Mapping Modernities Geography Of Central And Eastern Europe:

Mapping Modernities Alan Dingsdale, 2013-02-01 When the communist governments of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union collapsed between 1989 and 1991 there was a revived interest in a region that had been largely neglected by western geographers Mapping Modernities draws on the resulting work and other original theoretical and empirical sources to describe interpret and explain the place and spatial order of modernities in Central and Eastern Europe since 1920 to give a theoretically underpinned regional geography of the area The book interprets the geography of Central and Eastern Europe from 1920 to 2000 in terms of spatial modernity It details the individual and collective development of places produced within the three modernising projects of Nationalism Communism and Neo liberalism The Human Geography of East Central Europe David Turnock, 2003-10-04 The Human Geography of East Central Europe examines the geography of the transition economies that were not formerly part of the Soviet Union Albania Bosnia Hercegovina Bulgaria Croatia The Czech Republic Hungary Macedonia Poland Romania Slovakia Slovenia Yugoslavia and East Germany There is a thematic treatment beginning with the landscape and historical background which moves on to the social and economic geography industry agriculture and infrastructure and to issues concerning regional development and environmental protection Mapping Modernities Alan Dingsdale, 2002 Private Cities , Rural Governance Lynda Cheshire, Vaughan Higgins, Geoffrey Lawrence, 2006-12-05 This book critically explores the social causes and consequences of emerging governance arrangements In particular the book moves beyond questions of empowerment in governance debates to consider how new kinds of power relations arise between the various actors involved Cross-Continental Agro-Food Chains Niels Fold, Bill Pritchard, 2005-04-25 Filling a gap in contemporary food and globalization scholarship this timely book for both academics and professionals presents recent case study research on the globalization of food systems and the impacts for communities around the world Rural-Urban Dynamics Jytte Agergaard, Niels Fold, Katherine Gough, 2009-09-11 It has increasingly been recognised that rural and urban areas are inextricably interlinked This book adopts a fresh approach to the issue of rural urban dynamics through a study of the changing nature of livelihoods mobility and markets in ten study sites across four countries of Africa and Asia Building on detailed fieldwork conducted in Ghana Tanzania Vietnam and Thailand the authors explore how settlements and livelihoods are being transformed as long term inhabitants and recent migrants embrace new economic activities many of which are linked to global markets The book is structured around the concept of frontier which is conceptualized as being a dynamic space where the forces of economic demographic and social change are brought to bear The study sites include agricultural frontiers coffee cocoa pineapples and fresh fruit handicraft and manufacturing frontiers and mining frontiers gold and diamonds In all of the cases global value chain dynamics have played a pivotal role in shaping local livelihoods Some settlements are developing into new urban centres whilst others are suffering from a boom and bust experience due to the unreliability of export markets The similarities and differences between the frontier settlements are drawn out by comparing frontiers of similar types and by highlighting the theoretical and policy implications of the findings from all the frontier types The originality of the book lies in its combination of conceptual clarity methodological coherence and empirical richness By combining detailed empirical findings with theoretical insight from debates on livelihoods global value chains mobility patterns settlement dynamics and rural urban relations the book sheds new light on these issues within an overall framework of development trajectories in Africa and Asia Given scholars and international agencies current interest in the spatial dimensions of economic development this contribution is particularly timely with its fresh geographical approach to development issues this book is a pertinent and authoritative read for anyone researching or learning in the field of development

Participatory Action Research Approaches and Methods Sara Kindon, Rachel Pain, Mike Kesby, 2007-12-18 This book examines the justification theorization practice and implications of Participatory Action Research approaches and methods in the social and environmental sciences

Intergenerational Space Robert Vanderbeck, Nancy Worth, 2015-06-03 Intergenerational Space offers insight into the transforming relationships between younger and older members of contemporary societies The chapter selection brings together scholars from around the world in order to address pressing questions both about the nature of contemporary generational divisions as well as the complex ways in which members of different generations are and can be involved in each other's lives These questions include how do particular kinds of spaces and spatial arrangements e.g. cities neighbourhoods institutions leisure sites facilitate and limit intergenerational contact and encounters What processes and spaces influence the intergenerational negotiation and contestation of values beliefs and social memory producing patterns of both continuity and change And if generational separation and segregation are in fact significant social problems across a range of contexts as a significant body of research and commentary attests how can this be ameliorated The chapters in this collection make original contributions to these debates drawing on original research from Belgium China Finland Poland Senegal Singapore Tanzania Uganda the United States and the United Kingdom

