The Archaeology of the Early Islamic Settlement in Palestine Jodi Magness, 2003-06-30 There is a common perception that the Muslim conquest of Palestine in the seventh century caused a decline in the number and prosperity of settlements throughout the country The role played by archaeology in perpetuating this view claims Magness is particularly insidious because it is perceived rightly or wrongly as providing scientific and therefore objective data Thus archaeological evidence is frequently cited by scholars as proof or confirmation that Palestine declined after the Muslim conquest and especially after the rise of the Abbasids in the mid eighth century Instead Magness argues that the archaeological evidence freed insofar as possible of political and or religious biases supports the idea that Palestine and Syria experienced a tremendous growth in population and prosperity between the mid sixth and mid seventh centuries Such a radical shift in the interpretation of the evidence guarantees that this volume will be a benchmark with which future interpretations must reckon The book includes a CD with map and key which provides additional information regarding the sites studied and the area examined DK Eyewitness Jerusalem, Israel and the Palestinian Territories DK

A Companion to the Archaeology of the Ancient Near East D. T. Potts, 2012-08-15

A COMPANION TO THE ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE ANCIENT NEAR EAST

A Companion to the Archaeology of the Ancient Near East is a comprehensive and authoritative overview of ancient material culture from the late Pleistocene to Late Antiquity. This expansive two-volume work includes 58 new essays from an international community of ancient Near East scholars. With coverage extending from Asia Minor, the eastern Mediterranean, and Egypt to the Caucasus, Central Asia, and the Indo-Iranian borderlands, the book highlights the enormous variation in cultural developments across roughly 11,000 years of human endeavor. In addition to chapters devoted to specific regions and particular periods, many contributors concentrate on individual industries and major themes in ancient Near Eastern archaeology, ranging from metallurgy and agriculture to irrigation and fishing. Controversial issues, including the nature and significance of the antiquities market, ethical considerations in archaeological praxis, the history of the foundation of departments of antiquities, and ancient attitudes towards the past, make this a unique collection of studies that will be of interest to scholars, students, and interested readers alike.

Revolutions in the Desert Steven Rosen, 2016-11-25

Revolutions in the Desert investigates the development of pastoral nomadism in the arid regions of the ancient Near East, challenging the prevailing notion that such societies left few remains appropriate for analytic study. Few prior studies have approached the deeper past of desert nomadic societies, which have been primarily recognized only as a complement to the study of sedentary agricultural societies in the region. Based on decades of archaeological field work in the Negev of southern Israel, both excavations and surveys, and integrating materials from adjacent regions, Revolutions in the Desert offers a deeper and more dynamic view of the rise of herding societies beyond the settled zone. Rosen offers the first archaeological analysis of the rise of herding in the desert from the first introduction of domestic goats and sheep into the arid zones more than eight millennia ago to the evolution of more recent Bedouin societies The adoption of domestic herds by hunter gatherer societies contemporary with and peripheral to the first farming settlements revolutionized all aspects of desert life including subsistence trade cult social organization and ecology Inviting processual comparison to the agricultural revolution and the secondary spread of domestication beyond the Near East this volume traces the evolution of nomadic societies in the archaeological record and examines their ecological economic and social adaptations to the deserts of the Southern Levant With maps and illustrations from the author s own collection Revolutions in the Desert is a thoughtful and engaging approach to the archaeology of desert nomadic societies Cyber-Archaeology and Grand Narratives Thomas E. Levy, Ian W. N.

Jones, 2017-11-21 This volume asks how the current Information Technology Revolution influences archaeological interpretations of techno social change Does cyber archaeology provide a way to breathe new life into grand narratives of technological revolution and culture change or does it further challenge these high level theoretical explanations Do digital recording methods have the potential to create large regional scale databases to ease investigation of high level theoretical issues or have they simply exposed deeper issues of archaeological practice that prevent this In short this volume cuts beyond platitudes about the revolutionary potential of the Information Technology Revolution and instead critically engages both its possibilities and limitations The contributions to this volume are drawn from long term regional studies employing a cyber archaeology framework primarily in the southern Levant a region with rich archaeological data sets spanning the Paleolithic to the present day As such contributors are uniquely placed to comment on the interface between digital methods and grand narratives of long term techno social change Cyber Archaeology and Grand Narratives provides a much needed challenge to current approaches and a first step toward integrating innovative digital methods with archaeological theory
