Oeuvres Bibliothèque De La Pléiade:

La bibliothèque de la Pléiade Joëlle Gleize, 2009 La Bibliothèque de la Pléiade conçue dès 1931 par Jacques Schiffrin et dirigée par Gallimard depuis 1933 a acquis le statut d'une véritable institution littéraire. Comment la collection s'est-elle construite au fil du temps et des éditions? Panorama des modèles et instances de la constitution et étude de quelques exemples philosophiques et poétiques de choix critiques et de leurs effets littéraires. Oeuvres Paul Valéry, 1957-01-01 Love, Desire and Transcendence in French Literature Paul Gifford, 2016-12-05 European literature and theory of the twentieth century have been intensely preoccupied with questions of Desire whereas love has increasingly represented a fractured and strange if not actually suspect proposal: this is a prime symptom of an age of deep cultural mutation and uncertainty. Paul Gifford's book allows this considerable contemporary phenomenon to be observed steadily and whole with strategic understanding of its origins, nature and meaning. Gifford paints a clear and coherent picture of the evolution of erotic ideas and their imaginary and formal expressions in modern French writing. He first retraces the formative matrix of French tradition by engaging with five classic sources: Plato's Symposium, the Song of Songs, the myth of Genesis, the tension between Greek Eros and Christian Agape, and the repercussions of Nietzsche's declaration of the death of God. Modern variations on these perennial problematics are then pursued in ten chapters devoted to Proust, Valéry, Claudel, Breton, Bataille, Duras, Barthes, Irigaray, Emmanuel, Kristeva. Literary and theoretical perspectives are perfectly blended in his study of these attempts at deciphering Eros. The book will appeal not only to students of French literature but to all those interested in the cultural upheavals of the twentieth century.

The Demon of Noontide Reinhard Clifford Kuhn, 2017-03-14 Kierkegaard claimed that the gods created man because they were bored, and Baudelaire predicted that the delicate monster of boredom would one day swallow up the whole world in an immense yawn. Between these two statements lies the undefined expanse of ennui whose manifestations in European literature form the fascinating subject of this book. Reinhard Kuhn's aim is to define the demon of noontide, to learn how writers through the ages have treated it, and to discover what it indicates about the nature of the creative act. Originally published in 1976, The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905. The Documentary Imagination in Twentieth-Century French Literature Alison James, 2020-09-03 The Documentary Imagination in Twentieth-Century French Literature identifies a documentary impulse in French literature that emerges at the end of the nineteenth century and culminates in a proliferation of factual writings in the twenty-first. Focusing on the period bookended by these two moments, it highlights the enduring concern with factual reference in texts that engage either with current events or the historical archive. Specifically, it considers a set of ideas and practices centered on the conceptualization and use of documents. In doing so it contests the widespread narrative that twentieth century French literature abandons the realist enterprise and argues that writers instead renegotiate the realist legacy outside or at the margins of the fictional space of the novel. Analyzing works by authors including Gide, Breton, Aragon, Yourcenar, Duras and Modiano, the book defines a specific documentary mode of literary representation that records, assembles and investigates material traces of reality. The document is a textual, visual or material piece of evidence repurposed through its visual insertion, textual transcription or description within a literary work. It is a fact, but it also becomes a figure standing for literature's confrontation with the real. The documentary imagination involves a fantasy of direct access to a reality that speaks for itself. At the same time it gives rise to concrete textual practices that open up new directions for literature by interrogating the construction and interpretation of facts.

A Critical Study of Condillac's Ellen McNiven Hine, 2012-12-06. The Traite des systemes is a milestone in the intellectual history of the eighteenth century. This is a study of its content, structure, sources and importance. It includes a discussion of Condillac's analysis of good and bad systems, the adequacy of his knowledge and understanding of the speculative metaphysics of the preceding century, the effectiveness of his method of attack on seventeenth century metaphysical systems, his conception of empirical and scientific method and in particular his understanding of the role of hypotheses, his application of the Newtonian scientific method to politics, physics and the arts, and finally his preoccupation with the meaning of words and with the origin and purpose of language. Speculative metaphysical systems such as those of Descartes, Malebranche, Boursier, Leibniz and Spinoza are attacked by Condillac as are popular superstitions and prejudices with the weapon of linguistic criticism. It is the systematic use of this weapon which makes the Traite des systemes more than a reflection of his contemporary antipathy towards speculative metaphysics.

