syntactic behavior morphology and meaning of the Germanic and Romance adjective and to find an answer to the following question Are the similarities the result of autonomous developments in each of the two branches of the Indo European language family or are they caused by language contact
