Made in Washington Clarence D. Palmby,1985 Agricultural Economics Research ,1986 The Journal of Agricultural Economics Research ,1988 The Failure of National Rural Policy William Paul Browne,2001 Modern farm policy emerged in the United States in 1862 leading to an industrialized agriculture that made the farm sector collectively more successful even as many individual farmers failed Ever since a healthy farm economy has been seen as the key to flourishing rural communities and the problems of rural nonfarmers former farmers nonfarm residents and unfarmed regions were ignored by policymakers In The Failure of National Rural Policy William P Browne blends history politics and economics to show that federal government emphasis on farm productivity has failed to meet broader rural needs and actually has increased rural poverty He explains how strong public institutions which developed agrarianism led to narrowed concepts of the public interest Reviewing past efforts to expand farm policy benefits to other rural residents Browne documents the fragmentation of farm policy within the agricultural establishment as farm services grew the evolution of political turf protection and the resultant difficulties of rural advocacy Arguing for an integrated theory of governing institutions and related political interests he maintains that nonfarm rural society can make a realistic claim for public policy assistance Written informally each chapter is followed by comments on the implications of its topics and summaries of key points The book will serve as a stimulating text for students of public policy national affairs rural sociology and community development as well as anyone concerned with the future of agrarian America Gaining Access John Mark Hansen,1991-11 Through a comprehensive analysis of American agricultural politics in the past half century Gaining Access shows when how and why interest groups gain and lose influence in the policy deliberations of the United States Congress By consulting with policy advocates John Mark Hansen argues lawmakers offset their uncertainty about the policy stands that will bolster or impede their prospects for reelection The advocates provide legislators with electoral intelligence in Washington and supportive propaganda at home earning serious consideration of their policy views in return From among a multitude of such informants representatives must choose those they will most closely consult With evidence from congressional hearings personal interviews oral histories farm and trade journals and newspapers Hansen traces the evolution of farm lobby access in Congress He chronicles the rise and fall of the American Farm Bureau the surge and decline of party politics the incorporation of the commodity lobbies the exclusion of the consumer lobbies and the accommodation of urban interests in food stamps Brilliantly combining insights from rational choice theory with historical data Gaining Access is an essential guide for anyone interested in the dynamics of interest group influence The Agricultural Education Magazine ,1986 Agriculture/libraries South Dakota State Library,1989 The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1985 Bowker's Law Books and Serials in Print ,1986 Food, Development, and Politics in the Middle East Marvin G. Weinbaum,2015-07-24 As the reality of a food deficit emerged in the Middle East rural society and the agricultural sector

once viewed as peripheral to national development swiftly rose up the policy agendas of nearly every Middle East country. This book first published in 1982 looks at the complex interrelationships of food production development schemes and politics in those countries. Dr Weinbaum considers the origins, nature, scope and political dimensions of the potential food shortfall and explores how food deficits could lead to changed international relations among states in the Middle East. He specifically examines the physical and technological limitations to increased food production, then assesses the major social, economic and political hurdles in the way of agricultural development, the effects of and pressures for agrarian reform, the bureaucratic policymaking process and the domestic impact of foreign assistance policies. He concludes with an examination of the linkage between food supply availability and political stability.
