Geology of the Pacific Northwest William N. Orr,Elizabeth L. Orr,2006-12-04 The geologic history of the Pacific Northwest is as unique as the region itself Created via tectonic plate movements and accretionary events the original terranes were subsequently covered by sedimentary layers ash lavas and glacial debris These processes begun millions of years ago continue to affect the area as seen in the eruption of Mount St Helens and catastrophic Japanese tsunamis created by earthquakes in the Pacific Northwest Understanding of the regions geology has led to new insight in volcanic eruption prediction disaster preparedness the environmental effects of mining and urban development as it relates to geologic hazards The Orrs detailed and informative writing style appeals to those with geologic training as well as beginners with an interest in the region Each chapter covers a specific subregion allowing for maximum flexibility both in the classroom and for the casual reader The authors central theme that continental plate tectonics are the fundamental processes of Northwest geologic history permeates throughout the book

Indigenous Language Education in Critical Times Julieta Briseño-Roa,Paulina Griño,Vanessa Anthony-Stevens,José Antonio Flores Farfán,2025-05-28 This book builds a space in which a diversity of voices Indigenous teachers activists and committed academics are foregrounded in the processes of Indigenous education with the goal of Indigenous language reclamation It decenters state systems of education e g schooling and instead considers the efforts of teachers defined broadly community activists and scholars who are developing initiatives to support Indigenous language practices in around and beyond schooling thereby emphasizing diverse processes of language reclamation in complex and varied settings The authors invite the reader to reconsider language reclamation in the face of climate change and neocolonial exploitation offering a source of radical hope for the future Central to the book are narratives regarding community based collaborations which subvert the
