Pleasure and Guilt on the Grand Tour Chloe Chard, 1999 This work examines the forms of language that map out Italy as an imaginative topography of pleasure within British and French travel writing over the period 1600 to 1830 It considers the tour with reference to strategies of description and themes

Moving Scenes Alison E. Martin, 2017-12-02 Accounts of travel to England reached unprecedented levels of popularity in the German states in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Competition therefore increased for travel writers to produce travelogues which offered the most authentic original and vibrant picture of England The wider range of narrative strategies which travellers consequently deployed increasingly drew on the emotional responses of their audience whether to serve a political purpose show concern for the darker side to the Industrial Revolution or simply demonstrate the humanitarian interests of the travellers themselves In this broad ranging study Alison E Martin draws on a variety of travellers men and women canonical and forgotten to chart the fascinating variety of styles and approaches which mark this highly interdisciplinary genre

Bombs Away! Wilfried Wilms, William Rasch, 2006 Prompted by recent challenges to and debates about the relative public silence concerning the effects of the Allied air war over Europe during World War II this collection of essays examines literary visual film and photography and institutional museums representations of the bombing of civilian targets predominantly in Germany The authors examine narrative strategies of both well known and relatively little known works as well as the moral and ideological presuppositions of the varied representations of the depredations of total war The introduction and afterword by the editors invite the readers to expand the contours and historical context of the debates about the German public discourse on the bombing war beyond the narrow confines of perpetrators and victims The volume will be of interest to literary scholars historians and the general reading public interested in warfare and its effects on civilian populations

Romanticism and Visuality Sophie Thomas, 2007-12-12 This book investigates the productive crosscurrents between visual culture and literary texts in the Romantic period focusing on the construction and manipulation of the visual the impact of new visual media on the literary and historical imagination and on fragments and ruins as occupying the shifting border between the visible and the invisible It examines a broad selection of instances that reflect debates over how seeing should itself be viewed instances from Daguerre's Diorama to the staging of Coleridge's play Remorse to the figure of the Medusa in Shelley's poetry and at the Phantasmagoria in which the very act of seeing is represented or dramatized In reconsidering literary engagements with the expanding visual field this study argues that the popular culture of Regency Britain reflected not just emergent and highly capitalized forms of mass entertainment but also a lively interest in the aesthetic and conceptual dimensions of looking. What is commonly thought to be the Romantic resistance to the visible gives way to a generative fascination with the visual and its imaginative even spectacular possibilities.

Making Sense Ralf Hertel, 2021-07-26 Fiction is fascinating. All it provides us with is black letters on white pages yet while we read we do not have the impression that we are merely perceiving abstract characters. Instead we see the protagonists before our inner eye and hear their voices. Descriptions of sumptuous meals make our mouths water; we feel physically repelled by depictions of violence or are aroused by the erotic details of sexual conquests. We submerge ourselves in the fictional world that no longer stays on the paper but comes to life in our imagination. Reading turns into an out-of-the-body experience or rather an in-another-body experience for we perceive the portrayed world not only through the protagonist's eyes but also through his ears, nose, tongue, and skin. In other words, we move through the literary text as if through a virtual reality. How does literature achieve this trick? How does it turn mere letters into vividly experienced worlds? This study argues that techniques of sensuous writing contribute decisively to bringing the text to life in the reader's imagination. In detailed interpretations of British novels of the 1980s and 1990s by writers such as John Berger, John Banville, Salman Rushdie, Jeanette Winterson, or J. M. Coetzee, it uncovers literary strategies for turning the sensuous experience into words and for conveying it to the reader, demonstrating how we make sense in and of literature. Both readers interested in the contemporary novel and in the sensuousness of the reading experience will profit from this innovative study that not only analyses the interest of contemporary authors in the senses but also pinpoints literary entry points for the sensuous force of reading.

Landscapes of Memory and Experience Jan Birksted, 2012-12-06 It has been argued that the history of landscape and of gardens has been marginalized from the mainstream of art history and visual studies because of a lack of engagement with the theories, methods, and concepts of these disciplines. This book explores possible ways out of this impasse in such a way that landscape studies would become pivotal through its theoretical advances since landscape studies would challenge the underlying assumptions of traditional phenomenological theory. Thus the history and theory of twentieth-century landscape might not only once again share concepts and methods with contemporary art and design history but might in turn influence them. A complementary sequel to Relating Architecture to Landscape, this volume of essays explores further areas of interest and discussion in the landscape architecture debate and offers contributions from a team of well-known researchers, teachers, and writers. The choice of topics is wide-ranging and features case studies of modern and contemporary schemes from the USA, Far East, and Australasia.