Fieldwork in the Global South Jenny Lunn, 2014-03-26 Choosing to do fieldwork overseas particularly in the Global South is a challenge in itself The researcher faces logistical complications health and safety issues cultural differences language barriers and much more But permeating the entire fieldwork experience are a range of mediating ethical issues While many researchers seek to follow institutional and disciplinary guidelines on ethical research practice the reality is that each situation is unique and the individual researcher must negotiate their own path through a variety of ethical challenges and dilemmas This book was created to share such experiences to serve not as a manual for ethical practice but rather as a place for reflection and mutual learning Since ethical issues face the researcher at every turn and cannot be compartmentalized into one part of the research process this book puts them at the very center of the discussion and uses them as the lens with which to view different stages of fieldwork The book covers four thematic areas ethical challenges in the field ethical dimensions of researcher identity ethical issues relating to research methods and ethical dilemmas of engagement with a variety of actors This volume also provides fresh insights by drawing on the experiences of research students rather than those of established academics The contributors describe research conducted for their master s degrees and doctorates offering honest and self critical reflections on how they negotiated ethical challenges and dilemmas The chapters cover fieldwork carried out in countries across Africa Asia and Latin America on a broad sweep of development related topics This book should have wide appeal to undergraduates postgraduates and early career researchers working under the broad umbrella of development studies Although focused on fieldwork in the Global South the discussions and reflections are relevant to field research in many other countries and contexts Locating Right to the City in the Global South Tony Roshan Samara,Shenjing He,Guo Chen,2013 Drawing from scholars with extensive fieldwork experience this volume covers sixteen cities in fourteen countries across a belt stretching from Latin America to Africa and the Middle East and into Asia Central to what binds these cities are deeply rooted complex and dynamic processes of social and spatial division that are being actively reproduced These cities are not so much fracturing as they are being divided by governance practices informed by local histories and political contestation and refracted through or infused by market based approaches to urban development Through a close examination of these practices and resistance to them this volume provides perspectives on neoliberalism and right to the city that advance our understanding of urbanism in the Global South Whose Urban Renaissance? Libby Porter,Kate Shaw,2009-01-13 The desire of governments for a renaissance of their cities is a defining feature of contemporary urban policy From Melbourne and Toronto to Johannesburg and Istanbul government policies are successfully attracting investment and middle class populations to their inner areas Regeneration or gentrification as it can often become produces winners and losers There is a substantial literature on the causes and unequal effects of gentrification and on the global and local conditions driving processes of dis and re investment But there is little examination of the actual strategies used to achieve urban regeneration what were their intents did they succeed and if not why not and what were the specific consequences Whose Urban Renaissance asks who benefits from these urban transformations The book contains beautifully written and accessible stories from researchers and activists in 21 cities across Europe North and South America Asia South Africa the Middle East and Australia each exploring a specific case of urban regeneration Some chapters focus on government or market strategies driving the regeneration process and look closely at the effects Others look at the local contingencies that influence the way these strategies work Still others look at instances of opposition and struggle and at policy interventions that were used in some places to ameliorate the inequities of gentrification Working from these stories the editors develop a comparative analysis of regeneration strategies with nuanced assessments of local constraints and counteracting policy responses The concluding chapters provide a critical comparison of existing strategies and open new directions for more equitable policy approaches in the future Whose Urban Renaissance is targeted at students academics planners policy makers and activists The book is unique in its geographical breadth and its constructive policy emphasis offering a succinct critical and timely exploration of urban regeneration strategies throughout the world

Imagined Regional Communities James D. Sidaway, 2003-08-29 Imagined Regional Communities provides an original approach to thinking about the processes of regional integration Focusing mostly on communities in Africa Asia and Latin America it develops detailed case studies based on archives interviews and critical readings of existing texts These case studies are related to each other and the overall themes of the book so that a set of narratives and theoretical elaborations emerge that critically reformulate understandings of regional communities statehood and sovereignty

Global Geographies of Post-Socialist Transition Tassilo Herrschel, 2006-09-27 Since the formal raising of the Iron Curtain there has been much interest in post socialism and the process of post socialist transition This timely book provides a systematic review and analysis of the process of transition Herrschel explores recent theories concepts and debates on post socialism and the notion of transition provides a systematic topical account of post socialist transitions around the world as evidence by social economic and political processes examines case studies of post socialist transition in east and Central Europe the former Soviet Union Asia and South East Asia and Africa and Latin America brings together theoretical and practical aspects by examining what lessons can be learned from recent experiences Global Geographies of Post Socialist Transition provides a truly global comparative account of the meaning and processes of post socialist transition and will be an invaluable resource for all those interested in this area