Victims of the Book François Proulx, 2019-11-08. Victims of the Book uncovers a long neglected but once widespread subgenre, the fin de siècle novel of formation in France. Novels about and geared toward adolescent male readers were imbued with a deep worry over young Frenchmen's masculinity as evidenced by titles like Crise de jeunesse (Youth in Crisis, 1897), La Crise virile (Crisis of Virility, 1898), La Vie stérile (A Sterile Life, 1892) and La Mortelle Impuissance (Deadly Impotence, 1903). In this book François Proulx examines a wide panorama of these novels, many of which have rarely been studied, as well as polemical essays, pedagogical articles and medical treatises on the perceived threats posed by young Frenchmen's reading habits. Against this cultural backdrop he illuminates all that was at stake in representations of the male reader by prominent novelists of the period, including Jules Vallès, Paul Bourget, Maurice Barrès, André Gide and Marcel Proust. In the final decades of the nineteenth century social commentators insistently characterized excessive reading as an emasculating illness that afflicted French youth. Fin de siècle writers responded to this pathologization of reading with a profusion of novels addressed to young male readers paradoxically proposing their own novels as potential cures. In the early twentieth century this corpus was critically revisited by a new generation of writers. Victims of the Book shows how Gide and Proust in particular reworked the fin de siècle paradox to subvert cultural norms about literature and masculinity proposing instead a queer pact between writer and reader. Croître ou périr Carol Blum, 2013 Letters, Numbers, Forms Raymond Queneau, 2007 The first English translation of essays from one of the twentieth century's most intriguing avant garde writers. Compiled from two volumes of Raymond Queneau's essays Bons chiffres et lettres and Le Voyage en Grèce these selections find Queneau at his most playful and at his most serious eloquently pleading for a certain classicism even as he reveals the roots of his own wildly original oeuvre. Ranging from the funny to the furious they follow Queneau from modernism to postmodernism by way of countless fascinating detours including his thoughts on language literary fashions myth politics poetry and other writers. Faulkner Flaubert Hugo and Proust. Translator Jordan Stump provides an introduction as well as explanatory notes about key figures and Queneau himself. East and West Entangled (17th-21st Centuries) Rolando Minuti, Giovanni Tarantino, 2023 History has to reorient as the historian and sociologist Andre Gunder Frank observed. In the global or globalised age a culture is no longer regarded as a discrete entity but rather as a hybrid formation that interacts with other cultures in an incessant process of multidirectional exchange. Bringing together Eastern and Western case studies ranging from the seventeenth to the twenty first centuries this volume reminds historians that to conduct transcultural analyses they need to be alert to the multiple ways comic intents included in which difference is negotiated within contacts and encounters from selective appropriation to rejection or resistance. The Rest Is Silence Joanna Stalnaker, 2025-10-14 A moving intimate portrait of the Enlightenment philosophers as they faced the end of their lives and their historical moment. What would the Enlightenment look like if we viewed it through the eyes of the philosophers as they were facing death? Joanna Stalnaker turns our usual perspective on the Enlightenment on its head bringing to light a set of works written at the end of the Old Regime and at the end of their authors' lives. These works all written before the French Revolution cast a retrospective glance over the intellectual movement their authors participated in and over the authors' own lives and works. Stalnaker shows that the beauty of these works stems from their authors' efforts to give literary form to the materiality and fragility of their dying bodies. As they reflected on writing as a means of reaching posterity Enlightenment philosophers embraced the possibility that neither their names nor their writings would survive long beyond the decomposition of their bodies. They inscribed the silence and nothingness of death into their last works. Stalnaker's book unsettles reigning interpretations of the Enlightenment as a precursor to our modernity and shows its protagonists at their moments of fragility and doubt capturing their sense of an ending rather than the confidence in a glowing future so often attributed to them.

Obsolete Objects in the Literary Imagination Francesco Orlando, 2008-10-01 Translated here into English for the first time is a monumental work of literary history and criticism comparable in scope and achievement to Eric Auerbach's Mimesis. Italian critic Francesco Orlando explores Western literature's obsession with outmoded and nonfunctional objects: ruins, obsolete machinery, broken things, trash, etc. Combining the insights of psychoanalysis and literary political history, Orlando traces this obsession to a turning point in history at the end of eighteenth-century industrialization when the functional becomes the dominant value of Western culture. Roaming through every genre and much of the history of Western literature, the author identifies distinct categories into which obsolete images can be classified and provides myriad examples. The function of literature, he concludes, is to remind us of what we have lost and what we are losing as we rush toward the future.