The Aesthetics of Emotion Gerald C. Cupchik, 2016-07-28 Gerald C. Cupchik builds a bridge between science and the humanities, arguing that interactions between mind and body in everyday life are analogous to relations between subject matter and style in art. According to emotional phase theory, emotional reactions emerge in a perfect storm whereby meaningful situations evoke bodily memories that unconsciously shape and unify the experience. Similarly, in expressionist or impressionist painting, an evocative visual style can spontaneously colour the experience and interpretation of subject matter Three basic situational themes encompass complementary pairs of primary emotions attachment happiness sadness assertion fear anger and absorption interest disgust Action episodes in which a person adapts to challenges or seeks to realize goals benefit from energizing bodily responses which focus attention on the situation while providing feedback in the form of pleasure or pain regarding success or failure In high representational paintings style is transparent making it easier to fluently identify subject matter

The Scriblerian and the Kit-Cats, 1995

Beyond 1989 K. Bullivant, 1997-09-01 With the fall of the Berlin Wall in November 1989 four decades of separation seemed to have been brought to an end In the literary arena as in many others this seemed to be the surprising but ultimately logical end to the situation in which after the extreme separation of the two Germanies literatures during most of the period up to 1980 an increasing closeness could be observed during the 1980s as relations between the two German states normalized With the opening up of the East in the Autumn of 1989 claims were being made on the one hand that German literature had never in fact been divided while others were proclaiming the end of East and West German literatures as they had existed and the beginning of a new era This volume examines these claims and other aspects of literary life in the two Germanies since 1945 with the hindsight born of unification in 1990 as well as looking at certain aspects of developments since the fall of the Wall when as on East German put it in 1996 rapprochement came to an end

A Comparative Guide to Sartrean and Deleuzian Selves in Modernist and Post-Modernist Fiction Onur Ekler, 2021-07-12 This book provides insights into the maze of know thyself through a carefully detailed comparative study of the Sartrean no self and the Deleuzian rhizomic self It is informative argumentative and rich in literary context and mainly focuses on the shift in the notion of self from Sartre's elegiac suicidal and nihilistic tone seen pervasively in modernist fiction to the celebratory Deleuzian self in postmodernist fiction To trace this shift the book presents a comparative analysis of selected novels showing that authors like Bellow and Atwood have adopted a more positive attitude toward the self similar to the Deleuzian rhizomic self while authors like Hedayat and Beckett have more reductionist decadent nihilistic views on the self like the Sartrean no self Moreover as argued in the cases of the protagonists in the selected novels this book further asserts that the Deleuzian rhizomic self might be seen as a possible alternative to help one survive in times of crisis in contrast to the nihilistic Sartrean no self

Mimesis and Its Romantic Reflections Frederick Burwick, 2010-11-01 In Romantic theories of art and literature the notion of mimesis defined as art's reflection of the external world became introspective and self reflexive as poets and artists sought to represent the act of creativity itself Frederick Burwick seeks to elucidate this Romantic aesthetic first by offering an understanding of key Romantic mimetic concepts and then by analyzing manifestations of the mimetic process in literary works of the period Burwick explores the mimetic concepts of art for art's sake Idem et Alter and palingenesis of mind as art by drawing on the theories of Philo of Alexandria Aristotle Immanuel Kant Friedrich Schiller Friederich Wilhelm Joseph von Schelling Thomas De Quincey and Germaine de Staël Having established the philosophical bases of these key mimetic concepts Burwick analyzes manifestations of mimesis in the literature of the period including ekphrasis in the work of Thomas De Quincey mirrored images in the poems of Samuel Taylor Coleridge and William Wordsworth and the twice told tale in the novels of Charles Brockden Brown E T A Hoffmann and James Hogg Although artists of this period have traditionally been dismissed in discussions of mimesis Burwick demonstrates that mimetic concepts comprised a major component of the Romantic aesthetic