The Politics of Urban Cultural Policy Carl Grodach, Daniel Silver, 2013 The Politics of Urban Cultural Policy brings together a range of international experts to critically analyze the ways that governmental actors and non governmental entities attempt to influence the production and implementation of urban policies directed at the arts culture and creative activity Presenting a global set of case studies that span five continents and 22 cities the essays in this book advance our understanding of how the dynamic interplay between economic and political context institutional arrangements and social networks affect urban cultural policy making and the ways that these policies impact urban development and influence urban governance The volume comparatively studies urban cultural policy making in a diverse set of contexts analyzes the positive and negative outcomes of policy for different constituencies and identifies the most effective policy directions emerging political challenges and most promising opportunities for building effective cultural policy coalitions The volume provides a comprehensive and in depth engagement with the political process of urban cultural policy and urban development studies around the world It will be of interest to students and researchers interested in urban planning urban studies and cultural studies

Climate Change and the Crisis of Capitalism Mark Pelling, David Manuel-Navarrete, Michael Redclift, 2012-08-21 Are established economic social and political practices capable of dealing with the combined crises of climate change and the global economic system Will falling back on the wisdoms that contributed to the crisis help us to find ways forward or simply reconfigure risk in another guise This volume argues that the combination of global environmental change and global economic restructuring require a re thinking of the priorities processes and underlying values that shape contemporary development aspirations and policy This volume brings together leading scholars to address these questions from several disciplinary perspectives environmental sociology human geography international development systems thinking political sciences philosophy economics and policy management science The book is divided into four sections that examine contemporary development discourses and practices It bridges geographical and disciplinary divides and includes chapters on innovative governance that confront unsustainable economic and environmental relations in both developing and developed contexts It emphasises the ways in which dominant development paths have necessarily forced a separation of individuals from nature but also from society and even from self These three levels of alienation each form a thread that runs through the book There are different levels and opportunities for a transition towards resilience raising questions surrounding identity governance and ecological management This places resilience at the heart of the contemporary crisis of capitalism and speaks to the relationship between the increasingly global forms of economic development and the difficulties in framing solutions to the environmental problems that carbon based development brings in its wake Existing social science can help in not only identifying the challenges but also potential pathways for making change locally and in wider political economic and cultural systems but it must do so by identifying transitions out of carbon dependency and the kind of political challenges they imply for reflexive individuals and alternative community approaches to human security and wellbeing Climate Change and the Crisis of Capitalism contains contributions from leading scholars to produce a rich and cohesive set of arguments from a range of theoretical and empirical viewpoints It analyses the problem of resilience under existing circumstances but also goes beyond this to seek ways in which resilience can provide a better pathway and template for a more sustainable future This volume will be of interest to both undergraduate and postgraduate students studying Human Geography Environmental Policy and Politics

Citizenships, Contingency and the Countryside Gavin Parker, 2003-08-29 Citizenships Contingency and the Countryside defines citizenship in relation to the rural environment The book expands and explores a widened conceptualization of citizenship and sets out a range of examples where citizenship at different scales has been expressed in and over the rural environment Part of the analysis includes a review of the political construction and use of citizenship rhetoric over the past 20 years alongside an historical and theoretical discussion of citizenship and rights in the British countryside The text concludes with a call to recognise and incorporate the multiple voices and interests in decision making that all affect the British countryside

The Spatial Turn Barney Warf, Santa Arias, 2008-09-18 Across the disciplines the study of space has undergone a profound and sustained transformation Space place mapping and geographical imaginations have become commonplace topics in a variety of analytical fields in part because globalization has accentuated the significance of location While this transformation has led to a renaissance in human geography it also has manifested itself in the humanities and other social sciences The purpose of this book is not to announce that space is significant which by now is well known but to explore how space is analyzed by a variety of disciplines to compare and contrast these approaches identify commonalities and explore how and why differences appear The volume includes works by 13 scholars from a variety of geographical regions and disciplines The chapters combine up to date literature reviews concerning the role of space in each discipline and several offer original empirical analyses Some chapters are concerned with Geography while others explore the role of space in contemporary Anthropology Sociology Religion Political Science Film and Cultural Studies The introduction surveys the development of the spatial turn across the fields under consideration Despite frequent reference to the spatial turn this is the first volume to explicitly address how theory and practice concerning space is used in a variety of fields from diverse conceptual perspectives This book will appeal to everyone conducting conceptual and theoretical research on space not simply in Geography but in related fields as well

Poverty and the Third Way Colin C Williams, Colin C. Williams, Jan Windebank, 2003-08-29 The subject of poverty and how it can be tackled is a significant issue at the moment both in the UK and the US This book provides a thought provoking new approach to the subject developing a method which transcends capitalism and socialism Wide ranging audience human geography social policy sociology economics etc also practitioners in fields of community development and local economic development International market written as much for the North American market as for the UK and European

The Differentiated Countryside Philip Lowe, Terry Marsden and, Jonathan Murdoch, Neil Ward, 2005-07-08 Using an innovative theoretical approach based on networks of conventions the book investigates the regionalisation of the English countryside through case studies of the preserved the contested and the paternalistic countryside
