Maps For Local Historians A Guide To The British Sources:

Historian's Guide to Early British Maps Helen Wallis, Anita McConnell, 1995-04-06 Great Britain and Ireland enjoy a rich cartographic heritage yet historians have not made full use of early maps in their writings and research This is partly due to a lack of information about exactly which maps are available With the publication of this volume from the Royal Historical Society we now have a comprehensive guide to the early maps of Great Britain The book is divided into two parts part one describes the history and purpose of maps in a series of short essays on the early mapping of the British Isles part two comprises a guide to the collections national and regional Now available from Cambridge University Press this volume provides an essential reference tool for anyone requiring to access maps of the British Isles dating back to the medieval period and beyond

Studies of Field Systems in the British Isles Alan R. H. Baker, 1973-07-19 An enormous amount of research into British field systems has been undertaken by historical geographers economic historians and others since H L Gray s classic work on English Field Systems was published This book both synthesizes and advances our knowledge of field systems in the British Isles

Maps and Map-making in Local History Jacinta Prunty, 2004 This book introduces the local history practitioner to the world of maps the special character and appeal of maps as an historical source why they are invaluable in local history research and questions that must be asked of them The historical background to map creation in Ireland is outlined with details on the major classes of cartographic and associated material and the repositories wherein they may be found The Plantation series travel and county maps maps as part of published reports and journals military mapping estate and property mapping and maritime maps historic Ordnance Survey and Valuation Office maps and more recent OS mapping including the 1 50 000 Discovery series are discussed A section on essential map reading skills including matters of scale representation and accuracy will help equip the researcher to explore this coded world Step by step guidance for starting out to locate maps relevant to one s study area is provided Case studies of working with maps in local history are offered as practical examples of what can be done and guidelines for map making are also included

The Relations of History and Geography Henry Clifford Darby, 2002 This set of twelve previously unpublished essays on historical geography written by Darby in the 1960s explains the basis of his ideas The essays are divided into three quartets of studies relating to England France and the United States

Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain s landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved Fundamentals of Cartography (Second Revised and Enlarged Edition) R.P. Misra, 2014-01-01 The first edition of Fundamentals of Cartography was published in 1969 by Prasara University of Mysore It was reprinted by the Concept Publishing Company New Delhi in While the book remained in currency the cartographic processes changed drastically when information technology brought a sea of change in the sources of information drafting of maps and printing processes Drawing maps by hand became obsolete surveying whether ground or aerial was no longer the only major source of information In view of these changes it became necessary to bring out a new edition Realising that unless one knows directions scales projections coordinates ground and air surveys one would fail to understand the proper use of modern information technology in the drawing the maps Thus the contents of 1969 edition are retained and new chapters have been added to update the book In Part II of the book a chapter on Remote Sensing and Satellite Imagery has been added and Part V contains chapters on Computer Aided Cartography Geographic Information System GIS Land Information System LIS and Global Positioning System GPS

Maps for the Local Historian John Brian Harley, 1972 English Historical Documents, 1189-1327 David Charles Douglas, Harry Rothwell, 1996 This is a collection of documents on English history Editorial comment is directed towards making sources intelligible rather than drawing conclusions from them Full account has been taken of modern textual criticism A general introduction to each volume portrays the character of the period under review and critical bibliographies have been added to assist further investigation Documents collected include treaties personal letters statutes military dispatches diaries declarations newspaper articles government and cabinet proceedings orders acts sermons pamphlets agricultural instructions charters grants guild regulations and voting records Volumes include genealogical tables lists of officials chronologies diagrams graphs and maps The Local Historian, 1968 The New Nature of Maps J. B. Harley, 2002-10-03 In these essays the author draws on ideas in art history literature philosophy and the study of visual culture to subvert the traditional positivist model of cartography and replace it with one grounded in an iconological and semiotic theory of the nature of maps From Sea Charts to Satellite Images David Buisseret, 1990-06-22 The authors write authoritatively and crisply How to use maps in teaching is spelled out carefully but the authors also manage to sketch in the background of American mapping so the book is both a manual and a history Commentaries are sprinkled with stimulating new ideas for instance on how to use bird's eye views and country atlases in the classroom and there are didactic discussions on maps showing the walking city and the impact of the street car An extraordinarily wide range of maps is depicted which makes for good browsing pondering and close study This is a very good highly attractive and worthwhile book it will have great impact on the use of old and new maps in teaching As well this is a tantalizing survey of mapping the United States and will whet the appetites of students and encourage them to learn more about maps and their origins John Warkentin

Mills,2016-06-17 First published in 1980 this book looks at the social structure of 18th and 19th century rural Britain It is particularly concerned with the relationship of landlord and peasant in the rural village and examines the open closed model of English rural social structure in great depth In doing so it explores the ways in which the estate system influenced urban development and how the peasant system facilitated the industrialisation of many villages This book will be of particular interest to students of Victorian and social history industrialisation and urbanisation Researching Local History Stuart A. Raymond,2022-09-08 How has the place we live in changed developed and grown over the centuries That is the basic question local historians seek to answer The answer is to be found in the sources of information that previous generations have left us The records of parish county and diocesan administration of the courts of the national government and of private estates all have something to tell us about the history of the locality we are interested in So do old newspapers and other publications All of these sources are readily available but many have been little used Local historians come from a wide diversity of backgrounds But whether you are a student researching a dissertation a family historian interested in the wider background history of your family a teacher a librarian an archivist an academic or are merely interested in the history of your own area this book is for you If you want to research local history you need a detailed account of the myriad sources readily available This book provides a comprehensive overview of those sources and its guidance will enable you to explore and exploit their vast range It poses the questions which local historians ask and identifies the specific sources likely to answer those questions The Compleat Plattmaker Norman J. W. Thrower,2023-11-10 The Compleat Plattmaker is a rich collection of essays delving into the art and science of cartography in England during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Drawing upon the extensive resources of the William Andrews Clark Memorial Library at UCLA this volume offers insights into the intricate world of map chart and globe creation a field that blended artistry geography and scientific inquiry during a transformative period of exploration and intellectual development The essays examine the evolution of cartographic practices focusing on key figures like Edmond Halley a pioneer in thematic mapping and the Thames School of chartmakers whose work bridged the transition from manuscript to printed maps Topics include advancements in surveying and engraving techniques the role of colonial mapping in expanding geographic knowledge and the interplay between scientific innovation and artistic expression Compiled from the Clark Library s programs and seminars this volume is a testament to the interdisciplinary exploration of cartography and its enduring impact on cultural and scientific history This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1978 Guide to Reference in Genealogy and Biography Mary K. Mannix,Fred Burchsted,2015-01-14 Profiling more than 1400 print and electronic sources this book helps connect librarians and researchers to the most relevant sources of information in genealogy and biography Maps and History in South-West England Katherine Barker, 1991 This volume of essays considers the practical and political purposes for which maps were used the symbolic and ideological roles of maps in the history of South Western England and the ways in which map evidence can be used to recover facts about the past for use in the writing of history It is accompanied by 43 pages of maps and illustrations