The Esoteric Secrets of Surrealism Patrick Lepetit, 2014-04-24 A profound understanding of the surrealists' connections with alchemists and secret societies and the hermetic aspirations revealed in their works. Explains how surrealist paintings and poems employed mythology, gnostic principles, tarot, voodoo, alchemy, and other hermetic sciences to seek out unexplored regions of the mind and recover lost psychic and magical powers. Provides many examples of esoteric influence in surrealism, such as how Picasso's Demoiselles d'Avignon was originally titled The Bath of the Philosophers. Not merely an artistic or literary movement, as many believe, the surrealists rejected the labels of artist and author bestowed upon them by outsiders, accepting instead the titles of magician, alchemist, or in the case of Leonora Carrington and Remedios Varo, witch. Their paintings, poems, and other works were created to seek out unexplored regions of the mind and recover lost psychic and magical powers. They used creative expression as the vehicle to attain what Andr  Breton called the supreme point, the point at which all opposites cease to be perceived as contradictions. This supreme point is found at the heart of all esoteric doctrines, including the Great Work of alchemy, and enables communication with higher states of being. Drawing on an extensive range of writings by the surrealists and those in their circle of influence, Patrick Lepetit shows how the surrealists employed mythology, gnostic principles, tarot, voodoo, and alchemy not simply as reference points but as significant elements of their ongoing investigations into the fundamental nature of consciousness. He provides many specific examples of esoteric influence among the surrealists, such as how Picasso's famous Demoiselles d'Avignon was originally titled The Bath of the Philosophers, how painter Victor Brauner drew from his father's spiritualist vocation as well as the Kabbalah and tarot, and how doctor and surrealist author Pierre Mabille was a Freemason focused on finding initiatory paths where it is possible to feel a new system connecting man with the universe. Lepetit casts new light on the connection between key figures of the movement and the circle of adepts gathered around Fulcanelli. He also explores the relationship between surrealists and Freemasonry, Martinists, and the Elect Cohens, as well as the Grail mythos and the Arthurian brotherhood.

Kant, God and Metaphysics Edward Kanterian, 2017-11-15 Kant is widely acknowledged as the greatest philosopher of modern times. He undertook his famous critical turn to save human freedom and morality from the challenge of determinism and materialism.

Intertwined with his metaphysical interests however he also had theological commitments which have received insufficient attention He believed that man is a fallen creature and in need of redemption He intended to provide a fortress protecting religious faith from the failure of rationalist metaphysics from the atheistic strands of the Enlightenment from the new mathematical science of nature and from the dilemmas of Christian theology itself Kant was an epistemologist a philosopher of mind a metaphysician of experience an ethicist and a philosopher of religion But all this was sustained by his religious faith This book aims to recover the focal point and inner contradictions of his thought the secret thorn of his metaphysics as Heidegger once put it It first locates Kant in the tradition of reflection on the human weakness from Luther to Hume and then engages in a critical but charitable manner with Kant's entire pre-critical work including his posthumous fragments Special attention is given to The Only Possible Ground 1763 one of the most difficult interesting and underestimated of Kant's works The present book takes its cue from an older approach to Kant but also engages with recent Anglophone and continental scholarship and deploys modern analytical tools to make sense of Kant What emerges is an innovative and thought provoking interpretation of Kant's metaphysics set against the background of forgotten religious aspects of European philosophy

Fallen Nature, Fallen Selves Michael Moriarty, 2006-05-25 From the late sixteenth to the late seventeenth centuries French writing is especially concerned with analysing human nature The ancient ethical vision of man's nature and goal we achieve fulfilment by living our lives according to reason the highest and noblest element of our nature survives even to some extent in Descartes But it is put into question especially by the revival of St Augustine's thought which focuses on the contradictions and disorders of human desires and aspirations Analyses of behaviour display a powerful suspicion of appearances Human beings are increasingly seen as motivated by self-love they are driven by the desire for their own advantage and take a narcissistic delight in their own image Moral and religious writers re-emphasize the traditional imperative of self-knowledge but in such a way as to suggest the difficulties of knowing oneself Operating with the Cartesian distinction between mind and body they emphasize the imperceptible influence of bodily processes on our thought and attitudes They analyse human beings' ignorance due to self-love of their own motives and qualities and the illusions under which they live their lives Their critique of human behaviour is no less searching than that of writers who have broken with traditional religious morality such as Hobbes and Spinoza A wide range of authors is studied some well known others much less so the abstract and general analyses of philosophers and theologians Descartes Jansenius Malebranche are juxtaposed with the less systematic and more concrete investigations of writers like Montaigne and La Rochefoucauld not to mention the theatre of Corneille Molière and Racine
