Marter, 2011 Arranged in alphabetical order these 5 volumes encompass the history of the cultural development of America with over 2300 entries The 20th Century A-GI Frank N. Magill, 2013-05-13 Each volume of the Dictionary of World Biography contains 250 entries on the lives of the individuals who shaped their times and left their mark on world history This is not a who s who Instead each entry provides an in depth essay on the life and career of the individual concerned Essays commence with a quick reference section that provides basic facts on the individual s life and achievements The extended biography places the life and works of the individual within an historical context and the summary at the end of each essay provides a synopsis of the individual s place in history All entries conclude with a fully annotated bibliography Psychoanalytic Perspectives on Art, V. 3 Mary M. Gedo, 2013-05-13 This new hardcover annual offers a unique scholarly format an interdisciplinary dialogue that it is hoped will foster the development of a sound useful methodology for applying psychoanalytic insight to art and artists The series provides a medium for those who study art those who interpret it and occasionally those who create it formally to explore the meaning of an artistic work as the direct reflection of the inner world of its creator Within each volume individual topics are addressed by either an art historian or a psychoanalyst with a response frequently tendered by an expert from the other field Reviews of important books of cross disciplinary interest are treated in a similar manner and include rebuttals by the authors themselves It is precisely this exchange of ideas among scholars with difference perspectives on the meaning of a work of art that sets PPA apart from the standard art history publication Its depth of scholarship coupled with its innovative format make it a fascinating addition to the burgeoning field of psychoanalytic studies of art history DADA, Surrealism, and the Cinematic Effect R. Bruce Elder, 2015-10-15 This book deals with the early intellectual reception of the cinema and the manner in which art theorists philosophers cultural theorists and especially artists of the first decades of the twentieth century responded to its advent While the idea persists that early writers on film were troubled by the cinema's lowly form this work proposes that there was another largely unrecognized strain in the reception of it Far from anxious about film's provenance in popular entertainment some writers and artists proclaimed that the cinema was the most important art for the moderns as it exemplified the vibrancy of contemporary life This view of the cinema was especially common among those whose commitments were to advanced artistic practices Their notions about how to recast the art media or the forms forged from those media's materials and the urgency of doing so formed the principal part of the conceptual core of the artistic programs advanced by the vanguard art movements of the first half of the twentieth century This book a companion to the author's previous Harmony and Dissent examines the Dada and Surrealist movements as responses to the advent of the cinema studies for the 21st century this book critically explores her legacy and showcases the current state of Angela Carter scholarship It gives new insights into Carter s pyrotechnic creativity and pays tribute to her incendiary imagination in a reappraisal of Angela Carter s work her influences and influence Drawing attention to the highly constructed artifice of Angela Carter s work it brings to the fore her lesser known collection of short stories Fireworks Nine Profane Pieces to reposition her as more than just the author of The Bloody Chamber On the way it also explores the impact of her experiences living in Japan in the light of Edmund Gordon s 2016 biography and Natsumi Ikoma s translation of Sozo Araki s Japanese memoirs of Carter

The Beribboned Bomb Robert James Belton, 1995 Surrealism was ostensibly directed at the emancipation of the human spirit but it represented only male aspirations and fantasies until a number of women artists began to redefine its agenda in the later 1930s This book addresses the former using a thick description of the historically specific circumstances which required the male Surrealists to manufacture a sexual reputation of narcissism and misogyny These circumstances were determined by hegemonic masculinity an ideological construct which had little to do with individual masculinities In male Surrealism the beribboned bomb signified something both attractive and volatile a specific instance of the Surrealist principle of convulsive beauty In hegemonic masculinity similar devices served as metaphors of the sexuality all men were supposed to possess The intersection of these two axes produced an imagery of unrepentant violence

The Optical Unconscious Rosalind E. Krauss, 1994-07-25 The Optical Unconscious is a pointed protest against the official story of modernism and against the critical tradition that attempted to define modern art according to certain sacred commandments and self fulfilling truths The account of modernism presented here challenges the vaunted principle of vision itself And it is a very different story than we have ever read not only because its insurgent plot and characters rise from below the calm surface of the known and law like field of modernist painting but because the voice is unlike anything we have heard before Just as the artists of the optical unconscious assaulted the idea of autonomy and visual mastery Rosalind Krauss abandons the historian s voice of objective detachment and forges a new style of writing in this book art history that insinuates diary and art theory and that has the gait and tone of fiction The Optical Unconscious will be deeply vexing to modernism s standard bearers and to readers who have accepted the foundational principles on which their aesthetic is based Krauss also gives us the story that Alfred Barr Meyer Shapiro and Clement Greenberg repressed the story of a small disparate group of artists who defied modernism's most cherished self descriptions giving rise to an unruly disruptive force that persistently haunted the field of modernism from the 1920s to the 1950s and continues to disrupt it today In order to understand why modernism had to repress the optical unconscious Krauss eavesdrops on Roger Fry in the salons of Bloomsbury and spies on the toddler John Ruskin as he amuses himself with the patterns of a rug we find her in the living room of Clement Greenberg as he complains about smart Jewish girls with their typewriters in the 1960s and in colloquy with Michael Fried about Frank Stella's love of baseball Along the way there are also narrative encounters with Freud Jacques Lacan Georges Bataille Roger Caillois Gilles Deleuze and Jean Fran ois Lyotard To embody this optical unconscious Krauss turns to the pages of Max Ernst's collage novels to Marcel Duchamp's hypnotic Rotoreliefs to Eva Hesse's luminous sculptures and to Cy Twombly's Andy Warhol's and Robert Morris's scandalous decoding of Jackson Pollock's drip pictures as Anti Form These artists introduced a new set of values into the field of twentieth century art offering ready made images of obsessional fantasy in place of modernism's intentionality and unexamined compulsions Arts Digest ,1987
